Alvo Schools Reduce Staff for Coming Year

Larger Classes Will be Rule and Increase of Subjects of Study Made by School.

The Alvo consolidated school will open on Monday morning, September 5th, with fewer teachers and a wider range of subjects available for the high school pupils. This has been made possible by a revision of the curriculum and adapting it to the "alternation plan." This plan not only maintains the courses but also permits the addition of five new courses, namely, typewriting, bookkeeping, home mechanics, architectural drawing, and elementary electricity. The introduction of this plan into the Alvo school system practically doubles the size of all high school classes, thus reducing considerably the cost of instruction per pupil.

The size of the faculty has been reduced from nine teachers to six. All teachers are new to the school with the exception of Elbert M. Miller of Elmwood, who was principal and coach last year. He will also instruct the science and manual art classes. Robert A. Quick of York and formerly superintendent of schools at Duncan, Nebraska, is in charge of the new situation at Alvo. Miss Lillian E. Whitmore of Wayne, will teach the history, English and home economics classes. Howard M. VanSickle of Lincoln, who formerly played with the Lincoln Symphony orchestra, is to direct the orchestra and glee club work in the high school and will teach the seventh and eighth grades. Miss Corine Joy Quimby also of Lincoln, will be the fourth, fifth, and sixth grade teacher and Miss Eleanor M. Pilley of Diller, will instruct the first, second, and third grades. Each of the grade teachers is an accomplished musician.

The building has been put into fine condition, chiefly through the efforts of the very capable janitor, Walter Vincent, who has diligently kept the school lawn a place of real beauty during the summer.

The number of school busses has been reduced from five to four, and through careful planning and re-routing, the four busses will cover the same territory as was formerly covered by the five.

Every department of the school has been carefully studied in an effort to effect a more economical operation and at the same time maintaining the established high standard of efficiency.

The Alvo school this year operates under the supervision of the following six members of the board of education: Ben A. Menchau, director; Sam R. Jordan, secretary; Joe Vickers, treasurer; Simon Rehmeier, L. M. Snively, and Carl Ganz.

Registration of pupils will take place on September 5th, and there will be no school in the afternoon.

HIGHWAYS STILL OPEN Highway No. 75 from this city to Omaha remained open last night and without any of the pickets being present to urge the truckers to cease hauling produce into Omaha, or to try and turn them back.

The special force of deputies that had been arranged for service in case an attempt was made to blockade the highway, were kept in readiness for service at the court house, but received no call to take the field.

Pickets were reported to be working on the Iowa side of the Missouri river near the Plattsmouth bridge, but no trouble was reported from the activities of the men.

Sheriff McDonald of Douglas county has arranged a force of deputies at Omaha who will serve in keeping the highways in that county open to travel and so far they have had no difficulty in keeping the produce moving into the state metropolis. Mayor Metcalfe of Omaha refused to permit the city police to participate in the county highway guarding, they being needed in the city as the force has been much curtailed in numbers.

With the other members of the family of Mrs. Bakers parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Parks, they celebrated Mr. Parks seventieth birthday anniversary. It was a merry crowd that gathered around the festive board as it was spread under the shady trees in the park. There were four generations present, and Mr. Parks has a picture showing some six generations.

Horse Shoe vs Stone Quarry The Weeping Water Horse Shoe court has been one of the very popular places in the city and always some one could be found who wanted to work. But now many have gone to work in the stone quarry and many of the larger boys have started to school, so the Horse Shoe court during the day does not look so flourishing. There is expected daily that other inroads will be made on the crowd which has so faithfully stuck to the festive game of tossing the horseshoes.

Died in the West Mrs. Martha Duse Lau, near seventy years of age, died last week in Southernland, Nebraska, the remains being brought to Weeping Water for interment. Mrs. Lau was the widow

Rotary Club Picnic From Wednesday's Daily The members of the Rotary club last evening entertained the Rotary-ans at a very pleasant party at the Hotel Riley, the event being staged in place of the outdoor picnic that had been originally planned. The sudden rainstorm justified the change in the arrangements as the rain was very heavy by the time the picnic party assembled.

The picnic dinner was served in cafeteria style in the handsome dining room of the hotel and here the members and their ladies gathered to partake of the much enjoyed feast that had been prepared.

Rev. I. G. McClusky was called upon and gave a most interesting talk on his recent auto trip to the east and which had covered several states of the union and gave them the opportunity of seeing a great deal of the country between here and the Hudson river in New York.

A number of games had been arranged and in which the ladies enjoyed a great deal of entertainment as well as the Rotarians themselves and prizes were awarded for the various events.

The first ladies prize was awarded to Mrs. Fred I. Rea and second prize to Mrs. C. L. Taylor, while the gentlemen's honors fell to Rev. H. G. McClusky and Carl Jensen.

of the late Fred Lau who died here a few years ago. She then went to the home of her son, Clarence, of Southernland where she died from the effects of cancer.

The remains were received by the Hobson funeral home and the funeral held at the Methodist church, being conducted by Rev. George I. Morey. The burial was at the Oakwood Cemetery on last Monday following the funeral at nine thirty.

Are Working Nicely Now The Independent Crushed Stone Company of Weeping Water is working nicely now and is turning out crushed stone in double quick time. The first shipment for the paving on highway 24 was sent forward on Monday of this week. There are a number of workmen now employed and as the work goes forward there are to be many more. The extra workers of Weeping Water who have not been employed lately are expected to soon go to work. Putting men to work will greatly help the business of the city.

It is understood that contracts for many additional hundreds of cars of the output had been recently made.

Injures Thumb Badly Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lau of near Manley were in Weeping Water on Tuesday afternoon where they were looking after some business matters. Mrs. Lau, while at her work, had the misfortune to fracture the bone in her right thumb. This has made the member very painful and difficult to keep from striking something with disastrous results.

The Cass County Fair Preparations are being perfected for the holding of the Cass County Fair which is to be in Weeping Water on September 13, 14, 15 and 16. The large hog barn has been completed and the stalls and pens within have been placed, and the entire structure is now ready for the opening of the fair. This large barn provides space for a large number of hogs and the other building, which is across the street, will care for all the livestock which may be brought in. Already many have signified their intention of bringing stock for exhibition during the fair.

Entries in agricultural and horticultural lines have also been asking space which encourages the officers that there will be an abundance of exhibitors. Concessions have been granted to a company which will use all the available room. There will be music and programs every day and parades which are now being arranged will fill each day full of interesting items. We can all take at least one of the four days off to attend this fair which promises to be the greatest ever held in the county. Tell your friends and neighbors and be sure to be there yourself.

There has been a large crowd of Weeping Water people working on the hog barn. They had to get in good team work to finish it in plenty of time for the opening of the fair on September 13th. When people work like this they can accomplish much.

There were working on last Tuesday President of the fair Fred L. Carsten, Secretary Frank E. Wood, Directors Wm. Kitzel and Fred Rehmeier, Peter Miller, Soren Skamaris, Superintendents Carl E. Day and Phillip Schaffer, Edward Norton, Henry Crozier, and C. C. Baldwin.

Gov. Bryan Deplores Iowa Road Blockade

Promises to Keep Nebraska Roads Clear—"Should Picket the Republican Party."

Columbus, Neb.—Governor Bryan Monday night promised to keep Nebraska roads open to the movement of farm produce and said the farmers should "picket the republican party" instead of the women and children of Omaha and Sioux City.

Commenting on the resolution adopted at Sioux City urging that the roads be kept open, Bryan said "We are keeping the roads in Nebraska open. There is free entry into Omaha and other cities on the Nebraska side."

He said the sheriffs along the river on the Nebraska side had kept the roads open to the Sioux City bridge and Sunday night protected trucks until on the Nebraska side of the bridge. The truckers, he said, were informed that the east end of the bridge in Sioux City was closed. The farmers had to turn back with their stock.

"Nebraska is co-operating and expects to do so to keep the roads open in this state," Bryan said. "But it is the duty of the city government in Sioux City to keep its end of the bridge open."

"Nebraska is being greatly annoyed by agitators from Iowa crossing into Nebraska and haranguing our people, attempting to excite Nebraska farmers into riot and anarchy in the false belief that it would in some way affect the market."

"The women and children of Sioux City and Omaha have not committed any act of war against the farmers of Iowa or Nebraska, and it is more than absurd for intelligent men to try to set farmer against farmer, neighbor against neighbor, country against city in the belief that that could in any way increase the price on farm produce."—State Journal.

VOTE ACAIST CITY NURSE Nebraska City.—Nebraska City voters in a special election Thursday overwhelmed a proposition to raise $1,800 by tax levy for a community nurse.

The vote was 773 against 73 for, with only about 25 percent of the electorate casting ballots.

The same proposition was carried a year ago by a two vote margin. The city council declined to make the levy and altho ordered to do so by the state supreme court, found that it was too late to get it on the tax books.

WAHOO MAN FALLS OFF CAR Omaha.—Neal A. Crawford, Wahoo, was critically injured early Sunday when he jumped or fell from a moving car at a street intersection. Rex Phillips, Omaha, who police say was driving the car, was arrested for questioning. Crawford was found lying unconscious in the street and little hope is held for his recovery. Phillips told police that Crawford had been on the running board of the car and fell off.

Miami Warned of Possible Hurricane Danger

Precautions Are Taken as Tropical Storm Reported Approaching East Coast.

Miami, Fla.—Warned by the weather bureau that a tropical storm, possibly of hurricane intensity, was moving toward the lower Florida east coast and probably would strike south of here during the night, Miami residents prepared for any emergency. Women employed in business houses were allowed to return to their homes in mid-afternoon and officials began clearing the streets of all movable objects. The preparations were calmly made.

The weather bureau located the center of the storm at 3:20 p. m., eighty miles southeast of Miami, moving in a west-northwest direction. The barometer here was falling steadily but slowly. Rain squalls were frequent and the wind velocity varied from twenty to twenty-five miles an hour. Hurricane warnings flew from Fort Lauderdale to Key West. All craft was warned to seek safe anchorage and Biscayne bay was emptied of small boats.

The wind late in the day blew down power wires in two residential sections of the city. The ring of hammers filled business streets as protection was hastily thrown around plate glass windows. Ambulances were busy removing patients from homes to hospitals and downtown hotels.

Storm relief corps of the Red Cross and national guard were ready for calls should a bad storm strike.

The S. S. Ching Unkela, off shore and south of Miami, messaged it was experiencing a north wind of sixty-seven miles an hour.

A slowly rising barometer and diminishing winds late at night indicated that the tropical disturbance, which has been moving on south Florida from the Bahamas for several days, would pass inland south of here and leave the Miami area unscathed.—State Journal.
