Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, October 9

By L. Neitzel

The Christian in the Family
Luke 2:40-52:1-5
The study of this lesson includes three stories: "Joseph," Gen. 50:17-21; "Jesus," Luke 2:40-52; "Martha's Home," Luke 10:38-42.

The home is the place where character is chiefly formed; therefore we study the things to be avoided in a home. As an example, we take first the home life of Joseph. The first thing to be avoided in a family is partiality. We remember Jacob's gift to Joseph of the "Coat of many colors." It stirred up envy in his brethren, which grew into hatred. Children must be treated alike. Joseph had characteristics that made him more lovable than the others; he was the son of beautiful Rachel, and was far superior to his brothers in sweetness of character and natural ability of many kinds. He was the only one who rose to eminence and his extraordinary qualities with God's manifest favors were clearly shown in his early youth.

The second thing to be avoided in family life is pride, vain glory, ambition. Joseph's dreams, in which he saw himself uplifted above his brothers and even his father and his mother, were nothing more than the dim foreshadowings of what was to come, told openly and frankly in childish innocence; but was the height of impudence to tell them, none the less. How about Joseph's talebearing? Possibly Joseph thought the best thing he could do for his erring brethren was to let their father know how they were living. The home was ill organized; all the evils incident to polygamy were there, hence it can readily be seen that Jacob was incompetent to rule. Love must be the bond of the home; love that overlooks the faults, that forgives injuries, that forgets self and seeks only the good of the entire household.

"Children and Parents" is the next step in our study. "The child grew." The child was Jesus in his Nazareth home, being trained carefully and lovingly by Mary and Joseph. Here the surroundings were ideal. Mary and Joseph both served God; their spiritual life was harmonious; both would go to church together, and every year make the trip to Jerusalem together. Under those circumstances the child grew and waxed strong physically, filled with wisdom, grew mentally, attending services in the synagogue, where parents should be with their children; "and the grace of God was upon him" as he grew spiritually. Thus Jesus grew up in an atmosphere that could produce only the best. His education their son Charles were over to Omaha where they were looking after some business matters and as well visiting with friends.

Robert McClannahan of Hiawatha, Kansas was a visitor in Murray for a short time while on his way to Plattsburgh and Omaha on Tuesday morning of last week.

George Nickles and the good wife were over to Omaha on Monday of this week where they were called to look after some business matters and to visit friends as well.

Aubrey Townsed, the barber, who was sick for so long is now back to his work. He is getting along nicely although he is not gaining strength as rapidly as he desires.

Thomas Nelson was a visitor in Plattsburgh on last Saturday where he was called to identify some goods as being the ones stolen from the lumber yard where he works.

W. G. Boedeker and wife and their daughter, as well as Miss Beulah Sans, were guests for the day and dinner on last Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Gilmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucean Carper went to Lincoln on last Saturday night where they visited until Sunday at the home of the parents of Mrs. Carper. Mr. and Mrs. John Griffen.

A. W. Thomas of Chicago, who is a cattle salesman of the United States Stock yards, was a visitor in Murray for a short time last Monday and was guest of his friend, W. G. Boedeker.

Mr. and Mrs. John Royer departed for their home in Flagler, Colorado where they are engaged in farming. They have been here for nearly the past month and have enjoyed the visit very much.

On last Sunday Harry Nelson and the family were visiting for the day and a very fine dinner at the home of Mrs. Nelson's mother, Mrs. Peter Johnson, and the son, Albert, who reside southeast of town.

John Geddes and Ralph Dorr were visiting in Murray for a short time on last Tuesday. They were returning from Omaha where they had marketed some sheep which Mr. Dorr had been feeding.

Willard Nelson, who is attending the Wesleyan University at Lincoln, was a visitor at home over the week end. He was guest at the home of his parents and also of his grandmother, Mrs. Peter Johnson.

Ivan Deles Denier and wife and Mrs. Susie Berger were over to Union on last Monday morning where they went to purchase some apples from the Banning orchard, which they found as being the very best.

Parr Young received a car load of feeding cattle which he took to his farm and placed them in the feeding yards, beginning to fatten them for returning them to the market when the fall has been completed.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Brendel and their son Richard were guests for the day and dinner at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Cook near Alvo. They drove out for the day and enjoyed a very fine visit.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Smith, O. A. Davis and a number of others were over to Plattsburgh where they were attending the funeral of the late W. T. Adams which was held on last Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian church.

Era Carroll and the kiddies were guests for the day on last Sunday from their home near Gretna. Mrs. Carroll stopped and visited with her sister, Mrs. Robert Fitch of Plattsburgh, they picking her up when they returned.

C. W. Allen and the family have grown a nice line of South American pop corn which they obtained from Omaha. The crop yielded plentifully as they now have on hand some fifteen bushels of this favorite brand which is an excellent popper.

While W. G. Boedeker was on his way home from the west, where he was purchasing cattle, stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hallis at Shelton. There he had a very nice visit and Glen report that Hallises getting along nicely and were pleased to have a visitor from Murray.

George Small was a visitor in Plattsburgh on Tuesday morning. He was looking after some business matters about the road work in which he is engaged and was at the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners as well. Mr. Small also added his name to the list of readers of the Journal and will have the paper come to his home regularly.

Buy Many Feeders

Last week W. G. Boedeker was out in the western portion of the state where he was making the purchase of some feeders. He will have them shipped to Murray as soon as he needs them, which will be as soon as arrangements can be completed.

Lives Where He Was Born

Ralph Dorr of south of Wabash was born on Oct. 4th 1885, on the farm where he now resides, and his lived there all his life. Ralph was celebrating the passing of the birthday by delivering some sheep to the Omaha market. He is feeling very fine, thank you, and is able to tussle with a good hard day work and is glad to do it. Here is to you Ralph, may you see forty seven more years and enjoy them all.

Enjoy Trip to South

Paul Richter and Earl Mrasek were spending a week or more in Kansas. They returned on last Monday after having enjoyed the stay in the sunflower state. Earl in speaking of the trip said, "I do not like that country for there is too much sand there and the soil is not good and rich like in Cass county. The crops are not good like they are here but the people seem to be satisfied. They take a full cream can to town and come back with enough groceries to last a week. Then they go fishing and say, "Mister there are good fish in Kansas and you can catch them at that." They sure enjoy living and they all go to a party every night and do not talk of a depression for they seem not to know there is one on."

"Religion in the home—the work of a home." Witness Jesus in Martha's home. She gave him a reception. And we see Martha as a scriptural example of the virtue of hospitality; She is "occupied with much serving," passing dish after dish.

Mary serves also, but is more interested in what Jesus has to say and forgot to serve. Martha's anger rises, she even dares to issue a command to the Son of God. To such a pass will anger bring one.

We need the Marthas, but the Marys are more pleasing to God.

We are not told the end of the story, but we think Martha quieted down and sat beside Mary and forgot the other's fault in remembering their Lord.

Religion is love, and a religious home is one in which love reigns.
