A BUSY PLACE

The activities in and near the "shops," is the greatest that it has been for a great many years, or in fact since the close of the railroad strike in 1922. The BREX refrigerator car shops are now operating at a full force while the Norfolk Packing Co. plant is also employing a growing force of men and women in their new industry here. At this time the construction of the cattle feeding yards south of the shop yards also is employing quite a force of men in getting the yards ready for the feeding.

A trip through that locality in the middle of the day when all of the activities are operating is one that looks good from a labor employing standpoint.

HERE FROM CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Rummel, of Burbank, California, are in the city to enjoy a few weeks' visit here at the home of Mr. Rummel's parents and the other relatives and friends in this locality. They are looking fine and had a most pleasant trip from the west coast and since their arrival have been busy in meeting the many old time friends.

CLUB MEETS

The Peppery Cooking club met at the home of the leader, Mrs. Kreauger July 26th. The president called the meeting to order. The roll call indicated that all members were present. There were no minutes read. After the business meeting the members baked bread which was good.

The next meeting will be August 9th.

HERE FROM WASHINGTON

Mrs. James McBride, of Tacoma, Washington, arrived last evening from her home in the west and will enjoy a visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Peterson and the other relatives as well as the old time friends in the city. Mrs. McBride was formerly Miss Minnie Peterson of this city.

CARNIVAL PASSES THRU CITY

SCOUTS BACK HOME FROM 26 DAY TOUR OF SOUTH

The Louisville Scout caravan pulled into Plattsmouth Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and after dropping off the two local boys who had accompanied them, proceeded on their way to Louisville, arriving there by 5 p. m. On their arrival in Louisville the speedometer on Rev. Murphree's car lacked just ten miles of reaching the predicted 4,000 miles the trip would probably embrace.

Yesterday's run was from Bates City, Mo., some 30 miles below Kansas City, and the same point they had camped the second night on the way down, due to tire trouble slowing up their progress.

The left Birmingham around noon Tuesday, camped that night at Florence, Alabama, near Muscle Shoals power plant, and Wednesday night at Ulin, Illinois, about 30 miles north of Cairo. Thursday's run was over 400 miles.

The boys were all well and happy, but seemingly glad to get home. For the entire duration of the trip they have "roughed it" in true Scout fashion, cooking their own meals and sleeping under pup tents or in the open when the weather was favorable. They are all well tanned and come back with greatly increased knowledge of the country thru which they passed.

SUMMER

On the banks of the old Missouri! The winter wind has ceased to blow Across the hectic plains; Roses bloom and tulips grow, And the valleys are covered with grain.

The ether waves dance hither and yon As the corn begins to shoot, The squirrels' bark, bark bark awakes the fawn, As the owl begins to hoot.

The music of the reaper is heard afar, Reminding us that harvest is at hand, And winter winds will soon spar, To turn the south winds afar, To warm some other land.

With bins all full of provider, And cattle and hogs to feed, What is now, to hinder us, Emptying our hearts of greed?

When summer is over and gone, And the birds have taken their flight, To fairer lands of sweet refrain, When the landscape breathes delight.

We hear the carpenters' hammers, As they drive the nails in the boards, Remodeling the house with gables and banners, Fills the air with music chords.

Then with rapture we tell the story, How our God provides for man, Leaving him in all his glory, To choose the evils he desires to ban.

Over the hills and through the valleys, We make our last review, May the white winged angel sally, And sprinkle our hearts with dew.

STARTS TAXI SERVICE

End to Slums in Mexico City Urged in Plan

Seminar Hears a Proposal for the Improvement of Civic Architecture.

Mexico City.—Senior Carlos Contreras, a leading architect of this city and chief of the program commission of the Secretariat of Communications, in an address to the Seminar in Mexico on "Housing Conditions in Mexico," outlined his recommendations for the permanent improvement of civic architecture.

The plan, which is now under consideration of municipal officials, includes a regional master plan to control the growth of the federal district, zoning, a housing law with strict, which embraces the Mexican powers of enforcement, establishment of a building and loan association, competitions for good architecture, and an educational drive.

In approaching the problem of improving housing conditions, Senior Contreras turns his first attack on the slum areas, the establishment of which he sees necessary "to prevent the continuous creation of conditions which are a shame for the country and a threat to the city."

Whether his suggestions were accepted or not, he said there were three fundamental steps to consider. First, necessary legislation to authorize the destruction of houses and slums considered unsanitary, and eliminating these unsatisfactory conditions, he would then proceed with the reconstruction of residential quarters preceded by changing the present policy of dividing the city blocks into small lots.

The second requisite is necessary legislation or regulations which will define the essential elements making up a healthy home and fixing the minimum requirements of light, ventilation, hygiene and safety.

Turning to the last point, he brings up the necessity of government financial aid and suggests four ways in which this may be brought about. The state or city delegated with powers to buy land and build houses needed for the workmen either in the city or suburbs; the state to lend money at a low rate of interest to philanthropic companies or co-operative societies formed by the workmen or future tenants; by means of loans made directly to the workmen desiring to build their homes on easy installments; and last—to exempt from taxes all houses built in accordance with a standard type and fixed cost.

AUGUST MEETING OF W. F. M. S.

From Thursday's Daily
Yesterday afternoon, a very important meeting of the ladies who are doing their foreign mission work in their own land, was held at the home of Miss Emma De Hart on Ninth street.

The devotionals brought the thought that prayer must not be neglected, for it is most necessary help. At this time the least of everything must not be disregarded, for with God—nothing is lost.

Several important business items were discussed and plans made. Among these was the decision to encourage the Standard Bearer young people by entertaining for them at "An Afternoon," Thursday, August 11th. Their mothers are to be invited and proceeds to go to their part of the work.

Stories or poems were given in regard to the saving for mite boxes and returning to the Lord's work the required one-tenth of our time, personality or means. When the mite boxes were gathered and the money counted, the members were very much pleased with the amount they had saved, little by little for this work.

The gathering closed with the benediction and the ladies adjourned to meet in September with Mrs. Troy.

Hitchcock Points Questions to Sec'y Mills

Asks What Party Produced 'Deflation' That the Secretary Complains Of.

New York, Aug. 4.—In a telegram to the New York Times, former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, who was chairman of the committee that framed the democratic platform, asks Secretary of the Treasury Mills some questions concerning the republican responsibility for deflation.

Mr. Hitchcock's letter followed published criticism by Mills of Governor Roosevelt's recent campaign address. The letter follows: (By Telegraph to the Editor of The New York Times)

"Winnon, Mass., Aug. 1.—I notice in The Times today that Secretary Mills asks of Governor Roosevelt if he does not know that 'this country has been undergoing the most drastic and devastating deflation ever witnessed'."

"May I ask Mr. Mills a question? Does he not know that his party in its platform upon which it came into power in March, 1921, after eight years of prosperity under President Wilson, denounced the democrats for 'gross expansion of our currency and credit,' which, as the platform stated, had made prices high?"

"Has Mr. Mills forgotten that his party specifically promised in that platform to put into effect 'a courageous deflation of over-expanded credit and currency'?"

"We out in Nebraska know how specifically this pledge was carried out. So do other western states. The policy of deflation began promptly and resulted in falling prices of farm products followed by an era of mortgage foreclosures and bank failures in the west and south several years before the Wall street crash produced collapse in the east."

"In conclusion let me ask Secretary Mills what party and what policies have produced the destructive deflation period which has produced an unparalleled record of business disaster? Did the high tariff bill of 1922 and the still higher one of 1929 have anything to do with it? Or was it only the 'courageous' deflation of credit and currency' which his party pledged its candidates to carry out in the platform of 1920?"

"GILBERT M. HITCHCOCK."

WHOA DOBBIN

On Monday Raymond Kunz hitched up a horse to an old buggy and he and his friend Howard Boyd, were going to take a trip to the country. Raymond had driven to the Boyd home and they were fixing the harness a little when the horse decided to move on. The horse came down main street, south through the business section. As the buggy hit the curb early in the runaway the seat and part of the buggy flew off. The horse continued to run and at the corner of Greens Drug store headed west, the buggy wobbling from side to side. Going up the hill the horse put all the speed she had into the runaway and was moving some. She ran all the way to the Kunz farm west of town and then stopped. The buggy was pretty well wrecked. This is the first runaway in Elmwood in a good long time, to stir up excitement.—Elmwood Leader-Echo.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE HERE

From Friday's Daily
Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hertzberger of Nebraska City were in the city today for a short time, being en route to Omaha from their home. Mr. Hertzberger is the Scout executive of the Nemaha area of the Boy Scouts, but is retiring on the first of September, having resigned some time ago. The Hertzberger family is planning on leaving just after the first for Colorado, where they will visit with the relatives in that state. Mr. Hertzberger has been a most efficient leader in the Scout work in this part of the state and his retirement is greatly regretted by all who have come in contact with his activities in Scouting. He reports that Camp Wilson this year was quite successful, altho the attendance was not as large as in previous years, due, no doubt, to the general conditions of the country.
