

Rehabilitation Part of Relief Work Planning

R. C. Biart, Head of Relief Work in State, Tells of Baking, Sewing, Budgeting Instructions.

Lincoln, Jan. 25.—Rehabilitation was named Thursday by Randall Biart, state relief director, as more important than relief in the federal emergency program to help the needy.

"If we don't teach people something in this depression about how to take care of themselves," he said, "we have lost a great opportunity."

"We've got a three-fold setup in this state to control relief and direct nursing and nutrition."

Lincoln, Jan. 25.—Rehabilitation was named Thursday by Randall Biart, state relief director, as more important than relief in the federal emergency program to help the needy.

"Unless we do our relief work with an eye to the future, we may be worse off than before. If the relief emphasis is too heavy and rehabilitation neglected, when the federal government pulls out, we'll lose everything we've gained."

Teach Baking, Sewing. "We can help people with their budgeting problems, teach them to buy more wisely, teach them food values, and help them to learn to bake, sew, cook and maintain their health."

Blart said privations endured for months and months couldn't be corrected by the WA or anything else in 90 days.

"I know many families who got along without relief for months before they were put on relief rolls. But we're going to do all we can to preserve health. If a child needs cod liver oil, we're going to see he gets it," he said.

Deal With All Classes. "We're dealing with the gold bricks and the chronics, the general unemployed and finally with the white collar class which hangs on by its eyebrows. We mustn't let slip an opportunity to make it easier for them to carry on when this is all over."

Blart said community health nurses are going into needy homes to help mothers with baby problems and checking nutrition, particularly of preschool children. Nutrition experts will hold schools in canning and cooking and then go into homes to help with budgeting and food purchasing.

Gardening projects will be encouraged.

DON'T KNOW OF ACCOUNT

Omaha.—Mrs. Tony Hoffman testified in federal district court that she knew nothing of an alleged brokerage account which accumulated an income in her name during 1928, and that she did not know an income tax return had been made for her in March, 1929. She was the first government witness in a suit charging Charles S. McConnell, accountant and income tax expert, with fraud in assisting her husband with his income tax returns in 1928. District Attorney Epperson filed an exhibit photostats of two income tax returns. One showed an income of $79,253 for Hoffman and his partner in an alleged gambling house.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative brings a perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it! And the habitual use of irritating salts, or of powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets may prove injurious.

A week with a properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will tell you a lot. A few weeks' time, and your bowels can be "as regular as clockwork." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given the youngest child. Ten Year Production Record is Accepted

New Corn-Hog Ruling Permits a Long Time for Crop Limit Basis.

Nebraska farmers can now go back ten years into the history of the tract of land they offer to the government in the corn-hog program in return for the cash benefit payments, according to a statement received Friday night by W. H. Brokaw, state corn-hog administrator.

The concession will help northern Nebraska counties materially, he said. It follows the newspaper announcement that South Dakota farmers would be permitted to use the ten year history on account of the crop failures and grasshopper infestations of the last four or five years. The new ruling is likely to double the number of farmers signing corn-hog contracts in northeastern Nebraska counties along the South Dakota line, Brokaw estimated. It is likely to affect counties in north central Nebraska also.

The ruling covering the matter now reads as follows:

"The community committee shall inspect each field designated as contracted acres and determine what in their best judgment would be the yield of corn on such field in 1924 under weather conditions and other conditions affecting yield (such as floods) equal to the average of the last ten years. In doing so, the community committee shall take into account the present fertility of the land, the prevalence of insect pests and plant diseases, the yield of various crops, including corn, which may have been grown on the field during the past ten years, the type of soil, drainage, erosion, and other characteristics of the field and any other knowledge bearing on the probable productivity in 1924 of the field."

TRANSIENTS IN COMPLAINT

Omaha.—District Attorney Sandall's office is investigating a complaint filed by inmates, of improper food, unsanitary surroundings and mistreatment at the home for Nebraska transients established here by the government.

Aside from complaining at the alleged lack of quantity and quality food, the committee's main objection was, they said, that there had been no change of personnel at the home when the government took charge. Salvation Army workers who ran the place under city management were continued in charge, and emitties engendered before the change was made continued on a more serious basis.

Re-Elect Condit as President State Sheriffs' Ass'n

Next Winter Meeting to Be Held at Lincoln—Crime Cost Given by Thomas Pratt.

Grand Island.—Police Chief Condit of Lincoln, and the entire slate of officers of the Nebraska State Sheriffs' association were re-elected late Thursday. Lincoln was chosen as the site of the next winter meeting, and Norfolk for the 1934 summer meeting. A new constitution and new by-laws were adopted.

A resolution presented by Sheriff Frank Sweeney of Rushville called for a more complete check of parole convicts by sheriffs. Thomas Pratt of Chicago, Burlington railroad chief special agent, declared crime cost the nation 13 billion dollars in 1932, but the money didn't go as officers' salaries. The nation had 12,000 murders, and 50,000 robberies, he said. Scotland Yard, London police department, has only 500 fingerprints on file and has been called out of the city only four times in the last four years, Pratt said.

The Nebraska Bar association recommended thirty-one changes in criminal law, but not one was passed by the state legislature because organized crime has an influence on lawmaking bodies, Pratt said. He said informing the public of the problems of enforcement officers will go far toward relieving the crime situation.

Acting State Sheriff Benton offered the co-operation of his office and John McPherson, Omaha federal relief agent, discussed transient care. County Attorney Matzke of Seward discussed the value of fingerprints and gave information on laws advocated by the county attorneys at their recent session.

REMOVES TACK FROM LUNG

Grand Island.—A crooked tack embedded in the right lung of 4-year-old Peggy Moran since Oct. 26 was removed at a hospital here Wednesday by a doctor probing "in the dark." Peggy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Moran of Greeley, Neb., suffered no immediate ill effects from the tack and was not brought here until early in December. Physicians tried to move the tack with a magnet and forceps then but Peggy suffered a severe reaction and was put to bed.

Dr. James P. Riggs used forceps thru a bronchoscope to reach the tack, following the direction of an attendant who watched the movements of the instrument thru a fluoroscope. The tack was in the lower portion of Peggy's lung. The girl rested comfortably after the operation.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the president's wife, and Mrs. Curtis Dall, their daughter, will occupy the central box with their guests. The ten honor tables, subscribed at one thousand dollars apiece, will fill the center lounge of the Shoreham, surrounding the White House box, and the other guests will congregate in the adjoining ballrooms, in each of which a special program of torch-dance and musical entertainment will be provided. Dr. Hans Kindler, director of the National Symphony Orchestra, has charge of music for the hotel ball which is part of the nation-wide campaign to raise $2,000,000 as an endowment fund for the Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The brilliant uniforms and decorations of the army, navy and marine officers who make up a large proportion of the floor committee, together with the decorations worn by the diplomatic corps, will add splendor to the scene. Washington, accustomed to magnificent balls, is anticipating the coming event with a fervor which is making it outstanding in the history of brilliant fund-raisers in this city of polish and renown.

SEEK ESCAPED PATIENT

Norfolk, Neb.—Mystery shrouding the disappearance of Louis H. Larson, 56, Norfolk state hospital patient missing since Jan. 18, continues to grow more puzzling as searching parties of ten to twenty men diligently comb the countryside without finding trace of him.

Dr. G. E. Charlton, hospital superintendent, issued a statement in which he asked residents of north-east Nebraska to be on the lookout for Larson, who had been a patient at the hospital since 1905. Hospital attaches, he said, fear Larson may have suffered from exposure as a result of zero weather Wednesday night.

House to house canvasses have been made in this section but have revealed no clew.

Board for the 'Little Fellows' is Arranged

Temporary Arrangements Made in Independent Fight on NRA Brought About.

Washington.—NRA's Administrator Johnson and senate republican independents settled their differences for the time being and arranged for the creation of a special board of prominent citizens to hear code complaints from small businesses.

Johnson, accompanied by NRA's general counsel, Donald R. Riechberg, conferred with Senator Nye at the capitol for two hours, after which Nye announced the recovery administration appeared willing to set up such a board, rather than one with senators on it, to serve as a liaison group between NRA and congress.

Bitter words were exchanged between Senators Nye and Borah and Johnson, over what the senators called the monopolistic tendencies of NRA. But Nye said the conference was "highly gratifying," and Johnson, after a visit to the white house, agreed the question could be worked out without new legislation. He said the special board plan was acceptable all around.

In a formal statement, Nye said there was "every indication that the administrator is ready to reconsider my original proposal that there be created in NRA a special board of outstanding citizens to which the small manufacturers and business men may present their complaints as to the operation of the codes which have been adopted."

The North Dakotan added, however, he and his associates, who believe the codes are strengthening monopolies and making it difficult if not impossible for hundreds of independent industries to operate, would continue to discuss the question and would watch closely the handling by the new board of petitions for relief.

Senator Borah was not as pleased as Nye over the creation of a special board. "Without restoring the anti-trust law," he said in an interview, "a board will be utterly powerless to do anything." Johnson called on two other republican independents Senators Norris and LaFollette, Tuesday in connection with this phase of the NRA.
