INTER-CLASS BATTLES

The inter-class basketball games at the high school gym on Tuesday afternoon attracted much attention from the young people of the school and left the final today up to the seniors and juniors.

The first game of the afternoon was that staged by the juniors and the freshmen and resulted in a junior victory by the score of 32 to 16, but the score at the half was 11 to 6 for the juniors and the lower classmen gave them some worry. In the junior lineup was Robert Rummel, Sam Ann, Stuart Porter, Greth Garnett, all members of the regular squad of the school.

The senior-sophomore battle was also hard fought and won by the seniors by the score of 29 to 11, but was a very interesting battle of the two teams. The seniors had in their team Donat, Forbes and Knodlock of the "blue streak" and who were responsible for the greater part of the scoring of the team. The sophomore had Maynard McLeary as the scoring ace of their aggregation and with the guarding of Ronne and Armstrong, the seniors had tough going.

The finals find the members of the high school quintet divided on the sides of the juniors and seniors and promising a real scrap before the championship of the school is decided.

MARRIED AT COURT HOUSE

TEXAS BISHOP TELLS A VIVID STORY

From Wednesday's Daily
Bishop Seaman kept a well filled church spellbound for over an hour last night at the St. Luke's church as he described the continuous fight the missionary has to wage against the tremendous distances, windstorms and misunderstanding of religious belief in the northwestern section of the state of Texas.

He told of the early struggle of the state for religious freedom from the tyranny of Mexico, its successful revolution and voluntary entry into the Union. The first missionaries were literally "foreign" missionaries as they went from the U. S. A. to what was then a "foreign" republic.

The development of North Texas from a farflung unfenced cattle ranching plain to an industrial and agricultural center which is growing so rapidly that religious and other organizations can hardly cope with the movement is a recent happening. Where open plains saw huge herds roaming a few years ago prosperous cities now stand. To these the church is ministering.

He defined a missionary area as one where there is great and immediate opportunity which must be seized at once. By erecting a tent, and then a temporary building, usually the time comes when the community is able to finance the brick or stone structure which is a permanent home for religion. The bishop described vividly the swaying of the frame churches as the "North-er" sweeps down, and the primitive and precarious conditions under which the missionary works. He showed that just as a man or woman is a soul and has a body so the church is a missionary society and has an organization to work with. Previous bishops were natives of Ireland and Virginia but the present bishop is a "Texan" born. Tanned by sun and wind, he presents the finest type of clean, out of doors man, filled with a zest and enthusiasm for his work which is contagious and greatly inspired all who heard him.

Choral evening prayer, with the Gospel for the Tuesday in Holy Week, was read before the address, which included also a description of the last week in the life of Christ on earth.

NOW SETTLED IN NEW HOME

A Growing List of Dead, Injured in the Tornado

Total Fatalities in Five Ravaged States Mounts Up to 275 as Reports Come In.

Birmingham, Ala.—Five southern states Tuesday night counted a total of 275 persons killed, more than 2,500 others injured and made homeless, and viewed unestimated property damage wrought by spring tornadoes Monday night and early Tuesday.

The storm struck with its greatest fury in Alabama, leaving 220 dead in this state alone. In Georgia thirty-four persons were killed, Tennessee counted seventeen dead, while Kentucky and South Carolina had two deaths each. From remote sections where communication lines had fallen and strewn wreckage had isolated entire communities, belated news raised the death list. Many of the injured died during the day.

The twisting winds struck first at Marion, Ala., then at Northport, both in the west central portion of the state. Twenty-nine were killed at Northport, while eighteen were counted dead at Marion.

From Demopolis, tornado winds swept into Faunsdale and Linden, all in the same area. Later the central part of the state, notably Lomax, Columbiana and Thorsby, felt the lash of the violent storm.

Dips Into Tennessee.
At the same time another tornado dipped into a half dozen Tennessee communities. At Pulaski five members of one family were killed under the wreckage of their home. A man was blown from sight and had not been located late at night. He was believed dead. At Cleveland a baby was snatched by the wind from its mother's arms and dropped into a well where it drowned.

In the northeastern and northwestern sections of Georgia thirty-four persons were killed in the vicinities of Rome, Dalton, Cartersville and Athens. Decatur, Atlanta and Milledgeville reported single casualties which were attributed to the storm.

A path a quarter of a mile long was left in Whitfield and Murray counties in North Georgia, and churches, homes and barns were wrecked. Ambulances at Dalton, Ga., in the vicinity of which five persons were killed, chugged over storm littered roads, searching the nearby rural communities for dead and taking medical attention to the injured.

Blown to Top of Tree.
At Dalton an unidentified white man was blown to the top of a tree, the wind blowing a piece of wood thru one of his arms. He hung suspended until daylight when he was rescued and taken to a hospital believed fatally injured. One man was killed near Spartanburg, S. C., and at Gaffney, S. C., a negro woman lost her life in the collapse of her dwelling.

Rescue workers pressed into wrecked communities and homes thruout the tornado ravaged areas all day and night still were working tirelessly in aiding the hundreds of injured, and in providing shelter for those left without homes. The Red Cross was organizing in Alabama for quick relief of the injured, and Governor Miller appealed for contributions for the storm sufferers in a formal proclamation to the people of his state. Saying "there will be great suffering unless they are aided properly." Governor Miller's proclamation called on people of the state to contribute relief funds for distribution thru the Red Cross. —State Journal.

Resizing.

After cleaning, a machine-made pile rug sometimes loses its shape or wrinkles and curls up because the sizing on the back has worn off. Resizing will pay for itself in adding to the durability of the rug as well as making it look much better and be done at home or by a carpet dealer. The rug should be stretched tight and true and tacked at frequent intervals face down on a floor or some other flat surface where it can remain undisturbed. It should then be sprinkled generously with a solution made by soaking and dissolving 1/4 pound of flake glue in 1/2 gallon of water in a double boiler or a container surrounded by hot water. The rug should be allowed to dry for at least 24 hours. If it is light weight, care should be taken not to put on so much glue that it penetrates to the right side.

Adequate Diet.

The food guide which project leaders of women clubs of the county are recommending to club members and visitors this month includes the following foods:
A quart of milk each day for each child up to 18 years of age, a pint for each adult. (A part of this may be cooked into the food, if that is desirable.)

At least three servings of vegetables each day. One of these may be potatoes or dried beans.

At least two servings of fruit (fresh or canned) each day. One raw fruit or vegetable each day. Tomatoes (canned or fresh) or oranges three times a week.

At least one egg a day.
Coffee or tea for adults (not more than one cup of each, each day.)

If the above foods are included in the diet each day, then the appetite may be satisfied with breads, butter, cereals, sweets, etc. If for any reason the supply of fruits and vegetables has to be small, then emphasis should be put upon the use of the whole grain cereals and coarse flours, altho, of course, these are beneficial at all times.

If the homemaker will be sure to include the suggestions above in her menus for the day, she will be sure to give her family not only a sensible mixture of foods but one based on sound scientific principles. In other words, she will be providing an adequate diet for them, the project leaders are telling their members.

Twentieth Annual Feeders Day.

The 20th annual Nebraska Stock Feeders day will be held at the College of Agriculture, Lincoln, Friday, April 15, 1932. Some of the current experimental work will be reported on as are told about in the following paragraphs:

There has been a great deal of interest during the current winter in the use of ground limestone as a possible substitute for alfalfa. One lot of calves is receiving one-tenth pound of ground limestone as a supplement and at the time of the feeders meeting there should be some interesting information to give out regarding this.

There is a great deal of interest in ensilage crops at this time. What can be used to advantage in the silo? In addition to corn ensilage we are this year testing an ensilage. We will have information regarding the tonnage per acre as well as the amount of grain per acre from these two crops.

The creep feeding of calves is an important subject. The North Platte substation is completing some work along this line and Mr. Baker will have a report to present at our meeting. These are just three of the many things which will be discussed at Feeders Day. There will be results of recently-completed lamb, hog, and cattle feeding experiments, which undoubtedly will prove of interest and value to the livestock feeders of Nebraska.

In addition to these tests, there will be results of other comparisons which will undoubtedly be of vital interest to the people in this county.
