Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 years old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore, I have never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at F. G. Fricke & Co., or any drug store—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle, and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

Rosemary Kropp Dies.
Little Rosemary Kropp was born to Ernest and Pauline Kropp in Lincoln, Nebraska, at St. Elizabeth's hospital on February 26, 1925. And she died at the same hospital October 2, 1932 after a brief, happy life—lived mostly at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Kropp, in Nehawka—of seven years and seven months.

For little playmates of the neighborhood will miss Rosemary at their innocent fun, will miss her when they coast down the hills in the village with one laughing youngster less on tiny wagon or sled. They cannot soon forget her smooth, blonde hair shining with gold in the sun, her eyes so blue and with their long, curved lashes like many-pointed stars. Nor will they ever forget how on that last Sabbath before she was taken ill she fingered the piano keys, pretending to play a tune for her little friends, but, as if in premonition of the meeting so near due with God, all the while looking dreamily out through the window into the glancing, golden autumn light, her hair like a halo, her eyes starrer than ever, looking beyond the old trees beginning to flame in their late September colors, perhaps even beyond the grey-blue sky.

Besides her father and mother she leaves to mourn her loss the devoted grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Kropp, a sister, Sarah Joan and a brother, Jed. The funeral was conducted in the St. John's cemetery October 4th at 2 p. m. by the Rev. W. A. Taylor of Union. Interment was made in the St. John's cemetery.

Adams whose funeral was held in Plattsmouth on last Sunday afternoon, were there to pay their last tribute of respect to the man whom to know was to love. Many Hunting Ducks Sunday.
As Sunday was the first holiday following the opening of the duck hunting season, there were swarms of hunters, mostly from Omaha, down seeking the retreats of the duck. Many were able to bag their quota and many had to return to the big town on the river without even getting a shot. The local hunters were fearful of going to the river or creek for fear of getting shot as these city lads did not seem to know much about hunting.

On last Sunday the members of the Union Orchestra, went to the Jay farm just over into Otoe county. There they practiced their orchestra music and some time later went to the woods and enjoyed a weiner roast, which is sure a fine way of taking recreation.

They obtained the needed practice for they are to furnish a portion of the music on Old Settlers day at the Korn Carnival at Plattsmouth on Thursday. They also obtained the necessary relaxation and amusement at the weiner roast.

On last Friday evening a large number of young friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Garrison gathered in honor of this couple. This was held at the home of the parents of George, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garrison who sponsored the event. They made merry with games which enthuse the young and at the appropriate time a very fine luncheon was had. Then came the time for the opening of the packages that were given as tokens of the love which their many friends entertained for them. Of these there were some seventy of the young people there to enjoy the occasion.

DEATH OF NEHAWKA CHILD

On last Sunday, Rosemary, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kropp, who has been ill for some time and who was taken to the hospital at Lincoln for care and treatment, passed away about 3 o'clock. The parents had been taken to Lincoln that same day by W. S. Norris and wife, but inasmuch as the little one had diphtheria and was very low, they were not permitted to see her and returned home, having just arrived when the telephone call came telling of her death.

The funeral was held at Mount Pleasant cemetery on Wednesday, no religious ceremonies being held due to the fear of contagion that accompanies this dread disease. School Groups Resist Drastic Cuts in Costs

Parents and Teachers in a Unique Position Regarding Taxation; P. T. A. Important.

Chicago.—Because made up largely of persons who are both parents and taxpayers, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers can play a unique part in the defense of American public education against the current trend to cut school appropriations recklessly. Mrs. Hugh Bradford, president of the congress, declared at the meeting of the national board of the organization here.

Parent-teacher organizations can become vastly more important in the social life of the nation through the recognition of this duty, the board was told by Mr. John W. Studebaker, superintendent of schools of Des Moines, Iowa, chairman of the school education committee of the congress.

Instead of confining their field of work to a study of the child, parent-teacher associations should become the spokesmen for the schools in the community, going before school boards when budget appropriations are under discussion to put before them the value of high educational standards as the parent sees them. Mr. Studebaker said.

The "P-T. A.'s" are the best informed lay groups in the country on the subject of education, in the Des Moines superintendent's opinion. They not only appreciate the value of education as its effect on their own children, but they know something about the educational theory underlying a modern school system. When boards of education meet to consider how to retrench—and Mr. Studebaker regards this as legitimate consideration—representatives of parent-teacher organizations should be on hand to put their viewpoint before the board.

Otherwise it may be only representatives of taxpayers' associations, with the strictly business point of view, who will reach the board members, and if only this side of the community view is presented, who can blame a school board for a one-sided decision. Mr. Studebaker asks.

How much shall be spent for public education is not something to be decided by rule, the educator continued. It is a community problem depending on many factors. But of one thing he is sure, that the amount of financial support the school will get depends solely on public opinion.

Maintenance of appropriations for the federal educational bureaus is to be the chief legislative goal of the national congress for the coming year, said Mrs. William T. Bannerman of Washington, D. C., who represents the national congress at the capital.

The proportion of the federal income now spent for these bureaus is, in comparison to that spent for other governmental departments, so small, Mrs. Bannerman said, that budget cuts in these branches would have no important effect in reducing the total bill for government, but would have a very damaging effect on the work of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, which gets most of its material for study from these bureaus.

MILK STRIKE IS ON TODAY

Adams Center, N. Y.—Dairymen in Jefferson and Onondaga counties, New York state's largest milk producing area, will begin Monday a milk strike, threatened for the past two weeks. Six hundred milk producers in the Adams Center and Pierpont Manor sections Saturday night voted to withhold their milk from the market. Dairymen in the Boonville area were scheduled to meet to determine whether they would join in the strike. The strike was the answer to the dairyman to a price cutting in New York City, the leaders said. Practically all the milk from these sections ordinarily goes to New York. Approximately 40,000 quarts of milk is delivered daily by farmers in this area to the three plants of the United Milk Products company at Adams Center, Boonville and Pierpont Manor. The dairymen expected to sell the milk to local cheese factories while the "holiday" lasts.

Smith, Roosevelt Clasp Hands as Crowd in Cheers

Reunited in Friendship as Lehman Is Nominated for Governor—Victory Is Seen.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Al Smith and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt were reunited in friendship tonight at the climax of a victory both achieved in effecting the nomination for governor of New York of their mutual friend, Lieutenant-Governor Herbert H. Lehman.

Smith and Roosevelt, the former Democrat and Pythian of New York politics, who had parted company when both became enamored of the presidency of the United States, shook hands publicly on the platform of the state democratic convention tonight.

They had worked together, against a combination headed by leaders of Tammany Hall, to secure the nomination of Colonel Lehman, but until Al Smith came from the floor of the convention to go to the platform to make the speech of nomination for Lehman, he had not made known any sign that he had forgiven Roosevelt.

Smith Holds Out Hand.

With the cheers of thousands of delegates and spectators creating a riotous din, Al Smith strode to where Governor Roosevelt sat on the platform and held out his hand. The governor, showing his happiness, grasped it vigorously and while the crowd yelled with deafening effect, the two men pumped arms energetically.

In this extravagant setting, Governor Roosevelt said to former Governor Smith, while they were still hand in hand:

"Al, this is from the heart."

And Al replied:

"Frank, that goes with me, too."

There was considerable pounding of the gavel before the band could be stopped playing "Sidewalks of New York" and "Happy Days Are Here Again."

The two posed in friendly attitude for news photographers and then, when the noise was quelled, former Governor Smith went to the rostrum and in booming voice started his speech nominating Colonel Lehman.

Attack on Hoover.

Most of Mr. Smith's speech was a vigorous attack on the Hoover administration, and in trenchant tones he charged the president with having brought on the depression in the first place, and with having failed completely to cope with it when it came.

He praised the platform of the democratic party, and he praised the men on the ticket, and he predicted a great victory for the party in November.

Reviewing the reforms he had established in the New York state government, former Governor Smith once more showed his new feeling for Roosevelt when he said that upon leaving office in 1929 he "left with a feeling of satisfaction because I handed that program to Roosevelt and Lehman."

He said relief from prohibition "can be accomplished by the victory of the democratic party and election of the democratic candidates in the coming election." As he spoke, he half turned toward Roosevelt. When Smith concluded he again shook hands with the governor, and once more they posed for photographs.—World-Herald.

AWAIT ANSWER OF INSULLS

Chicago.—Response of Samuel J. Insull, his brother, Martin, and his son, Samuel, Jr., to cabled queries as to whether they would "return voluntarily" for questioning was awaited with interest by federal and state investigators delving into the tangled affairs of the defunct investment enterprises formerly headed by them. The cables were dispatched Saturday night after State's Attorney Swanson said he had obtained evidence that checks of the Insull holding company, Midwest Utilities company, were "judged to cover up" the fact that funds in the organization were used to protect Martin Insull's private brokerage accounts.

The evidence, according to Swanson, shows that instead of Midwest company making direct payments to the Jackson Brothers & Boessel company, Martin Insull's brokers, the money was first forwarded to a bank after some arrangement was made in conference. Then the bank sent its own checks to the brokerage firm with instruction that the money be applied to Martin Insull's trading account. In this way, Swanson said, the Insulls were able to conceal the use of utility company funds in stock trading. Two specific instances of such practices were discovered, Swanson said, involving the payment of $66,000.

RUMOR MORE BODIES FOUND

Bakersfield, Calif., Oct. 3.—The bodies of fifteen victims had been recovered, five others were listed as dead, and unconfirmed reports said twenty-one additional bodies had been found in a wrecked freight car in the flood-swept wake of the Tehachapi cloudburst that took a toll of possibly forty-five lives and caused damage estimated from 1 1/2 to 2 millions.

Universal reports to the Southern Pacific company here said a box car, swept from a bridge when the torrent wrecked two freight trains Friday night, had been found to contain the bodies of twenty-one men and boys. Efforts on the part of company officials and county authorities to certify the report were unavailing at a late hour.

The bodies of fifteen persons had been brought here at night while hundreds of searchers continued the hunt in mud and debris for other victims of the forty-five foot wall of water that tore down from the Tehachapi watershed. Only six of the bodies were identified.
