Mrs. Kruger, who was leaving home, looking across the field saw the husband and rushed to him, and finding his condition, telephoned for a doctor, and the neighbors hearing on the hue hurried to where he was with a car and took him to the house as well as caring for the team. there was no apprehension of the thieves. The car which was stolen from the Hansen garage several weeks ago has not yet turned up, and with the coming morn following the theft it is possible for the thief to be out of the state, and out of reach. A few of these thieves in the penitentiary would help things some.

DECLARE JAPANESE MENACE Washington.—A member of congress and a war correspondent told the house territories committee they thought the Hawaiian islands should be put under military control in the interests of the United States' defense. Representative Britton made his statement after a clash with Representative Johnson, Washington, over whether the 149,000 persons of Japanese extraction in the islands are a menace to American defenses.

Britton contended they are, while Johnson held the Illinois member was "unduly criticizing good American citizens." Floyd Gibbons, the war correspondent, agreed with Britton. He was allowed to testify after Chairman Williams had said the committee in its study of the Britton bill to put a military government into the Hawaiian islands would prefer to hear only Britton and representatives of the war and navy departments. The witnesses for these two departments, Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, disapproved the Britton bill as it now is drawn.

Council Votes to Pay Premium on City Bonds

Result of Reports from Many Nebraska Cities Support Payment of Official Bonds.

From Tuesday's Daily The regular session of the city council last evening was attended by all of the members and the body ground out much business in the short time that they were in session.

A communication was received from the Norfolk Packing Co., through E. H. Barnhardt, manager, in which the company asked permission to erect a silo north of their plant. This request was granted as asked.

A communication was received from County Treasurer John E. Turner that he had on hand $6,240 in coupons due on special improvement obligations of the city and that the city treasurer had refused to give warrants for these. City Treasurer Brown also had a communication before the council in which he stated he wished the orders of the council in paying the amount as some of it was in funds that were insufficient.

This matter was referred to the finance committee for action. Chairman Luschnsky of the judiciary committee reported that the committee had sent letters to eleven second class cities of the state relative to the matter of the city paying the premiums of the security bonds of the officers. In nine of the cities the bonds of all of the officials were paid, in Crete and Alliance which have manager form of government, the bond of the manager, treasurer and all appointive officers were supplied by the city. The committee recommended that their report be adopted and the amount of the bonds for the local officers be allowed, $171. This motion was carried by Councilmen Davis and Smith voting no. Mr. Davis explained his vote that the opinion of the city attorney and attorney general had been that there was no provision in law for this.

The claims committee through Councilman Gabelman reported on the claim for repairing the city tractor, deducting the amount of 12.50 for work on the governor and allowing the amount of $6.19. The claims committee also recommended that a small tract of tax property north of the Missouri Pacific depot be sold to the McMaken Transfer Co., for the amount of $10, the purchasers to pay accumulated interest for 1929, '30 and '31.

Chairman Johnson of the streets, alleys and bridges committee, reported that investigation of the street near the Yroman place in South Park disclosed that for a short distance a part of the road had been farmed and near the old school building all of the road was closed off and used for farming. The committee recommended that the city clerk notify the city attorney to notify the parties to remove the fences and open up the street. This was approved by the council.

Chairman Tulene of the cemetery committee reported that the work at the cemetery was progressing nicely and the cemetery would be in excellent shape by decoration day.

Mayor Sattler stated that he had been disappointed in securing a proper place for a city dumping ground and would refer the matter to the parks and improvement committee for their consideration.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Chamber of Commerce for having allowed the city the use of furniture for the city clerk and police office.

On motion of Councilman Webb the lighting committee was authorized to investigate and report at the next meeting on the saving to be made by the cutting off of a part of the electric lights at certain hours.

Councilman Rebel of the police committee reported that the city jail had been cleaned up and was in first class shape.

The bids for the construction of the driveway and lowering walks at the approach to the Norfolk Packing Co. plant were then read and showed that of Bert Coleman to be $171; that of William Kief at $154 with grading and lowering of walks at $28, and the Modern Construction Co., at $181.99. These bids were turned over to the streets, alleys and bridges committee and after checking them the recommendation was made that the contract be let to Bert Coleman and which was approved by the council.

There was some further discussion of the South Sixth street paving and recommendations of the Henningson Engineering Co., received relative to suggested plans and this was placed in the hands of the streets, alleys and bridges committee for consideration.

Hoover Drafting Plans for Talks with Publishers

Hopes to Mass Public Opinion for Co-operative Effort—Senate Told of Woes.

Washington, May 23.—Party leaders of the senate reaffirmed the non-partisan spirit guiding them on fiscal legislation today while President Hoover perfected plans to confer with newspaper publishers Wednesday night in search of new means to encourage the country.

Through the 39 publishers invited here, President Hoover hopes to mass public opinion for "co-operative community" support of the economic and legislative courses that he considers point most directly to the way from trial and uncertainty. That's the way it was expressed in quarters close to him, along with an emphasis that partisan advantage will not be sought. The publishers' names were withheld.

President Hoover's rejection of proposals for a gigantic public works bond issue drew sharp attack in the senate. Two relief proposals were brought forward, one calling for a five billion dollar bond issue for public works.

Plan House Meeting. In the house, independents planned a meeting for Thursday night to devise a plan to "give immediate help in the form of public works and direct relief to the homeless and starving."

Contending that President Hoover was leaving the unemployed "no alternative except starvation and revolt," Senator Cutting (rep., N. M.) introduced a bill calling for a five billion dollar public works program.

Senator Barbour (rep., N. J.) introduced a bill to increase the capitalization of the reconstruction corporation by $1,500,000,000 for self-liquidating loans, and a senate commerce subcommittee approved a gigantic bond issue for river and harbor improvement.

Senate Told of Woes. President Hoover's letter opposing a bond issue for construction also drew criticism from Senator Lewis (dem., Ill.) and Harrison (dem., Miss.).

Harrison told the senate there was no such individual as Richard S. Parker, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, to whom the letter was addressed. White house officials immediately moved to correct a clerical error, through which the president's letter to Herbert S. Crocker had been sent to a "Richard S. Parker."

Earlier the senate heard various members parade the "woes that have been confronting congress."

Letter Condemned. A letter which Alfred E. Smith, Nicholas Murray Butler and nine other eminent men addressed to congressional leaders yesterday, urging speedy nonpartisan action to balance the budget, aroused resentment on Capitol Hill. Both the republican and democratic senate leaders, Watson and Robinson, were among those who criticized it as uncalled for.

A colloquy that seemed to sum up the sentiments took place between Robinson and Senator Foss (rep., O.) who said nearly all the mail reaching the legislators "expresses the desire for balancing the budget, but—" "But don't put any tax on me," supplied Robinson.

"That's right," Foss continued. "They say balance the budget but don't reduce this particular appropriation or put a tax on me."—World-Herald.

Dry Act Rises Up to Trouble the Party Leaders

Republican Effort to Effect a Compromise Fails to Make Any Progress.

Washington.—Prominent republicans are endeavoring to shape a moist plank which would conserve the party's dry support, but so far they have run up against opposition from dry organization leaders who have been consulted. This was disclosed as the house defeated another effort to legalize and tax 2.75 percent beer and as two prohibition organization principals clashed over whether Franklin D. Roosevelt was really wet at heart or a repealer for political gain only.

Coincident with the revelation that one of the many republican planks being considered would oppose repeal, but permit slow modification of the eighteenth amendment easy, Dinwiddie, secretary of the national prohibition board of strategy, said he had been consulted by many republicans, but had turned a deaf ear to all suggestions.

"We are against any extra-constitutional method of making repeal of the eighteenth amendment easy," Dr. Dinwiddie said. "We've got our orders from our people and we will oppose any proposition that would be letting down on enforcement."

"The dries who are working on this," he added, "are trying to conserve the cause and help the party. We are dries and we are in an ir-repressible conflict with the wets who want to repeal prohibition. As it is now it is up to the men in congress to represent their own districts and states and their own convictions on prohibition. Any plank which would attempt to bind the mto a party attitude would be corraling votes for the opposition."

All republican plank proposals considered thus far have been tentative. Representative Snell of New York, the house leader who is in line for permanent chairman of the national convention, predicted the platform would contain an "insert" plank on prohibition, but no one could tell what the details would be.

"It is pretty hard," said Snell, who always has voted dry, "to take a position that the people cannot express their sentiments on a vitally important economic and social problem." Meanwhile, speculation in both parties began with the disclosure that Senator Borah would not attend the republican convention, and the advocacy by Roosevelt in an Atlanta speech of a redistribution of the national wealth. Borah, while making no statement himself, is understood to have expressed his determination to remain away from the Chicago conclave in response to a direct inquiry from President Hoover. While the Idahoan helped to frame the 1928 platform and took a leading role in the ensuing presidential campaign, he has been in disagreement with Mr. Hoover on every major issue since.

Little comment was forthcoming on the Roosevelt speech, which Senator Long, Louisiana, inserted in the Congressional Record after reading in the senate that part touching on a "wise" distribution of the nation's wealth.—State Journal.
