Sales Tax Made Bone of Dispute in Revenue Bill

Measure Launched in House of Representatives and Made the Object of Criticism.

Washington.—Political eddies swirled about the $1,096,000,000 revenue bill as it was launched in the house with the full support of democrats and republican leaders. Even as Representative Crisp of Georgia, the democratic sponsor of the measure, was telling the house the bill was the cornerstone of economic reconstruction, three democrats condemned its important manufacturers' sales tax on the floor of the senate. Senators Dill of Washington, McKellar of Tennessee and Walsh of Montana, branded the provision that forms the base of the bill as objectionable, dangerous and burdensome.

A republican advocate of the sales tax, Senator Moses of New Hampshire, promptly asserted the three speakers in opposition were supporters of Governor Roosevelt for the presidential nomination. He added the sales levy was a "special pet" of Speaker Garner, whom he characterized as a presidential candidate in opposition to Roosevelt. Moses charged they were attacking the speaker.

Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, ended the senate outbreak with a declaration saying he favored the sales levy, "objectionable as it is." It was the first assertion on the subject by the party leader and was accepted as indicative of bipartisan support in the senate of the house bill.

In the house, Representative Crisp, acting chairman, and Representative Hawley of Oregon, ranking republican on the ways and means committee, were declaring that if the treasury's prospective deficit is not wiped out the credit of the federal government would be imperiled. "The cornerstone on which economic recovery depends, the cornerstone on which employment will be found for many of the millions of splendid citizens now unemployed is a balanced budget," Crisp said in calling upon his colleagues to vote for the bill.

The Georgia democrat advocated the sales tax, which scores of the members are planning to oppose, as the "most equitable way to raise this colossal sum of money," the least burdensome and obnoxious to business and the people.

But, he said the house could adopt an alternative plan submitted by the treasury, imposing the heavy excise taxes on several selected industries. It calls for heavy levies on automobiles, electricity, increased postage rates, and taxes on checks and gasoline.

"Chose ye between them," he told his colleagues. The anti-prohibitionists were virtually assured by Crisp that they would have an opportunity to vote on the proposed amendment by Representative Cullen to levy a $5 a barrel tax on beer of 2.75 percent alcoholic content.—State Journal.

COLD BITES THE SOUTHLAND

Atlanta.—Snow fell in the Gulf of Mexico's tropical clime Thursday as a severe cold continued to bite the southland. At Lake Charles, La., a short distance from the gulf, a fine snow mixed with hail began falling in the afternoon. The mercury registered 38 degrees. About the same time flakes were coming down at Crowley, La., in the south central part of the state. The first snowfall in two years caused great excitement in Houston, Tex. Businessmen, calling their homefolk to observe the flakes, brought about such a congestion at the telephone exchange that switchboard operators were swamped.

Galveston, which normally basks in the warm gulf breezes, was treated to the spectacle of snow and a temperature of 29 degrees, the lowest ever recorded there in March. Pupils were dismissed from school because of the cold. Laredo and numerous other towns along the Mexican border also witnessed snow.

FREMONT CITY HALL PETITIONS CIRCULATED

Fremont, March 10.—The Fremont Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring petitions put in circulation here Thursday, seeking a $92,800 bond issue for the construction of a new city hall.

If 700 signatures are secured by Friday night, the city council will consider the proposition with a view to submitting it at the city election April 5.

BABY IN CARE OF SHERIFF

Bridgeport, Conn.—An offer by Sheriff Reilly to take a woman and her baby to New York started a false report that the child was Colonel Lindbergh's kidnaped son being returned home. The woman went to New York, state police said, to arrange bond for her husband, held at Westport on a charge of driving without a license. The sheriff, who had business in New York, which his secretary said was not connected with the Lindbergh case, volunteered to take her in his car. State police also denied, after investigation, a report that the Lindbergh baby was at a Norwalk hospital.

American Farm Declared Safe in Single Hands

Up to the Individual, Not to Corporation According to California Man.

San Francisco.—The family farm will continue to be the foundation of American agriculture; it will not be supplanted by the corporation or the chain farm as predicted by Mr. Henry Ford, in the opinion of Mr. E. A. Stokdyk, professor of agricultural economics, University of Southern California.

Advantages claimed for corporation farming, he declares, are that superior management is possible; machinery can be more fully utilized; labor more highly specialized; land be allotted to the most suitable uses; buying and selling done in wholesale quantities and overhead expense reduced.

On the other hand, he declares, corporation farming has serious disadvantages, chief among which is the unavailability of large tracts of land at low prices. Farming involves a large element of risk. In agriculture 100 bushels of seed and 1000 hours of labor on 100 acres of land may produce nothing. The capitalist, Professor Stokdyk points out, will shun such an uncertain enterprise.

The seasonal phase of farm work also stands in the way of corporation farming. Whereas the individual operator will work long hours when it is necessary, the hired laborer demanded "overtime," and when weathered conditions prevent work they demand their regular remuneration.

Chain farming, in which the tenant retains an active interest in the operations and bears a part of the risk, combines some of the advantages of corporation farming with those of family farming, according to Professor Stokdyk. A manager directs, while the tenant does the work. The weakness of the system lies largely in the practice of exploiting the land for immediate money returns and in the tendency to perpetuate large-scale farming and tenancy as against smaller owner-operated farms.

LACKING IN JURISDICTION

The railway commission Wednesday dismissed the application of the Hemingford Telephone company for permission to issue $20,000 of stock. The commission says the evidence shows that it is within the definition of a mutual company, over which the supreme court has held it has no jurisdiction, and therefore it is without power to pass on the matter. The company is a non-profit organization, with each subscriber expected to own a share of stock.

The McGrew Telephone company was authorized to charge regular rates to the Union Pacific railroad, which it has been supplying at 50 cents a month under a contract by which it has used the rail company poles for certain service.

The Farmers Telephone company of Newcastle was authorized to publish reduced rates of $2.25 for business, $1.75 for town residence and $1.50 for farms, with 25 cents off for advance payment.

The Bertrand Telephone company was authorized to charge 75 cents a month for switching certain farm lines which do not reach into the town exchange, but are connected to main pole lines.

LIGHTNING CAUSES BURNING OF 3 BARN

Sinclair, Neb., March 10.—Three costly farm fires were reported caused by lightning in western Nebraska this week.

The barn on the Henry Koester farm was burned when struck by lightning. Sixty tons of hay also burned, but livestock was rescued.

Barns on the Fred Nagel and M. C. Brittel farms, both near Kimball, were also destroyed by fire.

Willing to Help in a Restoration of Better Times

United States Is Declared to Be Responsive to Readjustment of War Debts.

Washington.—Settlement of the reparations problem by European governments as a basis for restoring better times thruout the world was proposed at Paris by the American committee of the international chamber of commerce of the council of the international chamber. The statement, presented by Elias H. Strawn and made public here, said if removal of reparations as a retarding problem were accomplished, the United States would not be unresponsive in considering a readjustment of inter-governmental debts.

"Public opinion of the United States supports the position which has been held by succeeding administrations, irrespective of party, that the problem of German reparations is primarily a European problem, to be solved on its own merits by the European governments directly concerned," the American group said, adding: "The American people have the same interest as other countries in the revival of industry and commerce thruout the world, and the committee believes if the governments of Europe are able to agree among themselves on a practical settlement of reparations and other pressing problems the people of the United States would not be unresponsive and that they would be found ready, as in the past, to give serious consideration to existing conditions in a readjustment of intergovernmental debt settlements. There is no doubt the present state of deadlock on reparations problems is responsible in considerable measure for the stagnation of commerce and industry in central Europe and in a larger sense for the depression of business thruout the world."

The committee held abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain and fourteen other countries, and the precarious position of some other governments still nominally retaining the gold standard, have produced uncertainty in the world. It said, however, the failure of the gold standard had not been shown. Its retention was advocated. — State Journal.

PLACES TRUCK ORDERS

The United States Post Office Department today placed an order through the Washington Branch of the Ford Motor Company for 900 Ford motor truck chassis, 500 with a gross load carrying capacity of 1,800 pounds and 1500 with a gross load carrying capacity of 4,200 pounds.

The chassis are to be delivered to the post office garages at thirty-three of the large cities. Deliveries will be made as bodies to be contracted for are completed.

This is believed to be the largest number of motor trucks purchased by a government department in a single order since the war, exceeding by 500 the order placed with the Ford company last June for similar chassis.

With this new order, Ford sales to the Post Office Department over the past few years now total close to 5,000 trucks. The Post Office Department ranks among the leading truck fleet operators in the world, owning and operating about 10,000 trucks distributed among the various post offices in every state in the union. Approximately $1,000,000 will be spent by the department for the new chassis and bodies and it has been estimated that 600,000 labor hours will be required in the manufacture and assembly of these trucks.

The order was placed with the Ford Motor Company following a series of performance tests conducted by the Bureau of Standards in collaboration with the Post Office Department. William Wolma of Chicago and Morris Carriere of Brooklyn, New York, motor vehicle engineers, represented the department, while Walter A. Jacobs, automotive engineer, represented the Bureau of Standards in the tests.

LUDI AND L. B. JOHNSON ACCEPT STATE FILINGS

Lincoln, March 10.—N. J. Ludi of Wahoo has filed his acceptance of the petition nomination in his behalf for land commissioner on the democratic ticket. L. B. Johnson of Omaha, former state auditor, accepted a similar filing for state treasurer on the republican ticket.

House Radio Bill Draws Some Opposition

Senator Fears That the Measure Is Designed to Open Way for Monopoly.

Washington.—Senator White of Maine, told the senate interstate commerce committee provisions of a house approved radio bill prohibiting licenses to companies in which foreign interests are represented "would be a far reaching step toward monopoly." It would "affect most directly and disastrously a single American company, the International Telephone and Telegraph company," White said, adding that the competition in the international field lay between the I. T. T., and the Radio Corporation of America.

He said International Telephone was formed of subsidiary companies with virtually all of the stock held by United States citizens but that five of twenty-three directors were aliens. He said so far as he knew none of the directors of R. C. A. nor its officers were aliens. To include the prohibition, White said "would be doing grievous harm to an American communication company and would be closely verging on monopolistic control of international facilities."

"I am afraid it would wreck the entire communication system of the company," White said.

He said the radio commission had recommended the provision but that it objected to it most vigorously. Senator Dill of Washington, expressed the opinion "an attempt to move those directors (of the I. T. T.), would be disastrous in countries in which it operates."—State Journal.

GET SET FOR BANQUET

Those who are expecting to attend the community banquet in honor of the high school basketball team, are urged to secure their reservations at once. The banquet will be held on Tuesday evening at the American Legion building and serving will start at 6:30. The committee in charge comprises C. H. Martin, John Sattler, Jr., and Carl Ofe. Those desiring to secure their reservations are asked to see the committee before Monday noon in order that the ladies serving the banquet may know the number to be cared for. Come out and give the basketball team a real expression of the community appreciation.

SUPPORT GIVEN AL SMITH

Los Angeles.—Democratic presidential campaign activity received new impetus here with the announcement of a slate of delegates to support the nomination of Al Smith. The slate of the Franklin D. Roosevelt supporters has already been announced and it was expected headquarters supporting the candidacy of John Garner would probably announce delegates pledged to his support Thursday. Each of the groups is entitled to have its delegates on the primary ballot May 3.
