Jailbreaker Back in Confines of County Jail

William Carrodo Returned Monday Afternoon to Local Prison After Capture at Omaha.

From Tuesday's Daily
William Carrodo, who Sunday night made his escape from the Cass county jail, was back safely locked in the cell of the jail Monday night, awaiting court action on his case, a charge of breaking an entering.

Carrodo was captured at Sixty-second and Military avenue in Omaha, he at the time being in an oil station warming himself, shortly before the noon hour. Deputy Sheriff Ray Becker, had been in Omaha for the search for Carrodo and with two members of the Omaha detective force was passing the oil station and glancing in saw the fugitive as he was resting and warming himself. He offered no resistance to the officers as they placed him under arrest.

The officers had checked up on the homes of the relatives and friends of Carrodo, but without success until he was met up with at the oil station. While at the home of one of Carrodo's friends a telephone call had been received, intended for Carrodo but which was intercepted by one of the detectives. This message had warned "Bill" to go to Papillion as Omaha was being searched for him.

The parents of Carrodo, both deaf mutes, reside at Papillion and it was to reach this point that the prisoner was headed when arrested.

It was while Carrodo, a boy of 18, was a resident of Papillion that he was first sentenced by Judge Begley to the state reformatory at Kearney. Later the path of Carrodo again crossed that of Judge Begley at Nebraska City when the young man was sent to the state penitentiary. When released from the penitentiary in 1928, Carrodo was aided several times by Judge Begley and who had encouraged the young man in efforts to enter the boxing game and to leave behind him his career of crime.

The offense for which Carrodo is being held here is that of burglarizing the home of Judge Begley in this city.

Norman Cranshaw, residing at 1818 Webster street, the home of Carrodo, was picked up and held in jail at Omaha as being an accessory to the escape of Carrodo.

WRITES FROM WASHINGTON

L. F. Langhorst, one of the old time residents of Elmwood and a veteran Nebraska democrat, writes the Journal a very interesting letter from Washington, D. C., where he is now located. When the democrats were able to elect Speaker Garner and organize the house of representatives, Mr. Langhorst was named as assistant postmaster of the house. The postoffice of the house of representatives employs some forty persons and is a very busy place with a great deal of mail to be handled each day.

Mr. Langhorst states that he sees the Nebraska congressmen each day, especially John H. Morehead, representative from our district. Mr. Morehead is recognized as one of the best posted men in congress and whose judgment is consulted by many of his associates. He is noted as a watchdog of unnecessary government expense.

Mr. Langhorst states that he is expecting to come back to Nebraska in the summer and help in the ranks of the Cass county democracy as of old. The Langhorst family are still at Elmwood, but they expect to move to Washington in the fall.

SUFFERS FROM ILLNESS

Charles C. Parmele is taking an enforced vacation from his work as the result of an attack of the flu. Mr. Parmele has not been well for several days and on the advice of his physician has remained in bed for the last few days. Mr. Parmele makes his home while here at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cloyd and who are looking after him during his illness.

VISITS IN THE CITY

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Pierpont, of Omaha, motored down Sunday to spend a few hours here visiting with friends and looking over the city. Mr. Pierpont is chairman of the executive committee of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce and very active in the civic affairs of the state metropolis. Mr. Pierpont is a frequent visitor here and is much impressed with the charm and beauty of the city and as a place of residence for residents of Omaha would make an ideal location.

Sherwood-Sleeth Wedding at Omaha

Former Plattsmouth Lady Wedded at the Miller Park Presbyterian Church—Quiet Affair.

The wedding of Miss Carrie Sherwood and Mr. Arthur Sleeth of Omaha, was celebrated on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Miller Park Presbyterian church at Omaha.

The church was very prettily arranged with palms for the palm Sunday services at the church and which made a most attractive setting for the wedding. The marriage lines were read by Rev. Valder, pastor of the church.

The bride and groom were unattended. The wedding gown of the bride was a smartly tailored gown of dark blue and with picture hat and accessories to match. She wore a corsage of roses.

The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the bride and groom and following the wedding the members of the party motored to the new home of the young people where some time was spent in showering the bridal couple with well wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Sleeth left later in the day for Chicago where they will spend a short time on their honeymoon, later returning to Omaha.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood, and was born and reared to womanhood in this city, but for the past few years she has resided in Omaha.

The groom is engaged in the yard service of the Burlington at Omaha and is a young man held in the highest esteem by a very large circle of warm friends.

Among those who attended the wedding from out of Omaha were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sherwood, Nebraska City; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Troop and son, Jack, Mrs. Charles Troop, Mrs. R. W. Cavender, Mrs. Daisy Sherwood, Jesse Perry, George Perry and Miss Grace Perry of this city.

HEAR INTERESTING TALK

From Tuesday's Daily
The members of the Rotary club had the pleasure at their luncheon today at the Majestic cafe, to hear a very interesting talk given by Dr. T. B. Lacy of Glenwood. Dr. Lacy who is on the staff of the Iowa Institute for the Feeble Minded, had with him a part of the X-ray equipment and which allowed the use of many slides and plates illustrating the various physical condition and bone actions which have been revealed in the X-ray examinations and treatments. The talk was one that held the closest attention of everyone and they felt amply repaid in the able and thorough manner in which Dr. Lacy covered his subject.

WEATHER SPRINGS A JOKE

From Monday's Daily
That this is the first day of spring is a fact that many might overlook unless they were informed. The weather is far from springlike and it was a surprise to the householders when they awoke this morning to find a real snow storm and miniature blizzard raging in this section of the state of Nebraska. The snow started falling in this city at 2 o'clock this morning and was one of the heaviest snowfalls of the season. Accompanied by a brisk wind the snow started to drift and making difficult to get through on a number of roads in this section.

Local Players on All-State Tournery Five

Clarence Forbes Selected as Guard on Gregg McBride's First Team—Donat Center on 2nd.

Two of the Plattsmouth high school basketball team have been selected for places on the "all state" basketball teams, by press writers who were in attendance at the state tournament.

The Lincoln State Journal has named Henry Donat as the center of the second team and Gregg McBride has named Clarence Forbes as one of the guards of his first state team. The following is the McBride selections and comments:

All-Tournament Selections.
Forwards—John Parilek, Crete, and Malen Schroeder, Grand Island. Center—Frank Kobes, Crete.

Guards—Clarence Forbes, Plattsmouth, and Leonard Zobel, West Point.

Honorable Mention.
Forwards—Everett Martin, Waverly; Harry Corwin, Hastings; Emory Staub, Columbus; Wilmer Elizen, Mead; Willard Lashmet, Newport; Don Buel, Hickman; Delmont Hankenkamp, Hickman.

Centers—Robert Rose, Hastings; Lester McDonald, Grand Island; Henry Donat, Plattsmouth; Harold Chesbro, Sidney; Wesley Hook, York; Clifford Mordhorst, Pierce; John Hawley, North Platte; Willard Paul, West Point; Stanton Bloom, Mascot; Dale Larson, Mead; Forrest Mussen, Shubert; James Burns, Grafton; Rupert Peters, Arlington.

Guards—Earlan Nelson, Oakdale; Harvey Widman, Mead; Joe Weidum, Arlington; Ron Douglas, Crete; Robert Larkin, Benedict; J. C. Evans, Stockham; Dudley Graham, Kearney.

Frank Kobes, center, and Johnny Parilek, forward, are the Cardinal representatives on the honor selection. Kobes was the man of all work on the Crete club. Well over six feet in height and of rugged build, the Crete ace covered court in tireless fashion, rushing up to score on follow-in shots which made him a constant threat or hurrying back to form the key man in the Crete defense which was working in near-perfect fashion throughout the tournament.

Kobes Outstanding.
Kobes was the outstanding player of the 1932 play, his consistent performance rating him as one of the outstanding players in tournament history.

Parilek was the sharp-shooter of the tournament. His shots at long range are of the spectacular variety, while he was one of the fastest, cleverest floor men in the tourney.

Schroeder, Grand Island forward, was the bright spot in the Third City team which won third place honors in the tourney. He is a good shot and has a shifting change of pace which makes him hard to guard.

Forbes, Zobel Guards.
Forbes, of Plattsmouth, and Zobel of West Point are the guard selections. They represent two teams which failed to reach the semifinals, but nevertheless were among the best in the 1932 carnival. Plattsmouth gave Crete its biggest scare, while West Point made it plenty interesting for Hastings.

Forbes was a continual thorn in Crete's side. He was the backbone of the Cass county defense which held the Cardinals to six baskets. He is a fine dribbler and excellent shot at long range. Zobel is a clever dribbler and passer. He is of rather husky build and tough man to get by on the court.

ENTERTAINS FOR NIECE
From Monday's Daily
Last evening Mrs. J. H. Jaske of Omaha, entertained a few friends in honor of her niece, Miss Mary Zitka. The evening was spent in playing cards. At a suitable hour dainty and delicious lunch was served.

Those attending the event were: Misses Helen, Marie and Margaret Jelinek, Marie Triska, Nels Nielsen, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jaske, and Mary Zitka, Omaha; Mrs. Anna Zitka and daughter, Ann, and sons, Joe and James, Joe Knoflieck, John Srobona, and Henry Krejet of this city.

HAS WHEEL SMASHED

From Monday's Daily
P. A. Horn, night toll keeper at the Missouri river traffic bridge, this morning had a small auto accident while returning home from his work. Mr. Horn was turning his car north at the intersection of Fourth and Main streets when the accident occurred. The snow had made the driving bad and the car skidding in the snow crashed into the curb near the Donat building. The front wheel on the left side was knocked off and broke and it was necessary to summon a wrecker to secure the car.

Twin Brothers Engage in Law Work Together

Howard and Harry Dwyer at Nebraska City as Partners in Profession of Their Father.

Two former Plattsmouth young men are now located at Nebraska City in the law business and in speaking of them the Nebraska City News-Press has the following comment:

"If you meet two Nebraska City young men who look so much alike that you don't see how anyone can tell them apart they are the Dwyer brothers, lawyers. They have a right to look alike, too, because they are twins.

"They are Howard A. Dwyer and H. Kenneth Dwyer, sons of a prominent Plattsmouth attorney, D. O. Dwyer, who, although he practices in Cass county, is an associate of his two sons here.

"Dwyer and Dwyer have their offices over the Farmers bank, Eighth street and Central avenue. They have roomy quarters, which houses their Class A law library, including the up-to-date Northwestern Reporter system.

"Both men spent their early days in Plattsmouth, where they attended school. Later each was to receive his degree in the Arts college at the University of Nebraska, but there they parted ways for a few years.

"Howard went to Chicago-Kent College of Law and Kenneth attended Creighton. When they finished their higher education they united again and came to Nebraska City for the practice of law.

"Both come by their profession honestly because the elder Dwyer, of Plattsmouth, is one of the better known attorneys in southeastern Nebraska."

ANNIVERSARY OF TORNADO

From Wednesday's Daily
Today, March 23rd, marks the nineteenth anniversary of the tornado that swept over this section of the state of Nebraska and destroyed much life and property.

The storm struck at Berlin in Otoe county, almost demolishing the town and killing seven persons in that locality. Omaha was swept by the storm which came from the southwest and swept through Dundee and the Bemis park sections of the city, destroying hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property as well as killing a number. A group of negroes, caught in a pool hall at 24th and Lake street, were killed in the wreckage of the building.

In Cass county there was some damage to property and Mrs. George W. Shrader residing east of Murray was killed.

In this city the early part of the day, Easter Sunday, was warm and sultry and in the late afternoon the western sky became of a copper hue and while a slight wind storm followed by a very heavy rain visited this section there was none of the force of the tornado.

VISITING IN THE CITY

From Tuesday's Daily
Dr. and Mrs. Perry Murdick, Miss Charlotte Murdick, Peter Murdick and Miss Helen Wescott motored over from Lincoln yesterday to enjoy a few hours visit here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wescott. The party were dinner guests at the Wescott home, the event being the most pleasant one for all of the party.

State Meeting of D. A. R. Closes at North Platte

Hastings Is Selected as the Meeting Place for 1933 Conference of Society.

At the closing session of the thirtieth annual state conference of the Nebraska Daughters of the American Revolution, held in North Platte, March 15-17, Hastings was chosen as the meeting place for 1933, by the acceptance of the invitation of Niobrara chapter, of which Mrs. C. J. McGrath is regent.

Nebraska Daughters choose half their state officers one year, and half the next. The new officers elected at North Platte were as follows: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Reuben B. Knight of Alliance; treasurer, Miss Clara L. Bennett of Broken Bow; librarian, Mrs. R. D. Rasmussen of North Platte; historian, Mrs. Ruth Stanley of Aurora, and chaplain, Mrs. J. E. Conklin of Hebron.

Mrs. Edgar Hill Wescott of Plattsmouth will continue her work as state regent for another year, and the other officers holding over are: Vice regent, Mrs. Horace J. Cary of Kearney; recording secretary, Mrs. E. B. Hardeman of Crete; registrar, Mrs. E. H. Campbell of Columbus; auditor, Mrs. E. J. Williams of Lincoln; and secretary to state regent, Mrs. Marion Tucker of Nehawka.

Mrs. Adam McMullen, of Beatrice, past state regent, was made honorary state regent, and the unanimous endorsement of the conference was given to Mrs. Lue R. Spencer of Lexington, a past state regent, as a candidate for the national office of vice president general in 1933.

The conference at North Platte, while smaller than usual, only a few more than one hundred being registered, is reported by those who attended as being a particularly enjoyable one. Headquarters were established at the Yancey hotel, which was gay with flags and D. A. R. emblems for the occasion. The first social event was the dinner given Monday evening by Sioux Lookout chapter in honor of Mrs. Wescott, state regent. Covers were laid for twenty.

On Tuesday noon Mrs. York Hinman, past state regent, and Mrs. R. O. Rasmussen, regent of the hostess chapter, entertained the state officers and past state regents at luncheon. Handmade statuettes of George Washington served as place cards and favors.

Following the business session of the state board, a long line of cars under the direction of Mrs. John Baker, Jr., appeared at the hotel Tuesday afternoon to take the guests on a motor drive. At Memorial park all joined in a tree planting service in commemoration of the bicentennial of Washington's birth.

Two beautiful trees, one a blue spruce, the gift of Superintendent W. P. Snyder of the experimental farm, and the other a silver spruce, the gift of the North Platte Nursery, Inc. As the state regent, Mrs. Wescott, placed the earth about the root of the trees, she told of the thirteen horse-chestnut trees which George Washington, at the close of the Revolutionary war, planted in a row on the estate of his mother in Fairfax county, Virginia. But one of these trees is living today, and its life was saved several years ago by the remarkable tree surgery done by the Davey Tree experts.

Many took advantage of the opportunity to visit the log cabin museum which Sioux Lookout chapter maintains in Memorial park, and which contains a very interesting collection of historical relics. Tea was served at Mrs. W. J. Hendy's beautiful home, which faces the park. Billie Lou Wood, in a Martha Washington costume, and Kenneth Truesdell, as George Washington received the guests at the door. Mrs. John Bonner and Mrs. J. E. Evans presided at the tea tables, and the Misses Katherine Hendy, Mary Jane Munger and Phyllis Selby assisted in the dining room. Other assistants at the tea were Mesdames William Woods, Raymond Feston, W. S. Leon, Horton Munger and George Gibbs.

Easter cards of all kinds can be found at the Bates Book & Gift Shop at this time.

HOME FOR VACATIONS

From Tuesday's Daily
The spring vacations at the colleges and universities are allowing a number of the young people to return to spend a short time with the home folks. Miss Jean Hayes, who is attending the Morningside college at St. Louis and Miss Maxine Cloyd who is a student at Stephens college at Columbia, Missouri, are among those who are here to spend a vacation. Joe and Robert Hartford, of Iowa State college are here from Ames also for the week.

Woman's Club Enjoys Program of Readings

Number of the Young People of City Schools Entertain Members Last Evening.

From Tuesday's Daily
The members of the Plattsmouth Woman's club met last evening at the home of Mrs. Phillip Hinz on North Sixth street, who was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Thomas Walling, Mrs. Herman Thomas, Mrs. J. J. Stibal and Mrs. A. W. Cloyd.

The meeting was under the leadership of Miss Grace Nolting and was on the topic of the naturalized citizens of the country. The roll call was responded to by "How Can We Help Our New Citizens," each of the members giving some helpful thought on the matter.

The ladies had the pleasure of having a very interesting program of readings, dramatic and humorous, given by three of the young people of the city schools, Greth Garnett presenting, "The Bishop's Candelsticks," Miss Anna Mae Sandin, "Open Wider Please," and Otto Stodola "Just aak a Dat." All of these were well presented and made a very interesting feature of the evening.

It was voted to present the retiring presidents of the club in the future with an official club pin as a recognition of their services to the club.

The high school girls who were in attendance at the meeting as guests were Anna Zitka, senior and Ruth Shiffer, junior.

After the business of the session had been disposed of the ladies were treated to fine refreshments which had been prepared by the hostesses for the occasion.

INTER-CLASS GAMES TODAY

From Tuesday's Daily
The inter-class basketball games were staged at the high school this afternoon following the close of the regular session of the school. The seniors, among whom are Henry Donat, Clarence Forbes, Louie Knoflieck and David Robinson, will take on the sophomores, who have in their ranks William Ronne, Maynard McCleary and Kenneth Armstrong. The juniors and freshmen are to play, the juniors having two members of "the blue streak" in their line up, Sam Arn and Robert Rummel. This will be the last basketball offering of the season and will be a rather sad event for the seniors. Plattsmouth high school has had a fine season with their team one of the best in years and these games will demonstrate some of the material that must form the bulkwork of the team for next season.

HAS TRUCK OVERTURNED

From Tuesday's Daily
Jacob Kreager, giving his residence as Auburn, was arrested here last evening by Sheriff Ed Thigman and Officer Joe Libershal on the charge of being drunk. The man was driving a truck and headed for Omaha when the truck ran off the highway just south of Plattsmouth. The officers were notified of the wreck and the condition of the man and he was brought on into the city and lodged in the county jail. This morning he was given a fine of $25 and costs by Judge A. H. Duxbury on the complaint filed by County Attorney W. G. Kleck.

Local police officers state that the man was one who was taken into custody here a year ago on a similar charge while bringing a truckload of apples to Omaha.

Many Farmers of the County to Receive Trees

Seedling Trees Can Be Secured and Time for Applications Extended to April 10th.

Cass county farmers have ordered 35,000 seedling trees to date, through the Farm Bureau office. Due to the bad weather the time has been extended until April 10th to get applications in. Distribution of these seedling trees will begin Wednesday, March 23 this year, according to a letter mailed the 16th to all those who have trees ordered. If weather conditions delay the shipment of trees, those who have them coming will be notified through newspapers and radio stations. Clayton W. Watkins, extension forester, states in his letter.

For the first time, the seedlings will be packed at two different points in the state this year. All of the pines which have been produced at the Nebraska National Forest at Ealsey will be shipped from Halsey. All of the broadleaf stock has been assembled at Fremont and will be shipped from that point. Some farmers will get two bundles of trees, Watkins explains in his letter, but every effort will be made to get the trees to their destination at the same time. The packing of the broadleaf varieties at Fremont and the pines at Halsey will do away with any shipping of the seedlings in wholesale lots over the state. This should mean a higher percentage of survival of the 1932 seedling stock.

In setting the shipping dates earlier than usual Watkins hopes to get the trees to the farmers immediately after the frost is out of the ground and before the big rush of spring work has begun. The handling of the seedlings from the time they are shipped until they are in the ground is the most critical part of the tree planting program, he says. In his letter he asks farmers to get the bundles of trees from the post office or express office immediately to unwrap them and to place the roots in a bucket of water or thin mud. The trees should be planted the day they arrive or at least the next day, and the pines should be planted first. Only a few minutes of drying winds and hot sun on the bare roots of a seedling tree will kill it and cut down the percentage of survival in the planting.

Trees planted this year are being dedicated to the memory of George Washington, since 1932 is the two hundredth anniversary of his birth. All of the trees which farmers receive in Nebraska are being registered in the national honor roll with the American Tree Association and each farmer will receive a George Washington Bicentennial tree planting certificate.

Even though shipment of trees starts March 23, applications for seedlings will be held open until the tenth of April this year. Applications which came in late will be handled after the early orders have been filled according to the regular schedule. The cost of the trees is $1.00 per hundred to cover the cost of counting and packing. Applications are available at the farm bureau office.

WILL VISIT FARMS

The representatives of the Norfolk Packing Co., who are to operate their canning factory in this city the coming summer, are planning on making a canvass of the farms and small acreages near this city to secure contracts for the furnishing of crops for the use of the canning plant. At the meeting held here on Saturday, there was a very large number in attendance and the representatives of the canning company discussed the various varieties of crops that they would need in the conduct of the plant. The company will make personal calls at the farms and to enter into contracts, the work of securing the contracts being started as soon as possible. The experts of the company will also look over the various tracts as to the crops that would be best suited to the individual places.
