Break Lenin's Rule; Plan Raises in Pay of All

Higher Officials of Soviet Government Reject "Equal Wages for All"

Moscow, March 31.—Members of the communist party, including the highest government officials, as well as factory workers who heretofore have been limited to the most meager salaries, may soon cash in on substantial raises in pay.

The political bureau, it was learned today, is considering trebling the maximum monthly income allowed party members from three hundred to nine hundred rubles (about $150 to $450.)

The raises are planned in accordance with the policy outlined by Joseph Stalin nine months ago, when he decided on the abolition of the system of "equal wages for all." Factory workers heretofore have been limited to the smallest salaries in order to set an example for the rest of the proletariat.

Three factors were said to be inspiring the action. The first is the enormous loss of time and energy by party members holding important posts due to the necessity for seeking out places where they may buy the necessities of life at prices commensurate with their incomes. The second is that many, especially those with large families, have sought extra work at writing or at lecturing in order to augment their income.

The third is that many capable officials have refused to accept posts of responsibility because they received the same pay as subordinates they would receive as chiefs, without the responsibility.

Only the highest officials, such as commissars, probably vice-commissars, and heads of important government trusts would receive the nine-hundred-ruble maximum, but lesser officials would be advanced proportionately above their present pay.

Since the revolution members of the party have been strictly limited to the smallest incomes and the plainest lives in accordance with Lenin's watchword for the pure communist state: "From each according to his ability, and to each according to his needs."—World-Herald.

D., April 2.—An added appropriation of $19,269 for purchase of a two months supply of food for human relief in the Nebraska and South Dakota counties receiving aid from the Red Cross was announced by Albert Evans, drouth relief director. Of this sum, $78,845 will go for the purchase of food for South Dakota counties. Nebraska counties will receive $39,423. This appropriation, Evans explained, is part of the Red Cross plan for closing its operations in the Nebraska and South Dakota drouth areas. When branch headquarters of the national organization in Mitchell are closed April 10, the county organizations will have been given facilities to handle the situation so far as human relief is concerned. Distribution of farm board livestock, feed and flour will continue as long as needed.

Police Fatally Wound Fugitive in Omaha Store

Believe That Man Is C. E. Darling, Sought for Bank Robbery in Missouri.

Omaha.—A man believed to be C. E. Darling, one of four men sought in the robbery of a bank at Republic, Mo., March 7, was shot and fatally wounded in a clothing store here late Thursday by Police Sergeants Frank Halsey and Harvey Haney. The man collapsed after fleeing a block from the store and died a half hour later at a hospital.

An Omaha driver's license bearing the name of C. E. Darling was found in the dead man's clothes.

Elmer Berg, nephew of the store owner, said the stranger, accompanied by another man, entered the store and tendered an express order in payment for a hat. Recalling warnings sent out against cashing express orders stolen in the robbery at Republic, Berg took the order to the credit department, where it was found to bear the same number as that of the series stolen in the bank holdup.

Man's Gun Overlooked. Returning downstairs, Berg passed the police officers who were trying on new uniforms. He told them of the express order and Halsey and Haney went with him to question the stranger. Haney searched the taller of the two men and discovered more express orders but did not find the man's gun.

The strangers were ordered to the rear of the store. As the group reached there, the tall man drew his gun and fired upon the officers. He missed and turned and fled toward a side door. Just as he reached it Halsey fired three times and Haney once. The man staggered, lurched thru the door and fled into the street with the officers in pursuit. In the meantime the shorter man had fled.

After a pursuit of a block the officers captured the wounded man and took him to a hospital. He died without making any statement other than that his name was "Davis."

Ohio Assembly Meets to Find Way to Relief

Special Session Expected to Raise 23,500,000 by Governor Geo. White's Plan.

Columbus, Ohio.—With their task cut out for them by Gov. George White, members of the Ohio General Assembly went into special session to enact relief legislation. The Governor issued the legislative call when it became apparent that many municipalities and other units could not continue their relief work on local funds.

His plan, which is ready for a joint session of Senate and House, he believes will raise $23,500,000. It includes a one per cent increase in the excise tax on public utilities over a period of five years. This tax would raise about $11,000,000. Carriers and pipe lines would be excluded. The money would be allocated to the counties for use. Other principal items in his plan:

Issuance of relief bonds by counties, subject to state tax commission and state welfare department approval.

Re-enactment of the law enabling school boards to furnish clothes, food, etc., to needy children.

Authorization of taxing sub-divisions to use their portions of gasoline tax and automobile license tax revenues for relief purposes.

Formation of a state relief commission of nine members to supervise relief expenditures.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce opposes the increase in the utilities excise tax and suggests instead that all delinquent taxes be collected.

The Ohio Farm Bureau opposes diversion of the gasoline and automobile license tax moneys, and suggests that permission be given to borrow on these funds for relief work. Other less organized opposition to various points in the Governor's program also has been voiced from various sections of the State. A wide variety of relief measures are expected to be offered during the short session.

A tax of $1 on after-dinner speeches is suggested in Ontario. The financial condition of the province must be desperate. Rarely, in ordinary times, is anything taxed at 200 per cent of its value.

Observers See Improvement in Bank Situation

Turn for Better Believed Due to Steps Taken by Congress—Hoover Tells of Loans.

Washington.—A definite improvement in the nation's banking situation was seen by the federal reserve board and was attributed to action taken by congress to expand credit. The board ascribed an upward trend to the law creating the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the organization of the corporation's work and the enactment of the Glass-Steagall bill to increase the powers of the federal reserve system. It said the latter had increased the system's power to co-operate in business recovery and had strengthened the credit structure of the country.

"The improvement in conditions is indicated by a pronounced decline in the number of bank failures, by a strengthening of the bond market and by a return flow of currency from the public to the banks," the board said. The board reviewed the Glass-Steagall bill, explaining that its provisions for increased powers of the federal reserve system were meant to be used in emergencies to aid banks which found themselves in difficulties.

Speaking of the broadening of the eligibility provisions of the bill which permits banks in difficulties to get funds from federal reserve banks on sound assets not eligible heretofore, the board said:

"Provisions in the new bill, however, do not deal with the question of eligibility under ordinary circumstances and do not contemplate any enlargement in the definitions of eligible paper. These sections are intended to provide for unusual and temporary conditions where an individual member bank, for example, because of loss of deposits either through gradual withdrawals or thru a run, finds itself under necessity of disposing of some of its sound but ineligible assets or else closing its doors and going into the hands of a receiver, with the subsequent loss to its depositors and had effect on the banking situation.

Under the new law the federal reserve banks in such circumstances are in a position to make it possible for the bank to continue in operation if it has a sufficient amount of good assets to justify the desired credit accommodation.

The board also hailed the provisions of the law broadening the securities which may be used to guarantee circulation as an aid to the federal reserve system in that it would permit an increase in free gold. Many banks had used gold, above the legal 40 percent requirement to back their currency issues rather than use the then eligible paper. It pointed out that the amount of currency had increased due to gold exports and hoarding and that the new law in emergency would enable the system to call upon its entire gold holdings above legal requirements if needed.

Hoover Tells of Loans. President Hoover at his regular Friday press conference announced that a total of $234,981,714 had been loaned by the Reconstruction corporation. Of this amount 587 banks and trust companies received $126,895,073 or an average of $216,162 per institution.

The second largest amount went to the secretary of agriculture for agricultural loans. A total of 50 million dollars was turned over to him promptly after the corporation was organized. Thirteen railroads have received $46,975,557 or an average of $3,613,504 each. Building and loan associations totaling eighty-eight received $2,917,000 or an average per association of $162,055. Thirteen insurance companies received $5,765,999 or an average of $443,461.—State Journal.
