"Jesus, the Good Shepherd"
John 10:1-6.

It is quite likely that the exegesis from Jewish circles of the man to whom Jesus gave sight, led Him to discourse on the shepherd and the fold. This allegory was intended partly to rebuke the Pharisees, partly to comfort the blind man, and partly to instruct the church as to the duties of Christian pastors. The allegory is based entirely on O. T. figures. (See Psalm 23, the Shepherd Psalm) also Ezek. 34, where God reproves the shepherds and Himself provides for the flock, where "There shall be showers of blessing." (Ezek. 34:26). And in Zach. 11:4-17, the type of the foolish shepherd is exhibited. This refers to misrule in Jerusalem, either of worthless high priests or of cruel foreign rulers, or both. Palestine was a land of shepherds; possibly on the nearby hills could the flocks be seen.

The oriental sheep-fold was an open enclosure, built up of rocks, with or without a gate. Some had an opening, where the watchman would lie rolled up in his robe; others had a barrier, which would be closed by night, and the porter, who knew the shepherds, would open the door for them.

Jesus says if anyone should climb up some other way, he could be classed as a thief or robber. The thief uses craft and treachery; he is a sneak. A robber uses force and violence; he is a brigand. And both of them steal the sheep.

Sheep are a most precious possession to those people; they furnished food and clothing and were offered for sacrifice.

Jesus was the Lamb of God—very precious to Him. He was also the Good Shepherd. His people were his flock; His church is the sheep-fold. God himself appoints undershepherds. He calls them into service. He called Isaiah (Chapter 6), Jeremiah (Chaps. 1, 2), Ezekiel (Chapt. 1:3), Hosea (Chap. 1:1) and others of the prophets, also the twelve Apostles. But we doubt very much the "call" of some pastors. When we see how they feed the flock anything but the green pastures of God's word; how the most absurd things are dished up—often times meaningless stories are told by the half hour. Little wonder, then, that the sheep grow poorer every day and finally become so weak that they cannot go to church any more. Hence the empty pews, the poor attendance. The cause? Hirelings!

The Holy Spirit is the porter who

Mrs. C. E. Carroll has been feeling quite poorly during the past week but is reported some better at this time.

Remember the Quilt Exhibition which is to be held at the Christian church on February 24th, will be opened at 2:00 in the afternoon and opens the gate of the human heart to Christ. The Good Shepherd calls his sheep by name; He knows every separate sheep. Every true child of God can repeat for his comfort the words of Isaiah 43:1, "I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine." The Good Shepherd calls his sheep to service. "Go work in my vineyard;" "Go into all the world;" "Go tell what God has done to your soul." And the true sheep follow Him—"They know His voice." "He leadeth them out; Leadeth them into green pastures—beside still waters (waters of quietness).

In Isaiah 40:11, we read: "He shall feed His flock like a shepherd; He shall gather the lambs with his arms and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young."

"But my God shall supply all your need, according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus." (Phil. 4:19). "I came that they may have life and may have it more abundantly." This is one of the most famous verses in the Bible, among those most frequently preached upon and dearest to the heart of Christians.

Sum up Christ's gospel in a single word and that word is "life."

Christ for us, appropriated by faith, is the source of life. Christ within us through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit is the source of abundant life. Life cannot remain stationary; only death makes us progress. Jesus came that we might have life that is, might grow. The abundant life is essential for spiritual fruitage. There are many professed Christians who have just enough religion to exist, like trees with only enough sap to bear leaves, but no fruit.

"The good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep." Is it not wonderful enough that God should care for men, should lead them, feed them, call himself their shepherd? But what a wider, deeper, nobler, more wonderful blessing, and more blessed wonder that the shepherd should give his life for the sheep—that the Master should give his life for the servant, the king for those that rebelled against him, the Creator for his creatures.

"Other sheep—also must I bring—and they shall become one flock, one shepherd."

May God speed the day that God's people lay aside the non-essential things, and so answer Christ's prayer: (John 17:23) "That they may become even as we are one." A prophecy that will be fulfilled.

there will be a program given as well. Better arrange to attend.

The ladies will serve a free lunch at the time of the exhibition. This particular quilt has on each alternate block, the picture worked with needle work, of some farm or farm home implement. This is well worth seeing.

Willard will stay for ten days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Young after which he will return to the hospital for examination after which he can come home. He could not come at this time on account of the folks having the flu, and it is hoped that by that time they will all be well again.

The patient is in an unconscious condition at this time.

SELLS MORTGAGED PROPERTY

Monday afternoon a complaint was filed in the county court by County Attorney W. G. Kieck, charging Theodore Eaton with selling mortgaged property.

It is alleged in the complaint that on August 8, 1931, Mr. Eaton sold to John Toman a Chevrolet roadster, on which the General Securities Co. held a mortgage.

It is claimed that the company has not had their mortgage satisfied and that while Mr. Toman had paid for the car their claim had not been settled by Mr. Eaton.

The defendant claims that the transaction was made by other persons and that he had no part in the transaction in the disposal of the car to Mr. Toman.

Mr. Eaton was arraigned and pleaded not guilty to the charge and the bond was fixed at $1,000, which it hoped to secure and permit the release of the defendant until the hearing on the case is held.
