NURSERY AT STATE FAIR

A feature of the Women's Building on the Nebraska State Fair grounds especially appreciated by mothers, is the nursery on the first floor in charge of a registered nurse. This department is equipped with little white cribs where babies may be left and rest contentedly while their parents see the sights of the fair grounds. No fee is charged for the allotted time of two hours. An ice box keeps the milk and food for the children cool and they are fed by the nurses as the parents request.

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT

Charles Houston Reid, 61, former resident of this city, died on Monday night at the family home at St. Joseph, Missouri, following an illness of a week. Mr. Reid was assistant station master at the Union passenger station and had occupied that post for the past twenty years.

The deceased was a native of England and came to the United States when a child with his parents. The family first settled at Valley, Nebraska, where he resided for a number of years. Mr. Reid was employed at Plattsmouth in the late nineties as a switchman for the Burlington and remained here until he was transferred to St. Joseph where he has since resided. In 1903 he lost his right arm in a railroad accident and later was appointed as caller in the Union station at St. Joseph. He was also a resident of Nebraska City for a short time following his accident, being engaged there as a hotel clerk until 1912 when he resumed his railroad work.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Flora Reid, a daughter, Mrs. Emily Island, four sons, Carl, Kenneth and Harvey Reid of St. Joseph and John Reid of Kansas City.

The body of Mr. Reid will arrive here Friday morning and will be taken to the Sattler funeral home where services will be held Friday at 2 p. m.

HERE FROM COLORADO

Prof. and Mrs. Frank Jean of Greeley, Colorado, are enjoying a visit here at the home of Mr. Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Jean, at their country home near this city. Mr. Jean is a member of the faculty at the Colorado State teacher's college at Greeley and has been engaged there for a long period of years and ranks as one of the leaders in educational work in the west. This is their first visit here for some time and the event is one that has brought a great deal of pleasure to all of the family.

Plattsmouth is still the "white-hot spot" on the Government's industrial map—one of few small towns in the middle west to locate new industries during depression.

Preliminary Plans Laid for Corn Festival

Moderate Expenditure of Funds, but Many "Free" Features to be Provided for Visitors.

First get-together meeting of the preliminary committees appointed to arrange for the four day Corn Festival and Homecoming celebration in Plattsmouth early in October, was held last evening, with enthusiastic response. Sponsorship of the celebration is in the hands of the Retail Section, Chamber of Commerce, but a finance committee from the C. of C. itself has been named to co-operate with the Retail Section finance committee in securing the moderate sum of money and merchandise donations it is estimated will be needed to put the celebration over.

This committee will go out the first of the week to conduct a canvass for money. A depression schedule of contributions in effect and instead of merchants being asked to give $10, $15 or $25, as many have in years past, the committee plans to realize around a $5 average from each, divided between merchandise prizes and cash. Frank Bestor is chairman of the finance committee and will have the assistance of seven or eight Retail Section and C. of C. members.

Henry Soennichsen is chairman of the general committee, which will comprise a dozen or more sub-committees, each with some particular phase of the work to look after.

Wednesday, the opening day, will be known as comic parade day, with a late afternoon parade of school children, divided into such classifications as bicycle and vehicle group, pet group, comic section group, etc. Prizes will be given in each classification and all children participating in the parade will be given tickets good for rides on the Burlington miniature train to be here on Friday and Saturday, the closing days. In the evening the kangaroo court parade will bring the "victims" before "His Honor" in front of the microphone of the public address system and the crowd will be privileged to listen in on the interesting deliberations of this court. Band music and other features will also be provided.

Thursday's program has not been definitely decided, but Friday will be Athletic day, with a football game and program of races in the afternoon and a free open air boxing program in the evening.

Saturday, the closing day, will bring another afternoon parade, made up of representatives from the rural schools, entered in groups and not as individuals. The prizes for this parade will comprise various articles of school playground equipment and will go to the entire school. In addition, local business men will be permitted to enter floats in this parade. As in the case of Wednesday's parade, all participating children will be given tickets good for rides on the Burlington train.

These are but a few of the plans under consideration for entertainment that will include a Mardi Gras street dance, a style show, a Merchants' trade show (at the Community building) and a profusion of agricultural exhibits in the "Corn Palace," a Main street building specially set aside for that purpose. Prizes of merchandise and cash will be offered for the best exhibits in all lines.

As a preliminary to the big show, there will be organized Chapter 1 of the "King Korn Chapeau Club," all the members of whom are pledged to wear at all times when out of doors (attendance at funerals and church excepted) the overseas style cap they receive on becoming members. On one side of this cap will appear a large ear of corn and the wording: "It's not the height of the stalk, but the size of the ear that counts." On the other side will appear suitable advertising of the Festival and the dates. Anyone caught out of doors without this cap will be promptly halted before the kangaroo court and have various forms of "justice" meted out to them.

Included in the plans already approved is a visit to the Weeping Water fair on the closing day and participation in the parade. The Plattsmouth marchers will all wear their chapeaus and carry canes. Either the band or Legion drum corps will accompany the caravan from here and Plattsmouth should turn out the largest delegation this year of all previous "Plattsmouth days" at the county fair.

Additional members will be added to the committee during the coming week, as this is one enterprise in which there will be opportunity for all who desire to work and help put it over.

from common-place entertainment produced at small cost and provided free to the public than they used to from the high-priced "feature" acts before depression hit us, and the committee contemplates no great expenditure for "entertainment"—just a good, wholesome get-together and an opportunity to forget troubles for a few days while they are amused and entertained by the so-called "home-spun" sort of entertainment.

Wm. A. Johnson Dies at Omaha at Age of 100 Years

Resident of Louisville for Many Years, Aged Veteran of Southern Army Passes On.

William Andrew Johnson, 807 1/2 South Twentieth street, Omaha, resident of Omaha and Louisville, Neb., for 52 years, died Thursday afternoon at his home in Omaha at the age of 100.

He fought for the south in the civil war and with Union troops against the Indians in the west. He drove stage and mule teams, prospected for gold, and, as marshal of Louisville, once captured two convicts escaped from the Douglas county jail.

Mr. Johnson was born December 14, 1831, in what is now Barbour county, West Virginia. He fought as a gunner for Confederate artillery in the civil war, was captured by Union forces in 1863, and was a prisoner at Camp Chase, O., where he was released on oath that he would not rejoin his comrades.

Manned Guns in Battle.
He came west, and, at the Indian battle of Mud Springs northwest of Denver, manned one of two pieces of artillery for federal soldiers under General Collins. His reputation as an artillery man in the south won him this post when others had fallen.

In the civil war he fought at Bull Run under Stonewall Jackson, and at Gettysburg, having joined the Confederate army at the war's beginning. In the field at Beverly, Randolph county, West Virginia, he was wounded in the side—a wound from which he never fully recovered, carrying a rifle ball in his side till his death.

He communicated directly with General Lee and helped General Jackson when the latter dismounted from his horse in battle to place a wounded man in the saddle and lead the animal with its burden to safety.

At Sacramento, Cal., he spent four years mining and prospecting for gold. For a while he drove a stage coach. Later he went east to Des Moines and from there came to Omaha in 1880. In 1883 he went to Louisville.

Captured Escaped Convicts.
Some 25 years ago he captured two escaped convicts. Eighteen prisoners escaped in a break from the Douglas county jail and two came to Louisville. He locked them up for the night, as they had been drinking, and next morning put them on a freight car. When he learned of their identity and that they had held up an Omaha street car, shooting one of the crew, he set out "on his own" and effected their capture.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Rosa Bender, with whom he lived, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Jury in Whitley Case Fails to Arrive at Verdict

Jurors Discharged This Morning by Justice Graves After Jurors Deliberate Far Into Night.

From Friday's Dally

The jury impaneled in the case of the State of Nebraska vs. Gus Whitley, failed to reach an agreement as to a verdict, they reported to Justice Graves this morning at 8:30 and were discharged.

The case was given to the jury Thursday just after the noon hour and they deliberated on the matter until 1:30 this morning and were then excused until this morning when they again assembled and failed to reach an agreement.

The members of the jury were Frank R. Gobelman, Oscar Wilson, George Hall, John E. Kirkham, William Starkjohn and Lee Nickles.

The jury was reported as divided four to two on the last ballot and stood by that vote for the greater part of the time. How the jury stood on the issues of the case was not given.

The disagreement of the jury will make necessary the retrial of the case at some time in the future, the date having not been fixed by Justice Graves for hearing the attorneys as to the setting of the trial.

This case was one in which the defendant was charged with violation of the liquor law.

Watch for announcement of the King Korn Chapeau club and be ready to take out a charter membership. It'll be the greatest boost-organization ever perfected in Plattsmouth.
