

Split Rail Cause of Severe Wreck on 'Mop' Sunday

Missouri Pacific Train No. 103 Has Wreck Near Fort Crook—None Dangerously Injured.

Northbound passenger train No. 103 over the Missouri Pacific, leaving this city Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, was wrecked a mile south-east of Fort Crook, when a split rail caused three coaches of the train to leave the track.

The locomotive, tender and baggage car had passed the point of danger when the rail gave way, the combination coach, chair car and the parlor and dining car left the rails, bumping along on the ties for a distance of 150 yards before they were stopped, leaning at a forty-five degree angle.

That the wreck was not more serious is due to J. B. Smith of Kansas City, the conductor, who pulled the emergency brake cord as the cars commenced to rock and swing as they left the rails.

The train was filled with one hundred and seventy-five passengers, a large part of whom were school people and holiday visitors en route to schools, but while fifteen of the passengers suffered minor injuries, none were dangerously injured. The train carried a party of Plattsmouth school people, Mrs. George B. Mann, teaching at Clearwater, Nebraska, Joseph and Robert Hartford, returning to Ames, Iowa, and Miss Theresa Libershal, returning to the state university at Lincoln. Of the local people none were injured beyond the shock except Miss Libershal, who suffered a few minor bruises. The passengers were taken on into Omaha and sent on to their destinations. H. E. Moore of Mynard, suffered a sprained back while Charles C. Moore, a brother, suffered falls injuries.

As soon as the wreck occurred a hurried call was sent to Plattsmouth, Fort Crook and South Omaha for medical aid, it not being known the extent of the injuries that the passengers had sustained. The minor cuts and bruises that had been suffered by the passengers were dressed and the injured hurried on into Omaha where they were given further aid and sent to their homes.

The list of the injured included: Frances Eganman, 11, 2249 Landon court, Omaha, shock; Miss Marker Kyle of Falls City, shock and possible fractured jaw; Albert Luppen of Kansas City, bruises and cuts about the face; Mrs. Albert Luppen, bruises and shock; C. I. Little, 5016 Wirt street, Omaha, internal injuries, nearly unconscious from shock; John Wright, Kansas City, Negro, dining car cook, bruises; Mrs. Milton E. Whitehead, 4201 May street, Omaha, leg and head injuries; Evelyn Kanaly, 103 Rock Brook, Omaha, teacher, bruises; Hope Taylor, 103 Rock Brook, Omaha, cuts on head.

G. L. Kinner, Negro, 2915 North Twenty-fifth street, Omaha, scalp wound; Mrs. Dalia Hardenberger, 806 North Forty-fifth street, Omaha; C. C. Moore, Mynard, Neb., head bruises; Hazel Giles, 2592 Evans street, Omaha, head cuts; Gertrude Reynolds, 5336 Florence boulevard, Omaha, her companion, shock and bruises; Ruth Kelligar, 415 Marris apartments, Omaha, shock and bruises; Mrs. Hank Long, Twenty-fifth and Q streets, Omaha, severe bruises; Miss Nora Heng, Howell, Neb., cut on head; H. E. Moore, Mynard, Neb., sprained back; Robert Clampit, Grand Island, Neb., wrenched back; Julia Ryan, 702 North Fortieth street, Omaha, bruised chest; Theresa Libershal, Plattsmouth, bruises and shock.

The first reports here carried the story of the death of some twenty passengers and cars were hurried to the scene filled with those seeking to aid or sightseers, but fortunately the report was not true and the wreck far from as serious as had been reported. The wreck blocked the line of the railroad and it was necessary to route the other trains over the Fort Crook line of the Burlington and to La Platte where they were switched to their own line.

SHOWS FAIR CONDITION From Monday's Daily The reports from the Immanuel hospital in Omaha state that Dr. J. S. Livingston, who is there taking treatment, is holding his own very well and has been doing as well as could be expected in the last few days. He is still under treatment and observation and so far there has been no operation performed.

CARD OF THANKS We wish to take this means of expressing to our many kind friends the appreciation that we feel for the words of sympathy, the acts of kindness and the beautiful floral offerings at the funeral of our beloved brother, Charles Lutz.—The Brothers and Sisters.

SCHOOLS RESUME ACTIVITIES

From Monday's Daily The Christmas vacation of the city schools was terminated today when the grade and high school resumed their operation. The two weeks has given the young people of the school a splendid outing and with the festivities of Christmas and New Year's day, has been most pleasant. A large number of social events have marked the holiday weeks, many of the young people home from college to join in the social life of the community. The schools have resumed their usual stride and from now on there will be nothing but the grind of school work until spring.

Sheriff Bert Reed Dies at Lincoln Hospital

Passes Away at Green Gables Following Illness That Covered the Past Several Months.

From Monday's Daily This afternoon at 1:30 at the Green Gables hospital at Lincoln, Sheriff Bert Reed passed away after an illness of several months, within the last few weeks of which there has been but little hope of his recovery.

Sheriff Reed enjoyed the respect and esteem of the people of Cass county in a larger measure than perhaps anyone in the county and his death comes as a severe blow to the members of the family and the community at large.

The deceased was sixty-four years of age and has made his home in Cass county since a very young lad, making his home at Elmwood and Weeping Water until his election to the office of sheriff in 1926, when he came to this city to take up the duties of his office. In the election of 1930 Bert Reed was re-elected to the office of sheriff by the largest majority that any candidate had ever received in the county, a tribute to his fair and courageous administration of the office.

Mr. Reed is survived by the widow, one son, Sam and one daughter, Miss Eula Reed, all residing at home. The Journal joins with the hundreds of friends over Cass county in extending sympathy to the members of the bereaved family circle on the loss that has come to them. Truly the people of Cass county have lost a brave and valiant officer as well as a dear and loved friend.

STARTS ON NEW WORK

Warren Farmer, graduate of the high school in the class of 1930, one of the outstanding pupils in the commercial department of the school, will be engaged in the future as clerk in the office of County Judge A. H. Duxbury. Mr. Farmer will succeed Mrs. Alvin Meisinger, formerly Miss Clara Wickman, who is resigning her position. The new clerk is well qualified for this line of work as he completed last fall a course at the Boyles college in Omaha and in which he specialized in stenographic work and also a general business course. Mr. Farmer is well known in the community as a young man of fine outstanding character and one who will be eminently well qualified for the position he is now taking up, and making a splendid assistant for Judge Duxbury in the work of the office.

DEATH OF WAR VETERAN

From Monday's Daily Harold Baker, 42, veteran of the world war, a brother of the late Joseph Parker, and Mrs. W. J. Hiner of this city, died Saturday at an Omaha hospital. Mr. Baker was well known here and was a former resident of the vicinity of Glenwood. He had been making his home at Chicago in recent years, but a few months ago came to Omaha and entered the hospital for treatment. The body was brought to Glenwood this afternoon and the funeral held at the cemetery at that place. The funeral service was conducted by the American Legion, the pall bearers being members of the Plattsmouth post and the firing squad from the Glenwood post.

Mr. Baker was an uncle of Mrs. Frank Rice of this city.

ARRIVAL OF A SON

News was received by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fulton of the birth of a grandson. The little one was born December 28 to Mr. and Mrs. Hammond Sharp, former residents of Plattsmouth, but now residing at 1703 So. 9th street, Omaha. Ft. Crook Overpass Now Open to the Public

Sunday Saw the First Day of Travel Over the Long Viaduct That Makes Highway Safer

One of the most notable moves in the good road program of Nebraska took place Sunday, an event that was unheralded by speeches, music or demonstration, but a move that brought smiles to the faces of motorists who might be traveling highway No. 75.

The Fort Crook overpass or viaduct, which has been agitated for over the past six years, was a reality, the first travel being allowed early Sunday morning when barriers were removed and the great structure that spans over the turbulent Pappio creek as well as the tracks of the Burlington and Missouri Pacific railroads, was in commission.

The viaduct is not as yet formally accepted by the state as there is still some minor work to be done on the structure, but as far as Mr. and Mrs. Traveling Public is concerned, the viaduct is just what they wished for a New Year's present.

The use of the viaduct will eliminate the use of the detour road running west of Fort Crook and which added some two miles to the length of the journey to Omaha. This road has been in service off and on for the time that various paving projects were being handled in the Fort Crook neighborhood and its disuse will be the source of pleasure to all who travel the highways.

The completion of the viaduct with the paving to the north and south means a strip of the concrete from south of Auburn to Omaha with the exception of the small section from near the Stull farm to the Platte river bridge north of this city. This section will probably remain unpaved until such time as the engineers for the state and the U. S. government can decide the route of the road and whether the matter of an overhead crossing at Oreapolis can be arranged. By the time the section of road here is completed the paving will have been laid through Richardson county to the state line and on to Kansas City.

WOULD BE A FINE THING FOR PLATTSMOUTH

Probability that Columbia Broadcasting system may be built its own station in this section has been strengthened in the reported breaking off of purchase negotiations for both KFAB and WAAW.

In the event Columbia does decide to build, they undoubtedly will select a site a short distance outside of Lincoln or Omaha for enough to be free from the many troublesome electrical interferences of the large city and close enough to permit of direct lines to remote control stations in the city.

Recently the Journal suggested Plattsmouth would be an ideal site for such a station. The distance from Omaha is just right—sufficient to get the new station's towers out of the shadows of the Omaha and Council Bluffs stations. Every co-operation would be given the Columbia both in securing a site for the station and the necessary licenses and meter assignments.

As we have previously stated, the Columbia system cannot afford to stay out of the middle west—their programs are splendid and they have a large following throughout this territory who cannot be served satisfactory from Chicago, St. Louis or Yankton, even at this time of year when radio is at its best, and would not even be able to get these stations in mid-summer.

Plattsmouth would welcome the establishment of a Columbia station in this vicinity.

REACH SCHOOL SAFELY

From Monday's Daily Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hartford last evening received a message from their sons, Joseph and Robert, that they had reached their destination at Ames, Iowa, none the worse for their experience in the Missouri Pacific wreck near Fort Crook. The boys were uninjured although having a thrill in the close call as the coaches hung at a forty-five degree angle over the railroad embankment. The parents were the most frightened as the first reports of the wreck were rousing and alarming to those who had relatives and friends on the train.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

From Monday's Daily Messages received here this morning state that Henry Zuckeweller, a former Plattsmouth merchant, who has in recent years resided at Miller, South Dakota, is in critical condition and his recovery is a matter of grave doubt. Miss Kaufmann used as the illustration for her subject, the art work of the pupils of Miss Vivian Johns, the young people having some very fine showings in this line of work.

Mrs. Robert Reed, who enjoyed a tour of New Mexico and the border country several months ago, gave a most interesting review of the little known southwest and its many places of interest and representation of the early Indian settlements of the southwest.

Miss Gertrude Vallery gave a delightful reading, "Daddy Doc," which was very much enjoyed by all of the members of the party. The ladies had as the high school guests, Mary Wiles, senior, and Emily Lorenz, junior.

At the close of the evening dainty refreshments were served, that added to the completion of the pleasures of the evening.

Plattsmouth Loan and Building Ass'n Meets

C. A. Johnson Re-Elected President of Organization—Dividends and Stock of $34,600 Paid.

From Tuesday's Daily The annual meeting of the Plattsmouth Loan and Building association was held Monday evening at the office of the company in the Union block. There was a full attendance of the officers and many stockholders were present in person and by proxy. The meeting heard the report of the secretary, E. P. Lutz, which shows an excellent condition of the company in every way and despite the general conditions of the country the company has a fine financial report to show for the year. In October there was paid out $34,600 to the owners of stocks in maturity claims as well as dividends on the stock that they might own.

The members of the board of directors who were re-elected last evening were E. H. Schulhof, William Schmidtman, Sr., and E. P. Lutz. Following the naming of the directors the officers of the company were selected as follows: President—C. A. Johnson. Vice-President—R. A. Bates. Secretary—E. P. Lutz. Treasurer—Fred T. Range.

This company, organized in this city in 1885 and has been one of the big factors in creating a city of home owners as their aid in the years past has allowed hundreds to build and own their own homes through the years. The dividends that this company has allowed over the forty-seven years of its existence has covered several million dollars and all of which has contributed to Plattsmouth and its upbuilding.

The officers of the company have ministered the affairs in a safe and conservative manner which has brought them warm praise from those who are familiar with the operation of the company.

URGED NOT TO FEED FLOATERS

William Barclay, who has charge of the operations of the Associated Charities in this city, is extending a warning to the residents of the city relative to the feeding of floaters. The men who have sought shelter at the city jail at night, are set to work sawing wood each morning when being released and then given a ticket for breakfast of cakes and coffee at one of the local restaurants. This worked very well at first, but now the floaters on being released from the jail, or at least a larger part of them, are refusing to saw any wood, and have so told the police on being released. As the men are not under arrest they cannot be forced to do this and accordingly they have received no ticket. The men, however, have been reported as hitting the residences of the city and seeking breakfast, one of the things which it was hoped to have avoided in the giving out of breakfast tickets.

One man who had been sheltered for the night, visited one of the homes of the city and stated that he had to "saw wood for an hour to secure three small pancakes and a cup of coffee."

Mr. Barclay wishes to have the residents of the city refuse to give the floaters food and leave the handling of their case to the Associated Charities to see that they saw wood. These floaters, however, are not cared for from the supplies or funds that was subscribed in the recent drive.

The W. C. T. U. Monday afternoon at their meeting at the home of Mrs. Mattie G. L. Propst, Mrs. Lois Troop, Mrs. J. E. Wiles, Miss Elizabeth Spangler, Mrs. Charles Troop and Mrs. Mattie G. Wiles.

Mrs. Charles Troop, president of the local Union, led the devotions of the afternoon. Mrs. Lois Troop also gave a fine reading, "The Wounded Soldier," a beautiful and touching dramatic reading.

Mrs. Robert B. Hayes was heard in a discussion of the S. T. I. work in the schools of the county, she having been for the past several years much interested in this work and director of its activities.

Miss Gertrude Vallery also added to the pleasures of the occasion with a charming reading that was much enjoyed. At the close of the afternoon Mrs. Wiles served very dainty and delicious refreshments.

KNEW SLAIN OFFICER

Lester Burrows of this city has followed with great interest the tragic incidents that have occurred at Springfield, Missouri, in which Sheriff Marcell Hendrix and three other officers were killed. Mr. Burrows was well acquainted with Sheriff Hendrix and familiar with the location of the Young residence where the massacre of the officers occurred. The Young home, southeast of Springfield, is but a quarter of a mile from the residence of relatives of Mr. Burrows. The suicide of Harry and Jennings Young at Houston, Texas, Tuesday, culminated the pursuit of these two young bandits, sought as the slayers of the officers.

HAS DONE REAL SERVICE

The fee book in the office of the county sheriff, which has for a period of thirty-one years served the use of the various occupants of the office, is now retired from service. Deputy Sheriff Young states that the book was in service 31 years, discontinued in 1931 and the new fee book which is being used cost $31. This is a record worthy of the interest of Believe It or Not Ripley.

VERY HAPPY EVENT

From Wednesday's Daily This morning a fine eight and one-half pound daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Slayman to make her home with them through the future years. The mother and little one are both doing nicely and Mr. Slayman is putting out more than usual quantities of baskets at the Nebraska Basket Co. plant.

Hoarded money will not help business conditions to improve. It's the money in circulation that counts! Read the Journal ads and take advantage of the many bargains Plattsmouth business men will offer you the coming year.

Snow Storm will Afford Sport for the Coasters

With Present Winter Weather Necessity of Providing Coasting Places to the Fore.

The heavy ten inch snowfall of Tuesday has brought with it rejoicing to the youngsters and others not so young, who delight in the winter sport of coasting, being a real boon to those who have received sleds as a part of their Christmas remembrance.

With the opportunity for coasting also comes the problem of a safe place where the children may coast without danger of injury through auto traffic.

In the past years the increasing number of cars and trucks have made the long hills that lead to the main traveled highways, a danger spot to the coasters, even with the best of patrol watchers to guide the coasters and check the travel to prevent accidents.

In Omaha the coasters have been banned from the streets of the city but have coasting places in the many parks of the city, something that cannot be provided in this city.

The city, if it is possible, should arrange to have some of the hilly streets that do not lead into the heavy traveled highways, set aside for the use of the coasters and permit the enjoyment of this sport and with little danger to the young people.

In speaking of coasting, one of the old time residents, who was a boy back in the days when Grover Cleveland was first elected, stated that in those days the present high school hill was very much steeper and that coasting carnivals were held at every big snow, the bob sleds coming down Main street and shooting clear out onto the frozen surface of the Missouri river, then flowing at the foot of Main street. When these carnivals were being held all of the traffic was stopped and Old Dobbin rested in the barn at home while the young and old alike coasted down the hills in the full enjoyment of this mid-winter sport.

Below is given an additional list of foodstuffs and stock feed which has been sent in to the American Legion car for the drought sufferers of northern Nebraska. The car will be held until Saturday so that the residents of the county districts can bring in their donations:

The little girl is doing very nicely although compelled to carry the injured arm in a sling for some time yet.
