

Rotary Club Hears Story of African Trip

Arthur Rapp, Author and Traveler, Is Speaker at Tuesday Noonday Luncheon of Club.

The Rotary club had a most unusual and pleasing treat afforded them on Tuesday when Arthur Rapp, of Council Bluffs was present as the guest speaker of the occasion. Mr. Rapp is a world traveler and has just recently paid a visit to the little known sections of Africa and which was the theme of his remarks.

The speaker told of the various sections of the dark continent, the varying scenes and settings of the lines of travel from Capetown north through the jungle and veldts of the continent as well as the sandy wastes of the northeast part, the valley of the Nile, one of the most fertile spots of the world. Mr. Rapp related many interesting incidents of his trips to Africa and which was made preparatory to a series of articles for publication on the dark continent.

Mr. Rapp was introduced by E. A. Wurl, a friend of several years standing, who was presented by R. W. Knorr, the chairman of the meeting.

Dr. R. P. Westover was welcomed as a new member of the club and given the charge into Rotary by Dr. H. G. McClusky.

Grimm's Ready

Charley Grimm, Chicago Cubs manager, declared before departing for the West Coast on the Cubs' Spring training trip that he intended to do some serious business at first base this season. This photo of Grimm as he stabs a high one would indicate he is living up to his statement.

PETITIONS ON LONG BARRED

Washington.—Louisiana petitions, attacking Senator Long and seeking his custer from the senate, were barred from consideration in a report filed with the senate by its judiciary committee which termed the documents "scurrilous and defamatory." These petitions, including one signed by former Governor Parker of Louisiana, had been referred to the judiciary committee by the senate elections committee with a request for a ruling on whether they were receivable and privileged for publication. The judiciary committee held the petitions should not have been received, and that they were not privileged for publication other than discussions of the charges on the floor of the senate.

Nehawka

James J. Pollard was a visitor in Omaha last Monday, being called there to look after some business matters.

Edward Murray was moving a house which he had at the A. G. Cliney place to the farm where he will farm this season.

Benton Sutphan was a visitor in Omaha last Monday evening, being called there to look after some business matters for a short time.

Carl W. Stone was shelling and delivering corn to the Farmers elevator and getting the delivery out of the way for the real farming operations which are now facing the entire country.

A. A. Reynolds, who has been residing in town during the winter, on Monday of this week moved back to the farm and will now be in position to take up the active work of farming when the time comes.

Glen Rutledge was a visitor in Union, where he was looking after some business matters during the forenoon and in the afternoon went on to Nebraska City, where he also looked after business matters.

William Highfield, of Plattsmouth, employee of the Iowa-Nebraska Gas & Electrical company, was in Nehawka Monday of this week, looking after some work for the day, making needed changes in their lines to provide better service.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Troop and mother, Mrs. W. O. Troop, Victor Wehrlein, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Troop and Master Tom Troop were over to Omaha last Monday, where they were looking after some shopping for the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Ross, living a few miles south of Nehawka, entertained on last Sunday at their beautiful country home, having a number of relatives and friends in for the day and dinner, and all enjoyed the occasion and the sumptuous meal that was set before them.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Philpot, residing north of Nehawka, were entertaining for the day last Sunday and had as their guests for the occasion Mr. and Mrs. Loy Wright and daughters, Mayme and Celia Wright, of near Wyoming, in Otoe county. All enjoyed the occasion very much.

Ole Olsen, the veteran quarry man of Weeping Water, was in Nehawka the first of the week, looking after the opening of the quarry which he operated here last year, as he has contracts for a large quantity of stone to be used in river work during the coming summer and is anxious to get started at the work as soon as possible.

James J. Pollard was called to Omaha Monday of this week to look after some business matters for a short time in connection with the implement store which he is conducting in Nehawka. At present he is doing a veritable land office business as the farmers are getting their machinery lined up for an intensive season of activity.

Now All Can Work

Just recently the stone industry has become one of the very active business interests in Nehawka, as both the local quarries are now running full force with two shifts and more help is needed than can be supplied from this vicinity, with still more to follow soon. The river development program now under way on the upper Missouri, will provide employment for thousands of men during the coming summer, many of whom will labor in the quarries getting out the vast quantities of stone required for rip-rap work.

Now Enjoying the Measles

No, far from it, for instead of enjoying them, Burnell Adams is suffering with measles and the home is under quarantine. His place as manager of the Trunkenholz oil station is being looked after by Earl Nixon during the time he is unable to be there. He is hopeful of soon recovering from the malady.

Open Quarry This Week

The quarry from which the Tobin company are to get the stone for use in completing the work on the streets of Union, was opened Monday of this week and workmen are now busy getting out stone and properly crushing it for use on the streets of our sister town. The work will be pushed as rapidly as possible in order to complete it before the closing down of CWA with the end of the present month.

Visited in Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Rough, after getting the heating plant repaired, and having a few days of leisure time on their hands, went to Iowa City, Iowa, where they visited from Friday until Sunday afternoon. The return trip was made via Des Moines and Omaha and they arrived here late Sunday evening.

Moved to Otoe County

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. August, the latter being formerly Miss Genevieve Stone, will farm near Palmyra. The first of the week they moved to their farm which is five miles south and two miles west of Elmwood, where they are now located and getting everything in readiness to start their farming operations whenever the weather is propitious.

Has a Good Hog Sale

Notwithstanding the very inclement weather which prevailed on last Saturday, the day of Harry Knabe's bred sow sale, there were a goodly number of people present who were desirous of adding to their herd and Mr. Knabe was able to dispose of nearly 70 head of the famous Hampshire sows, which he has been so successful in breeding.

Enjoyed Birthday Party

On last Sunday at their pleasant home, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Creamer entertained for the day and a very fine dinner a large number of their intimate friends who had come to properly celebrate the passing of Mr. Creamer's birthday. A most pleasant time was had by all.

Very Capable Painter

Benton Sutphan, son of Mrs. J. Sutphan, has been working on a new picture, which is a mountain scene and which contains a house along the mountain side. Benton is proving himself a very apt student and also is making a very beautiful picture.

Attended Grand Island Meeting

Mrs. R. C. Pollard was a visitor in Grand Island last Saturday, where she was meeting with the state democratic committee, of which she is a member, to consider the selection of a new national committeeman to succeed Arthur Mullen, resigned. The contest for the place was rather spirited as different factions of the party lined up behind their respective candidates, but the choice proved to be Keith Neville, of North Platte, former governor of the state and the man supported by the Mullen faction of the party.

Visited at Home Sunday

Miss Virginia Pollard, who is employed by the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, was a visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Pollard, last Sunday, returning to the metropolis that night in order to be able to resume her work Monday morning.

Visited Memorial Cabin

Elmer Webb, member of the Journal composing room force and of the city council at Plattsmouth, together with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ulrich, of near Mynard, drove down Sunday to inspect the new log cabin library building now nearing completion. They enjoyed looking over the building and noting the fine result achieved by C W A workers in the erection of this building, not only being able to provide themselves with the necessities of life in exchange for an honest day's work, but to leave for the enjoyment of present and future generations a building that would do credit to towns of much greater population. Being the chairman of Plattsmouth's Boy Scout troop committee that had supervision of the erection of a slightly larger Scout cabin in the woods on Rock Creek east of Murray and now at the work of providing a swimming hole along the creek, Mr. Webb's interest in the building here prompted them to drive down especially for that purpose. On their way back they went through Union and east to the old "Telegraph Road" and thence north to the Scout cabin, which they also inspected. Instead of being constructed of logs, this building, 20x40, with adjoining 12x16 kitchen, is boxed and shingled down the sides with red cedar shingles. The roof is shingled with fireproof slate shingles, the interior lined with inso board, stripped with stained battens. A fireplace of similar size to the one here is provided in the main assembly room.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Clair Shellenbarger of this city was operated on Tuesday at the Lord Lister hospital at Omaha for appendicitis and the many friends will be pleased to learn that he came through the ordeal in fine shape and is reported as doing just as well as possible under the circumstances. With the excellent reaction of Mr. Shellenbarger to the operation it is hoped that he may soon be well on the highway to recovery and able to return home in a short time.
