Hi Johnson Refuses Support for Hoover

Avers "I Am a Progressive Republican, President Hoover Is Not."

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Replying to a telegram from representatives of 79 southern California newspapers asking him to make a declaration of support of the republican national and state tickets, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, California progressive republican, said today "I cannot and will not support Mr. Hoover."

"I am a progressive republican; Mr. Hoover is not," Johnson said. "He has justly earned the title of ultra conservative."

"The progressive believes this government belongs to all its people, not to a favored or privileged few, and that it should be administered equally and impartially for all, high and low, rich and poor alike. The standpatter, paying lip service to common humanity, makes a mockery of his words by his court of special classes, and his indifference to special interests, and his indifference, as in the instances of the power trust and the sale of foreign securities to trusting American investors by international bankers, to the ruthless exploitation of our people."

"The progressive thinks in terms of human beings; the standpatter has little thought or concern for them. When Mr. Hoover became president, his philosophy of government became apparent. Before that we knew little or nothing of his policies or politics. My views are those of a long life time. His have been acquired in the very brief period he has reigned among us."

"In this crisis, I stress loyalty to the American people."

"The republican party is not at stake in this campaign. It is only the ambition of one man who but a little more than a decade ago did not know which was his party, and who before that had no American party at all."

"In the present cataclysm with 11 million unemployed, and suffering and want on every hand, the man who puts his party fealty and his hope of political preferment above the welfare of our people does the worst possible dis-service to his country. I recognize that each individual, according as he sees the light, must make his choice. I make mine. I cannot and will not support Mr. Hoover."—World-Herald.

WHIT'S WEATIZZIT (The Forgotten Man)

Tell me not, that we grow dumber, as the days are passing by, for I wot that still we slumber,—still delay the battle cry; balanced budgets are almighty, and admitting they're almighty, we would go without a nighty, in a case of do or die.

But to make the balance nearer they have taxed us till it hurts, and the things of life grow dearer, so we go without our shirts; now we find 'tis our election, that our money makes deflection, from the things that build complexion, be we sissies,—be we firts.

Things we used to think we needed, now are done without in ease, we are used to being bled, by the Spenders, when they please; we ourselves are only kidding, for those named to do our bidding, all too often now are skidding, just to sail on placid seas.

We shall rise up in our fury and some moment by and by, we shall be the judge and jury, we shall pick the bed to lie; R. F. C. doth not befriend us, R. F. C. will never lend us, but it's spending sure will send us to the pauper's home to die.

Shall we pay the bills forever, getting nothing in return, shall we from our pleasures sever, as we watch our money burn; though we claim the deal is rotten, we are glad to dress in cotton, since we are the men forgotten, waiting for the worm to turn.

Miner is Killed During a Clash with Guardsmen

Fatal Fray Climaxes Day of Disorders in the Central Illinois Field.

Taylorville, Ill. — Andy Ganis, striking miner, was shot to death Thursday night in a clash between national guardsmen and members of the newly formed Progressive union, climaxing a day of disorders in the central Illinois coal field. Ganis was shot near his home at Tovey, near here. The wounding of a rural mail carrier, named Butterfield, was reported from Langleville as tension increased during a series of clashes between employed miners, guarded by troops, and striking coal diggers.

Alarmed at the steady increase of guerrilla warfare, officials increased the national guard detachment here to seven full companies, and issued orders to break up all gatherings. Even the local republican and democratic headquarters were ordered closed by troops in the belief that trouble was being fomented there by striking miners.

Hostilities started shortly after daybreak, when a group of men attacked a national guardsman on duty at the Peabody coal mine. The guardsman was disarmed and severely slugged. Other strikers marched on the home of Kilke McGuire, an employed miner, only to be met with a volley of shotgun fire that crippled several members. The attackers riddled the house with bullets, but McGuire escaped uninjured.

Several persons were clubbed and beaten in fights that ensued when guardsmen raided a saloon where an improvised strikers headquarters had been set up. Several strikers were arrested.

Reports that a large cache of dynamite had been placed in a barn at the home of Mrs. Frank Fesser, brought a detachment of troops to the place. As the guardsmen approached a number of men fled, but thirty were overtaken and arrested after an exchange of shots. No one was injured and troops were unable to find any explosives.

Guardsmen opened fire on an automobile load of pickets en route from Gillespie to this city when the men failed to heed an order to halt. One of the pickets was wounded. Militiamen reported considerable sniping by strikers concealed at vantage points about mines thruout the day.—State Journal.

ENTER INQUIRY OF INSULL

Washington.—The senate's stock market investigating committee reached out to Chicago to delve into the tangled evidence surrounding the collapse of the vast Insull utility empire. James E. Stewart, who has been in charge of the senate banking committee's stock market inquiry during the summer, left Washington for Chicago to make an investigation of the Insull crash for the committee.

He carried with him the broad senatorial power to inquire into the situation, together with a number of volunteer tips which he wanted to check against the records in the case. Chairman Norbeck's office made the following brief announcement: "Acting under instructions from Senator Norbeck, chairman of the senate committee on banking and currency, James E. Stewart, who has been in charge of the interim investigation of this committee, in charge of the stock market inquiry, left for Chicago to pursue the investigation into the Insull situation."

WISCONSIN POLICEMEN "KIDNAP" A PRISONER

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Four Wisconsin policemen removed Joseph Gelosi, wanted in Madison in connection with a murder investigation, from the county courtroom here this afternoon immediately upon conclusion of a habeas corpus proceeding, and started back to Madison with Gelosi in their automobile.

When County Judge Bertram L. Newman denied Gelosi's application for a writ of habeas corpus, the four officers appeared unexpectedly, slipped handcuffs on the prisoner and marched him out of a back door without saying a word to the judge or any officers of the court.

Gelosi has unsuccessfully fought extradition to Wisconsin where he was wanted as an accessory before and after the fact in the murder of Andrew Presti of Madison, slain on July 5.

FOUR MAY DIE AFTER FALL

Los Angeles.—Four of sixteen workers who tumbled 800 feet down the pitch dark interior of the steep Grapevine canyon siphon of the Los Angeles aqueduct in an odd accident were reported near death. The canyon is 180 miles north of here. The human avalanche started when one of the men, Arthur Johnson, slipped near the top of the tube, which is nine feet in diameter. His body struck workers below. The lights went out. The tangle of screaming men shot down over sharp rivets and corrugations to the bottom of the siphon. Only one escaped unhurt. The most seriously injured were Johnson, John Balch, Phillip Garrig and Frederick Payne, night foreman. The men were scraping the walls of the siphon.

British Troops are Called Afer Belfast Riots

Authorities Believe Situation Is Now Well in Hand—Many Arrests Are Made.

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Oct. 12.—British troops were hurried into Belfast today to cope with new unemployment riots following in the wake of yesterday's outburst of violence, in which one man was killed and more than 30 persons seriously wounded.

A unit of the Inniskilling fusiliers was brought in from the barracks at Holywood. The king's royal rifles, it was announced, will arrive Friday.

This afternoon, after considerable shooting in the western part of the city brought armored police cars into action, the authorities announced they had the situation well in hand.

Numerous arrests were made, one street alone the police took prisoners.

Police announced that curfew restriction would become effect at 8 o'clock tonight in the areas the most serious disorders.

In several neighborhoods, trenches had been dug in the streets by rioters, and police filled them in. More than three thousand police were on duty in the area where riots occurred. They resorted to gas to put down a mob in Lee street, when attacked with bricks and bottles.

The Press association, a British news agency, said the police authorities believed communism was the root of the trouble.—World-Herald.

RESTRICT SUGAR CROP

The Hague, Netherlands.—Cuban representative at the international sugar council agreed to restrict forthcoming Cuban crop to 2 million tons. This was in line with proposals of Japanese producers and brought to an end a controversy that had lasted a year.
