James, who is a sister of Mrs. Davis, and also as guests Laura Ruby, Miss Margaret Claphers of Lincoln, Mrs. Mabel E. Reynolds, Ralph Davis and Paul Davis. All enjoyed the occasion most pleasantly and when departing all extended the wish for many more such happy occasions.

Lewis Family Reunion Sunday

The Lewis family reunion was held at the state park on last Sunday and was attended by all members of the family in this neighborhood, there being present from Union Lloyd Lewis and family, Ed Lewis and family, Earl Merritt and wife, Wayne Lewis of Adams, J. D. Lewis of Union and a number of the family from points in Iowa. They sure enjoyed the meeting and we would like to have a longer account of the meeting if the members of the family could furnish the same.

Establish Office Here

Five engineers of the state who are in charge of the pavement of O street beginning at the junction of 75 and running west have arrived and established an office in the Propst building. There they have their instruments and their field notes for the work which is to be commenced as soon as the contracts shall be let. They will get as much of the work done as possible but just how much will not be known until we see how kind the weather man shall be with the idea of a late working fall. All we have to say is Now Get Busy.

Firemen Enjoy Picnic

The Union Volunteer Fire Department, knowing full well that there was no danger of a fire in Union on last Sunday, slipped over to South Bend and picnicked for the day. They ate their dinner in the cool of the shade trees at the Hatcheries and sure enjoyed the occasion very much. Frank Bauer and Elmer Withrow were also in attendance at the picnic at South Bend and as well went over to Ashland to visit with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Keedy. When they arrived at Ashland they found that Mr. and Mrs. Keedy had departed for Union and were here visiting friends.

Will The Old Settler Go?

The question is will it be a go or no go? There has been a number of calls for a meeting of the citizens for the purpose of finding out whether Union is to celebrate the 44th annual meeting of the pioneers of Cass and adjoining counties. There has been no responses to the call and so no progress has been made. Of course there is plenty of time before the frost comes on the pumpkin and the fadders in the shock. But if there is anything to be done it must be done soon.

HOLD PICNIC

The Pleasant Ridge project club held their picnic at Riverview park in Omaha Sunday, August 21st. All the members and their families were present but one.

A bountiful picnic dinner was served under the shade of the big trees. After dinner the ladies visited together while the men enjoyed the ball game and the kiddies the slides. Later in the afternoon brick ice cream, cake and punch were served. All had a good time and will look forward to another picnic.

Quite a few of the club members attended the Merry Mixers party held at Weeping Water last Wednesday. They report a fine time.

Tomato Juice for Breakfast.

Home canned tomato juice may well take the place of orange juice for breakfast in Nebraska. Either will build good teeth, clear complexion, and good appetites. Use ripe, red tomatoes. Wash and cut into sections. Simmer until soft. Put thru sieve fine enough to remove seeds. Bring juice to boil, fill into hot jars. Add one teaspoon salt per quart of juice. Process five minutes in water bath, or eight minutes in an oven at 250 to 275 degrees. Seal the jars and store in a cool dark place.

To can tomatoes whole, select ripe tomatoes of medium size and free from blemishes. Dip them into boiling water long enough to loosen skins. Plunge into cold water for an instant. Remove stem and skin. Pack into jars as closely as possible. Add one teaspoon salt per quart. Fill with boiling strained tomato juice or boiling water. Process 25 minutes in a water bath or 40 minutes in an oven at 250 to 275 degrees. Seal and store in a cool dark place.

Demonstration Teams Selected.

Betty Sumner and Ruth Ann Sheldon, of Nehawka, placed first in the foods demonstration held at Weeping Water Thursday, August 18th. These girls will represent Cass county at the state fair with their demonstration "More Pie."

Other teams to demonstrate at the fair are Merle E. Eveland and Lorene Nickel, canning club members from Elmwood. "A Garden Scrap Bag" is the title of their demonstration. Ada Armstrong and Jane Swan of the Union "Healthy-Hustlers" will demonstrate "Care of the Hair."

New and Old Ways of Cooking Vegetables.

"Don't buy your health in medicine bottle so long as health is for sale by Nebraska farmers or may be dug out of your own garden; for an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is the advice of Dr. Minna C. Denton in her new circular on Vegetable Cookery. Bulletin 923, New and Old Ways of Cooking Vegetables is available at the farm bureau office and may be had for the asking.

4-H Members Receive Fair Passes

Five hundred and fifty state fair passes have been mailed from the farm bureau office to 4-H club leaders in the county. The state fair board has dropped almost every one from the complimentary ticket list except 4-H club members. They also report that some of the 4-H'ers have been abusing the privilege and passing the ticket to some one else if they could not use it. The tickets are issued to the club members this year with warning that a check-up be made.

4-H club members are appreciative of accommodations enough that we will not have the privilege abused this year by any Cass county folks we are sure.

The tickets can be obtained from the leaders any time before the fair starts, which is September 3rd.

The Nebraska Economic Situation.

Somewhat higher hog prices, firm prices for the best grades of cattle, seasonal firmness in butter prices and higher egg prices seem probable for Nebraska farmers during the next 30 days, according to the monthly economic situation report released from the Nebraska College of Agriculture Wednesday by Prof. Harold Hedges of the Rural Economics department.

In predicting possible higher hog prices, the report says seasonal weakness may develop toward the end of the period. Late August or early September more often than not is the period in which the seasonal peak in hog prices occurs. In the past 20 years, the September top price for hogs at Omaha has been above the August top 9 times, has equalled it once and has been below ten times.

Seasonal weakness in corn prices is probable. Only three times in the last 15 years has the September average for No. 3 yellow corn at Chicago been higher than the August price, the report says. The present visible supply of corn is the largest since 1928, especially in view of the limited demand.

Wheat farmers over the state are likely to receive steady prices for their grain altho the price may go down a little. A possible strengthening factor would be further speculative support such as has been in evidence during the recent price upturn.

Hedges indicates prices for best grades of fed cattle should continue firm during the 30 days with other classes in a less favorable position. The August 1 report of cattle on feed in the cornbelt indicate 5 per cent fewer cattle in feedlots than a year earlier.

The Nebraska farm housewife may also be benefited during the period thru the sales of eggs. The report says higher egg prices appear probable. Steady to weak poultry prices, however, are in prospect. Storage conditions of poultry are also more favorable than last year. Seasonal firmness in the butter market is also expected. In the past 20 years the September average price for 92-score creamery butter in New York has never been above the August price.

"One of the most encouraging developments of recent weeks has been the advance in the general index of farm prices," Hedges declares. "The July 15 index was 67 per cent of pre-war levels, a gain of 5 points above the June index but still 22 points below July, 1931. The advances have been well sustained since July 15 and the August index should show further gains."

Terraced Field Holds Big Rain.

The newly terraced forty acre field of Gene Spangler, Mynard, stood the pounding forces of a six inch rain about two weeks ago, to prove its work.

The hillside had five long terraces thrown up to deliver the water around the hill in a wide terrace bed with about a six inch fall in each 100 feet.

Although Mr. Spangler had not had time to do a little scraper work on some of the washes to bring the terrace bank up level, only a slight washing or breaking over resulted in the lower terraces. The two top ones held perfectly and delivered the water slowly across the entire length of the field and to the outlet.

Mr. Spangler says he is surprised how well it held and how the water apparently runs uphill.

Wheat Variety Not Good.

The value of humpback spring wheat which is being grown in large acreages in western Nebraska this year was discounted today by P. H. Stewart, extension agronomist at the Agricultural College. He said the variety is objected to very strongly by millers who claim that its protein content is inferior in quality to other varieties.

Due to the fact that much winter wheat killed out in the western end of the state last spring, there is an unusually large acreage of spring wheat this season. Since humpback yields well, farmers have been inclined to use it. When marketed as pure humpback wheat, Stewart says it is likely to bring a very strong discount as but few millers will buy it knowingly. He suggests the substitution of either ceres or marquis spring wheat for the humpback.

ON THE BANKS OF THE OLD MISSOURI THE HILLS AND VALLEYS SING

The valleys and hills most sublime, Cast their influence upon the liver, Strictly engrossed and in his prime, Quietly he sits on the banks of the river.

The foliage enhanced with delicate green, Dance with a delightful air, As the flowers blush with their beautiful sheen, Which established their places so fair.

The valleys are filled with music and song, With the chuckle of the colts and calves at the barn, And the lowing cattle come lazily along, While Mary keeps spinning her yarn.

The hills are sprinkled with rivulets apace, And streams flow through the valley, They adroitly water the scorched face Of the earth, as it proceeds to rally.

Faithful and true the valley fills, The bins of the earnest tiller, Enchanted by the somber hills Which serve him as a pillar.

That beautiful star that twinkles at night, Envelopes the valley and hilllets, Is the same that gave old Job his light, As he argued it out with Zophar, the Naamathite.

Arcurus casts a beautiful flood Of light upon the chestnut and elm, As they burst into blossom and bud, In the valleys and wadies of Salem.

Cosmic dust may scatter afar, As it comes from our old neighbor, To enrich the valley and hills afar, And man engrossed with his labor.

The hills and valley burst with song, In praise to the Hand, that came along, And touched the bud and the flower, That made the valleys and hills Alone, in one intermittent bowler.
