Uncle J. W. Berger was quite ill for a short time and was kept to his bed on last Sunday, but was some better and was able to be out again.

Jess Fitchhorn, who makes his home in Wyoming, was a visitor here for a week or so, departed for his home in the west on Monday of this week.

The ladies of the Christian church will serve their annual Thanksgiving dinner and supper at the church Thursday, Nov. 26. Dinner 25c. Supper 25c.

The Hild elevator has been receiving and shipping a considerable amount of corn of late, some of which was old corn and a good portion of this year's crop as well. Ed Melsinger of near Mynard was in to sell a car load of the yellow cereal.

Wm. James, who has been confined to his home and bed on account of illness, still remains very poorly. Everything possible is being done to contribute to his comfort and to restore his health but without avail. He still remains quite poorly.

Uncle S. D. Fitchhorn, making his home north of the town site of Old Rock Bluffs, where his farms, has been in very poor health for the past several weeks and was taken to the Immanuel hospital at Omaha where he has been receiving treatment for pneumonia, and still remains in a very serious condition.

Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Rithu were enjoying a visit at the home of their friend, Mrs. Maude Bunch on last Sunday, when there was a gathering of friends to celebrate the passing of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Bunch. They were accompanied by Miss Geraldine Russell, one of the teachers of the Union schools.

On last Sunday the family of Fout T. Wilson and also accompanied by little Imogene Wortham, were over to Omaha for the day where they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Queen, the former being a brother of Mrs. Wilson. They sure enjoyed the visit very much and returned home late in the evening.

Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, November 22nd. By L. Neitzel

Paul in Rome.

Acts 28:16-24, 30, 31.

Bible students will find this the most interesting lesson of the series, in the life of Paul. We must follow him from Jerusalem to Rome. As God assured Paul (Acts 23:11) that he was well pleased with Paul's conduct at Jerusalem, he would see to it that he would get safely to Rome. The interesting details of the intermediate part are as follows: Two years elapse before he sees Rome. First, forty Jews swore that they would neither eat nor drink until they had killed the preacher of righteousness; they were outwitted, for Claudius Lysias the chief captain did his part, with an escort of two hundred seventy-six soldiers, he sent Paul by night to Caesarea; God provided a safe journey for Paul, and his enemies had to pay the fare of Paul to Rome. Three formal hearings are given Paul while in Caesarea. All the details are given, beginning with Act 23, 11 to the end of the book. There are plenty of thrills as you journey with Paul through the stormy Mediterranean. The captain and centurion could give a good and favorable report of this remarkable prisoner, who could direct the navigation of a vessel, shake off a poisonous reptile, standing alone against a mutinous crew and soldiers, encouraging men to eat and keep up their strength that they would need during the shipwreck. After many months Paul lands in Rome. Who can describe the feelings of Paul that he experienced, when he came in sight of the imperial city! Undoubtedly by the favorable report of the captain and centurion privileges are granted Paul to live in his own hired house, and that his friends have access to him, only that a Roman guard was always near; this gave him an opportunity to preach to the soldiers, who were changed frequently during the day. After three days in Rome, he calls a meeting of the chief Jews and puts his case before them; they were well impressed by his presentation and arranged for another meeting, that brought together a great number and

Last week George Nickles received a car of Spadra coal which was sold from the car and also the residue was unloaded and stored in the bins but the amount was not great that had to be delivered. Also during the same time at the Hild elevator there was received a car load of coal which they sold a large amount of and unloaded the remainder. During the season thus far the coal which has been shipped has not remained long as many wanted coal.

Moves On To Farm.

Chester Sporer and wife on last Monday moved to the farm which they recently purchased and what is known as the Mrs. David Amick place. Chester had made the purchase and with the conclusion of the gathering of the corn on the place where he has been making his home, they moved in order to get settled before the coming of winter and also to be ready for the spring work when the winter is gone.

Mrs. Henry C. Long Poorly.

Mrs. Henry C. Long has been very poorly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Nickles and is requiring much care at this time. Mrs. Bertha Shrader of Omaha was sent for to come and assist in the care of the mother. Everything is being done for the patient in both the line of treatment by the physician and also as to the nursing.

Drove Out From Chicago.

Earl Jenkins of Chicago drove out from his home in the windy city, coming to visit with friends and relatives here and especially to visit with his mother. After a short visit covering only a few days, Mr. Jenkins departed on last Monday afternoon for his home in the east.

Entertained for Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sporer entertained at their home in Murray on Sunday and had as their guests the Sporer family, consisting of Martin Sporer and family, Chester Sporer and family and Charles Sporer, all enjoying the gathering very much.

Look to Mellon to Map Out Plan of New Revenue

President Expected to Follow Advice of Secretary of Treasury—Faces Deficit of Billion

Washington—Congressional leaders Tuesday set about the disagreeable business of determining who shall pay the increased taxation necessary to wipe out another billion dollar deficit this year. Democratic chieftains joined the republican bloc in peering into the financial status of the American pocketbook, for it became certain that President Hoover is going to follow a recommendation by Secretary Mellon for new revenue. While Mr. Mellon guarded his program, Capital Hill leaders focused on the big incomes—those from $20,000 upwards—as the first objective for additional money. Increased rates for the large inheritances also appeared certain. Restoration of the gift tax looked like the third point in the plan.

Some form of sales tax, applying only to luxuries, came under discussion and seemed likely to be made a part of the new revenue scheme. The administration wants to raise about 800 millions by new taxation. It is content to meet the remainder of the deficit by borrowing, in the belief that return of prosperity will wipe out this margin hereafter. Representative Hawley of Oregon, the republican chairman of the house ways and means committee last session, came back to the capital still unconvinced new taxation was unavoidable. That was before he called on Mr. Mellon. The political leaders don't like the idea of raising taxes on the eve of a presidential campaign, but Mr. Mellon has his fingers to contend with and he is getting very restless over a second consecutive billion dollar deficit.

Taking the cue from the announcement by republican leaders that further taxation is "inevitable," the democratic organizers are busying themselves. If the democrats control the house it will be up to them to originate the new tax bill. Senator Harrison, ranking democrat on the finance committee, called in the treasury actuary experts to get the facts. He has consistently opposed new taxation at this session. Senator Watson, the republican leader, also has opposed tax legislation now, but he said that such a step is inevitable.

A clue to the possible plans of the administration was seen in a proposal advanced by Senator Reed, high ranking republican on the finance committee, who usually sees eye to eye with Mr. Mellon on fiscal affairs. The Pennsylvania advocated an excise tax on as broad a base as possible, excluding necessities.

"I would like to see it extend as far as possible and at as low a rate as possible," he said.—State Journal.

Rains in the Southwest In-still Confidence

Outlook for Business Is Said to Be Brighter—Winter Wheat Crops Now Are Assured.

Kansas City—Million dollar rains have come to the southwest to bring increased business confidence. On the heels of price upturns in wheat, cotton and oil which, despite reactions, continue definitely reassuring, they have swelled a reborn spirit of optimism, stimulated employment and encouraged merchants. The territory which produces a large share of the wool, oil and cotton, the mainstays of its prosperity therefore affecting the basic foodstuffs, clothing and transportation industries, celebrated widely two weeks ago the coming of 85 cent oil, 50 cent wheat and stronger cotton prices. Business commentators said the first evidence of the ground swell of a new prosperity.

The rains, while not entirely a blessing, have replenished water supplies, renewed winter grazing and assured winter wheat crops. They fell in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas and evidence of the plentifulness of moisture is seen in the fact that, at Alva, in northwestern Oklahoma, the fall was 4.66 inches in thirty-six hours.

Prices Are Depressed.

One effect of the downpour was depression of wheat prices in the principal markets of the midwest, where very few prospects had been a bullish factor but the feeling was generally that gains to the livestock industries and assurance of good 1932 crops had more than overcome the setback. As fluctuating commodity prices edged upward, potatoes where the output is 900,000 barrels daily and about half as much to Oklahoma. It put men back at work in the oil fields and refineries and began a reassuring flow of oil tax money into state coffers. Thanks to wheat, oil and cotton activities, Texas was showing a gradual increase in employment for the first time in two years.—State Journal.

Oil Prices Are Better.

Increased crude oil prices, which jumped to an 85 cent top in the mid continent area two weeks ago, after having fallen as low as 10 and 15 cents a barrel a few months ago, continued to be paid by the principal companies. This meant about half a million dollars more a day to Texas where the output is 900,000 barrels daily and about half as much to Oklahoma. It put men back at work in the oil fields and refineries and began a reassuring flow of oil tax money into state coffers.

Thanks to wheat, oil and cotton activities, Texas was showing a gradual increase in employment for the first time in two years.—State Journal.

INCREASE IOWA POTATO CROP

Des Moines, Nov. 17.—A total production of 4,675,000 bushels of potatoes this year in Iowa is 125,000 bushels more than the 1930 yield. This estimated figure, given in a report by R. E. Herrick of the Iowa State Horticultural society, indicates an average yield of all white potatoes of 55 bushels an acre.

Sweet potatoes are estimated to have yielded 106 bushels an acre for a total crop of 200,000 bushels, compared to 300,000 bushels last year.

The total production of 2,290,000 bushels of apples is indicated. Of this 92,000 bushels are estimated as the commercial crop. Last year's yield was 1,272,000 bushels.

Here, gives the estimated total production of pears as 52,500 bushels. He estimates a grape crop totaling 5,500 tons, compared to 4,563 tons last year.

The condition of late cabbage at the time of harvest was estimated at 55 per cent of normal, and the average yield is estimated at 3.6 tons an acre.

Cattle Being Fed is Below the Average

Figures Show That But Seventy-five Per Cent of Those Few Last Year Now in State

Shipments of feeder cattle into Nebraska are much below those of last year according to E. V. Jones, Asst. Agr. Statistician. The small movement during September and October show the number of cattle now on feed to be only 70 or 80% of the number on feed this date last year. Cattle shipments into the Corn Belt to date was 2% smaller than last year and 9% smaller than the 5-year average.

Although shipments into Nebraska during July and August were above the small in-movement during those months in 1930, the greatly reduced in-shipments during September and October reduced the total receipts for the period July to October inclusive, to only 75% or 80% of the receipts during the same period in 1930. With reduced corn production and short hay crops, the situation does not favor cattle feeding. It appears that cattle feeding is being dropped in favor of sheep feeding which can be carried on with poor quality corn and roughage to better advantage.

The estimated number of stockers and feeders inspected through markets for shipment into the Corn Belt States in October this year was 13% smaller than October last year and 11% below the 5-year October average and was probably the smallest for the month in 10 years. The small shipments in October reduced the total shipments into the Corn Belt States for the four months, July to October, this year below the total of last year. The number this year was 2% smaller than last year and 9% smaller than the 5-year average for this period.

The smaller shipments in October this year compared with last year were due to the decreased movement into the states west of the Mississippi River. Shipments into nearly all of these states were below last year with the largest decrease in the states west of the Missouri.

Reports from the feeding areas in the Western states indicate that the total number of cattle fed in these states as a whole for market this coming winter will be somewhat smaller than last winter. There will probably be some increase in the Pacific Coast states, a decrease in the intermountain states and a decrease in the Rocky Mountain states due to the smaller number fed in Colorado. A considerable increase is reported from Texas in the number of cattle to be fed there for market.
