"Jacob at Bethel"

Genesis 28:10-17.

This man had a peculiar experience all through his eventful life. For eighty years of his life he had used deceit and trickery, and he had to reap what he had sowed. A good deal of all the evil and shady acts go to the account of an over-fond mother, but the son was by nature bent in that direction and would follow the lead gladly because of the gain that loomed ahead. His mother, Rebekah, was a born schemer. She would gain by trickery for her favorite son what God had intended he should have. But see what her course of action accomplished, what misery and heartache the whole family had to suffer. The first fruit of this conduct was that Esau married two Hittite women—idol worshippers. Next he brings the third woman, an Ishmaelite, into the home. Now trouble began. The climax came when Isaac at the age of 127 years, enfeebled, with poor eyesight, a senile old man believing that he was near the end (because Ishmael had died 10 years before at that same age) would get ready for the end and put his house in order, establish Esau as the head of the house and confer upon him the blessing that belongs to the first-born. But Rebekah, overhearing what Isaac and Esau planned circumnavigated their plans and induced Jacob to play the role of the deceiver, to which he reluctantly gave consent. By her acts, Rebekah trailed the name of "Mother" in the dust of hypocrisy. If we would be the kind of mother whose child keeps her enshrined within her heart, we must show no partiality. We must be frank and absolutely truthful ourselves. If we expect these attributes in our children, what did Jacob gain by this offense? Not the fulfillment of the divine promise, for that would have been fulfilled and far more happily had he never sinned. What he gained by this sin was misery, shame, fear, remorse. As the direct and immediate consequence of this sin, he had to leave his father's tent. The cheat was cheated year after year by Leah, by his wives, by his children. His own children repaid on Joseph, his darling, the very wrongs which he himself had inflicted on Esau. He never saw his mother again.

Rebekah again finds a way, and a plausible excuse to have Isaac dis-

E. J. Boedeker of southwest of town was on the market at Omaha with three truck loads of very fine hogs.

The Mrasek Transfer company had three truck loads of stock on the South Omaha market Monday of this week.

Will Creamer has accepted a position on the farm of Victor Wehrlein and will assist in conducting the farm work.

Wm. Hutchison and wife were over to Murray and as well to Plattsmouth on Monday looking after some business matters.

John Frans, the painter, has been refinishing the interior of the store room of Will S. Smith and making things look real new.

Get your supper on May 21st at the Presbyterian church. You will be pleased with the excellent supper which you will receive.

M. R. Edwards, superintendent of the building of county bridges was looking after some business matters in Murray on Monday of this week. John Frans has just completed the painting of the home of Mrs. M. E. Dull and which is adding much to the value as well as the looks of the place.

J. C. Stewart, who has with the family been residing in the Presbyterian manse, moved this week to the residence property of Mrs. Betty Barrows.

Lester Dill had the misfortune to lose a good cow from clover bloat. There has been a number of farmers who have had trouble with this same cause.

Earn Carroll and the family who make their home near Omaha, were visiting for the day last Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carroll.

Mrs. George Berger who has been visiting for a number of days at the home of friends and relatives at Nebraska City returned last Saturday after having enjoyed a very fine visit.

A. Townsend, the barber, Monday of this week moved from the Dull property to the W. H. Hendricks place and will raise a good big garden, for he sure knows how and also the value of a garden.

Jarvis Lancaster has been busy with grinding for the customers at the mill and is making some excellent pancake flour as well as feeds and other products. Better drop in and see how the mill operates.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Nickles were over to Omaha on Monday of this week where Mr. Nickles was called to look after some business matters and where they were also visiting with friends for a time.

T. J. Brendel and wife were in from Franklin where they are stationed and visited with their friends and relatives here and while here had their household goods stored at the home of Tom Tilson, who farms the W. L. Seybolt place.

J. A. Scotten and Ralph Kennedy were doing some work at the home of J. G. Englekemeier, where they were making some important changes in the home. They also were building some hog sheds and chicken houses for Fred Kahler.

Uncle Charles H. Boedeker, who has been making his home at that of his daughter, Mrs. John L. Young, and where he has been ill for the greater portion of the winter was able to come to town on Monday of this week and enjoyed greatly visiting here with his many friends.

Mrs. Ella Barker, manager of the Murray Telephone company office was called to Avoca some time since to assist in the nursing of her sister who has been quite ill for some time past. With the improvement of the sister Mrs. Barker was able to return to her home and duties at the telephone office.

Receives Nice Promotion.

Thadford Wurtman, a nephew of George, Lee and Miss Etta Nickles, who has been selling the products of the Gamble Chemical company, has been given a nice promotion, having recently been made sales manager. Mr. Wurtman was a visitor in Murray Sunday and a guest at the Nickles home. He had just returned from an extended trip to Chicago for the company.

At the end of the third day, night overtakes him at a place called Luz, but he prefers to camp out in the open, not caring to lodge in a heathen village. A stone answers for a pillow. Tired, dispirited, homesick, away from home and father's God, he lays down and soon is asleep.

But as God so oft has visited men in dreams—who does not think of Joseph's boyhood dreams, Solomon's dream in Gibeon, Isaiah's vision in the temple, Nebucadnezzar's dream interpreted by Daniel, Ezekiel's visions, the dream of Pilate's wife, Stephen's vision of Christ, Peter's vision at Jappa, Paul's vision of the man of Macedonia, John's vision of the New Jerusalem. But of them all, probably none is so famous as Jacob's dream of the angel's ladder.

The ladder stands on the earth. The heavenly stairway does not float in the air, but is firmly established with its foot on the ground. Thus our highest ideals must have a solid basis in human life, or they will topple over. And the top reached to heaven. Religion is a restored connection between the soul and God. The ground is a very good place to start from, but a very poor place to stop on. "Angels ascending and descending." They are employed to do God's errands. "Jehovah stood above it." "God found him at Bethel." Hosea says (12:4) "From that time Jacob felt more deeply the presence of God in his life. He had learned that Jehovah was not only in Beer-Sheba, but wherever he went." God, at the summit of his creation, directing and controlling all. The covenant is renewed, given to Abraham and Isaac, with added blessings. (See verse 15). Jacob awakens out of sleep and finds himself in the presence of God. Henceforth his journey is joyful, for he was conscious of God's companionship. Every soul can so walk with God every day and hour. No man can be happy without the Bethel experience.

Had a Fine Time.

Some nineteen of the young folks of Murray gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Seybolt on last Sunday where they enjoyed a very fine visit, and a good time, they making a quantity of ice cream with an abundance of good cake, they had a feast.

No Night Service Sunday.

On last Sunday there was no night service at the Christian church as the Rev. Lloyd Schubert was called back to his home town, Stella, where he was assisting in the baccalaureate service at that place.

Injured Foot Badly.

Jack Lindsay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lindsay while at his work turned his ankle and which has been giving this gentleman much trouble.

Dr. G. H. Gilmore was down and reduced the dislocation and the young man is getting on although it will be some time before he is well again.

Not in Our Town.

A young man, so the story goes, has a sister named Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable boarding school. When she went he remarked that he hoped she wouldn't acquire any of the affectations so often learned in such places. For about a year he had no fault to find upon this score, then came a letter signed "Jessie" instead of Jessie. He replied as follows: "Dear sister Jessie: Your welcome letter received. Mamma and papa are well. Aunt Mary and Georgia started for California yesterday. I have bought a new horka. It is a beautica. Its name is Mamiaca. Your affectioned brother, Samica." Her next letter was signed Jessie.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to thank all my friends and neighbors, for the timely assistance given Dewey True to put out the fire on the Villa Asch Farm last week while I was in Omaha. I assure you it is truly appreciated.—Mrs. A. Dove Asch.

Obituary.

Frans Gustave Oscar Nelson was born in Granna, Sweden, Sept. 17, 1850, died at his daughter's home at Nehawka, Nebr., May 9, 1932, aged 81 years, 7 months and 22 days. He was united in marriage Christmas day, 1871 to Johanna Carlson. To this union was born six girls and four boys. Two children died in early years in the old country. His wife and one boy, Vincent, preceded him in death in this community.

The surviving children are G. W., Mrs. Gertrud Carper, Mrs. O. Landberg and Mrs. R. H. Ingwerson of Nehawka; Theo. W., of Imperial; E. H., of Murray and Mrs. Frank Vantine of Crawford, Nebr.

He was raised up in the Lutheran faith, which he maintained thru life. He was a patient sufferer for a number of years. He laid down the burdens of this life at about 1:30 a. m. Monday morning, at about the hour many are wont to take up the week's work and cares.

Funeral services were held at the M. E. church at Nehawka at 2:30 p. m., in charge of Rev. George L. Morcy.

He came to this country in 1885, two years prior to his family's coming in 1887, first at Louisville, then Weeping Water and 1896 at the present community. He worked in quarries, then took up farming as his life work.

The family cleaned the timber and brush off the ground and broke it, later helped set the orchard and evergreens around the place where the last old well was sunk, on the old Uncle Isaac Pollard land one mile south of Nehawka.

MURRAY TAKES OPENER

The Murray Red Sox started their season Sunday afternoon with a victory over the Union baseball team by the score of 17 to 3. The game was featured by the hitting of Newman, third sacker of Murray, who made a total of four hits out of five trips to the plate, including one triple and three two baggers. Stone and Pierce, outfielders, were also featured in the hitting column. Hopkins started the hurrying for the Sox but was succeeded by "Doc" Taylor in the seventh frame and who finished the game. Hatcliff did the pitching for the Union team. The box score of the game was as follows:
