

MURDOCK ITEMS

Achievement Day is set for June 2. Meeting to be held at Murdock school building.

The Girl Reserves entertain their mothers with a banquet on Tuesday evening at the school house.

Mrs. Frank Buell was in Omaha the first part of the week attending the Eastern Star convention.

Rudolph Kuehn was hauling corn from the Farmers Elevator to his home on the farm for feeding cattle.

Henry Heinemann has been doing some work for Herbert Bornemeier at the home on the farm in the carpenter line.

Richard Tool, of Kingsley, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tool, of Wahoo, spent Mother's day at the Henry Tool home.

I. C. McCrory, with the aid of the women folks, are painting and decorating the kitchen at the farm home and otherwise improving the home.

The Frank Green family of Aurora visited at the H. H. Lawton home Sunday and also called on Grandma Lawton, of Wabash, who has been quite ill for the past two weeks.

The choir and pastor of the Evangelical church drove to Shenandoah, Iowa, Sunday, and broadcast a program from the station there which was well received by the listening folks.

Mrs. McHugh and Edwin went in to Omaha Sunday to spend the day with Mary Katherine and other relatives. They had the pleasure of attending a Mothers Day musical program at the Joslyn Memorial.

Mrs. Henry Koelling, of Ord, a sister of Mesdames Wm. Rikli and Henry Heinemann, has been here for the past week, called on account of the serious illness and the subsequent death of her mother, Mrs. George Merckle.

Training meeting for project leaders in this community will be held May 27th, at the home of Mrs. Henry A. Tool. Regular meeting of the club will be held Monday, May 30th, at 7:30 p. m., at the Murdock school building.

The F. A. Melvin family spent Sunday in Lincoln with Mrs. Laura Melvin and Miss Jessie and also called at the J. B. Elliott, Sr. home near Alvo, where all of the children were calling on their mother and father, too.

Lawrence Race was called to Plattsmouth on last Thursday to secure repairs for the work shop and was accompanied by Albert Bauer, who visited with friends while there. Mrs. Bauer also accompanied and visited with her relatives and friends.

Wm. Heller, Sr., was delivering some corn to the Farmers elevator on last Wednesday and Thursday, which he had placed in a bin on the farm when he shelled some time ago, and is delivering it as he can when he has time from other work on the farm.

Mesdames Henry Heinemann, Wm. Rikli and Henry Koelling, the latter from Ord, who was called here from her home on account of the death of their mother, Mrs. George Merckle, was over to Plattsmouth, where they were looking after some business matters.

The friends of the popular instructor of the Murdock high school, Miss Bernice Nickel, gave this young woman a very pleasant evening when they held a shower for her on last Saturday night. Miss Nickel is to wed Mr. Alfred Bornemeier early in June.

Connie Wehrmann, who has been in the hospital at Omaha for the past three weeks was able to return to his home east of town last week and is feeling very good under the circumstances. He was in the hospital for some three weeks, having undergone a severe surgical operation. He is getting along nicely, but it will be some time before he is able for heavy work.

A. J. Tool has been making some alterations at the store, that the store room may be handier to display the goods and to serve the customers. The facts are that Mr. Tool needs another room to display his goods in for his stock is too great for the room which he has, but these times are a little too close to think of spending money for needed room. He has the goods just the same and will be glad to show them.

The Ladies Aid Meets

The Ladies Aid of the Murdock church gathered at the home of Mrs. Paul Schewe, where they had a very pleasant gathering on last Thursday, with their work, a social hour and the very fine luncheon which was served by the genial hostess.

Four Square Club Elects

The Four Square club met Monday, May 2nd, and the following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Bryan McDonald, president; Mrs.

Chester Elseman, vice president; Mrs. John Kruger, secretary and treasurer. Miss Bernice Miller is club reporter; Mrs. L. D. Lee social leader, Mrs. A. J. Tool, project leader and Mrs. Henry Amgwert, assistant.

Installs New Gas Pump

Morgan Shatto, who operates the garage of E. W. Thimgan, on last Thursday had the National Refining company install pumps and will sell White Rose gasoline and Enarco products. This makes three distinct gas companies in Murdock and should be enough to care for the trade.

New Out in the World

With this week the Murdock school year is closing and there is to be a vacation which will surely be enjoyed by the students who are to return for another year. But there are to be some who will not return, they being nine young people who are graduating from the school here and where they have been given the very best opportunity to acquire a good education and have gotten it. Those who are closing their education in the school here and who may continue elsewhere or may take a course in the hard knocks of the world are: Misses Harriet Lawton, Violet Rosenow, Irene Reichman, Wilma Knosp, Martha Oehlerking and Evelyn Kuehn and Donald Reichman, Joe Marshall and James Miller.

Wide Awake Garden Club

The Wide Awake Garden club met at the home of Daniel Ruge May 10, at 4 o'clock. The meeting was called to order by the president. The roll was called and ten members were present and four absent. Lesson 3, "Transplanting, Cultivation" was discussed after being read. We decided to have Robert Miller match some baseball games for us and also to go on a fishing trip some time in June. The next meeting will be held on June 8th, at the school house.

Senior Class Holds Play

POPPY MAKING PROVIDES EMPLOYMENT

"How soon will the poppy work begin again?" In government hospitals in many parts of the country and in the poppy work rooms of the American Legion Auxiliary this question holds first importance, according to Mrs. Adelaide Boynton, chairman of the local Auxiliary Unit's poppy committee. During the winter and spring several thousand disabled veterans have been given employment making the little red flowers which the Auxiliary will sell on "Poppy Day," to be worked in honor of the World War dead. Now nearly ten million of the flowers have been completed. The job is nearly done. Until the Auxiliary starts making poppies again there will be scant opportunity of employment for these disabled veterans.

"How soon these men, who are barred from most occupations because they sacrificed their health and strength in the country's defense can be placed back at work making poppies depends entirely upon the public response to the Auxiliary's poppy sale," Mrs. Boynton said. "If the ten million poppies which the disabled veterans have made for this year's sale are taken readily by the public the Auxiliary will feel able to begin work on a larger supply of poppies for next year's sale."

"The situation for the disabled veterans is especially desperate this year. Even in normal times it was difficult for them to find any means of earning money and under present employment conditions the Auxiliary's poppy program offers almost the only possibility. The Auxiliary is very eager that every one in Plattsmouth wear a poppy on 'Poppy Day' this year, first, to pay tribute to the war dead; second, to provide funds for relief work among the disabled men and their families, and finally to create more employment for those heroic men who have nowhere else to look for work."

Dead Eaglet is Identified by His Father

Body of Lindbergh Baby Cremated Following Viewing of Body by Grief Stricken Parent.

Trenton, May 13.—There was—as one onlooker described it—evidence of deep feeling, but no outward emotional sign nor break in his calm as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh looked at his murdered son in the undertaking establishment here today.

The colonel arrived in his motor car, with Col. Henry Breckenridge, his personal attorney, driving. They drove through a crowd that jammed traffic for blocks and into an alley. At the back door of the undertaking place they were met by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf and other officials.

The party repaired immediately to a little room. In the center of it, resting on a stand, was a tink oak coffin, covered. No move was made to open it immediately because Erwin E. Marshall, the prosecutor, had not arrived. He came in a few minutes, nodded to the colonel and ordered the casket opened.

Steps Forward to Look.

Colonel Lindbergh stepped forward and looked. For an instant there seemed a flash of pain across his face, a tightening of the lips.

The father examined the teeth closely for several minutes. A cover hid the lower part of the body from his view. He motioned to an undertaker's assistant.

"Take it off," he said, "I want to see it all."

For a minute more he examined the toes of a foot and indicated with a nod that his examination was complete. Prosecutor Marshall motioned him to another room. With them went other officials. The door was locked.

"Colonel Lindbergh," queried Marshall, "are you fully satisfied that is the body of your child?"

"I am perfectly satisfied," he responded.

He asked then to be excused from any further questions at the moment. He said he had been under great strain and he wanted to leave immediately—he hoped they would understand, and he promised to answer any questions they might wish to put to him later.

Body to a Crematory.

While this was going on, the body of the baby was placed in a hearse and started on its journey to the crematory. Colonel Lindbergh emerged a few minutes later, entered his car and slumped in the rear seat. He was hatless. His expression was sober and weariness was visible in his face and shoulders. Colonel Breckenridge took the wheel and police found it difficult to hold a lane through a crowd of several thousand gathered at the end of the alley.

As the car swung by the crowd broke the police lines. Hundreds of children ran as fast as they could for several blocks as if they would pursue the colonel as far as he went. They were quickly outdistanced and the machine turned a corner and was lost to view.

Colonel Lindbergh's car was preceded to a crematory in Linden by the hearse bearing the little oak casket.

Fifty or more persons who had gathered around the place were requested to leave.

Lindy Is a Witness.

When the grounds had been cleared the casket was taken from the hearse into the building, followed by Colonel Lindbergh, Colonel Schwarzkopf and Colonel Breckenridge.

The three silently witnessed the cremation. They saw the body lowered into the retorts by three engineers and assistants.

Without visible emotion, they peered for a moment through the transparent opening provided for special witnesses.

Then the bereaved father turned to the superintendent of the crematory, shook his hand, and said: "I thank you."

It was understood the ashes of the baby would be left there overnight. A Trenton undertaking establishment was instructed to call for them tomorrow. Where they will be taken was not revealed.—Kansas City Star.

Call for Night Work to Pass Tax Measure

In the Meantime the Minority Report Is Submitted Opposing Tariff Items.

Washington.—The billion dollar revenue raising bill was rolled into the senate with a call by Majority Leader Watson for night sessions beginning next week to speed its passage.

The measure will be taken up Friday and an intent senate listened to the appeal for speed on the budget balancing legislation. Watson asked the senate to work for an adjournment by June 10.

At the same time, blunt notice of a bitter fight to eliminate the four tariff items on oil, coal, copper and lumber was served by five democratic members of the finance committee who had joined in the support of the tax bill otherwise.

The anti-tariff report, submitted by Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, said in part: "The log rolling methods which have resulted in the incorporation of these particular tariff items, for these items yield no income to the government worth considering, would be indefensible even if the committee were considering a general revision of the tariff."

Senators Harrison, George, Costigan and Hull, joined Walsh in signing the report.

Meanwhile, the special economy committee plunged ahead at its task behind locked doors.

Outside what President Hoover has called the "locust swarm of lobbyists," was gathering to forestall it possible the elimination of expenditures in which they are interested.

Thursday night over the radio Senator Connally declared for the non-partisan drive for economy but reminded the public that the deficit of the last two years incurred by the government was done by the republican controlled congress—not by the present one—and under a republican administration. — State Journal.
