Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, April 8th By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"The Child and the Kingdom."

Matt. 18:1-4; 19:13-15

In a former lesson (Jan. 28) the standards of the Kingdom were laid down; we have followed the development and unfolding of these "standards" until all students should have a very clear conception and understanding of Christ's teachings, so that all could give "a reason of the hope that is in you." (I Pet. 3:15) and become intelligent Christian, that will be able "commit to faithful men who shall be able to teach others also." (II Tim. 2:2).

With this prologue we will enter into the profound study of the lesson of the Child and the Kingdom. Child education is at the root of all reform. Without it Christianity would die. We may ask "How does one become a citizen of an earthly kingdom?" By residing there a certain number of months or years; by exhibiting certain qualifications, and by taking certain oaths. In this lesson Jesus Christ, the ruler of the Kingdom, lays down the law for admission to it.

The occasion for this lesson was a strife among the disciples, who should be regarded the greatest in Christ's Kingdom, (they still had a mistaken idea of the Kingdom). Peter, James and John had been especially honored several times. They were human men, in whose minds such thoughts could arise. Jesus did not select the world's greatest men for his representatives, but humble fisher folks, whose names would be first in the Kingdom of God in all ages to come. Here follows an object lesson: Jesus called a little boy, probably one He knew, and was playing around him at the time. The boy readily responded to the call, would to God that all men would so promptly obey his call! The little boy had some reason to be afraid, standing in the midst of these thirteen men looking at him, but he knew Jesus. This is one of the great things Christ has done. He has lifted up childhood; then saying to these men: "Stop, and listen." Except ye turn from the way in which ye are going, from former selfishness and sin, and go in the way of loving, tender, trusting ways of childhood—become as little children—by the absence of duplicity, of cunning, of ulterior motives; to get these great qualities most men must turn be transformed, converted.

"Shall in no wise enter into the Kingdom of heaven." That settles it. "There's no other way—but to trust and obey." True greatness manifest itself in being humble. Childhood is sacred in the sight of God. Was unto men that will lead the innocent child astray by a bad example, cause it to lose its innocence and lead it unto evil ways. There guardian angels will report these acts to God, and punishment will follow. Here follows an illustration, how God cares for the lost child. "How think ye?" If we could only get men to think. O how hard it is to get our pupils to think! A true teacher is never content until he has set his pupils to thinking for themselves. "If a man had a hundred sheep." That is a large flock, but not too large for Christ the shepherd, to know his sheep by name. "And one of them gone astray." This one thought—lost! lost! lost!—runs like a sad undertone beneath all of our Lord's earthly ministry. He left his home in glory, and the unnumbered host of heaven, and came to earth to seek and to save, that which was lost.

That "lost sheep," the human race caused him more anxiety and grief than the ninety and nine safe in the fold. "And if so be that he find it." Will all be found? The sheep must answer the call, so the shepherd can come to its assistance. What a pity that so few answer: "Here am I." Than Jesus shows what an exceeding delight will be in heaven over the redemption of a single lost soul. It has been a long time since we have seen and experienced the joy of a "soul returning from the wild," and finding sweet rest in the bosom of the shepherd. Rev. W. O. Cushing's hymn: "Ring the Bells of Heaven," is heard no more, in the camp of Israel.

The closing scene of this lesson is a most touching one. A number of mothers came at this time, having listened to Christ's discourse about the children, bringing little children, that the great teacher should lay his hands on them and pray. But a rude shock awaits them. The disciples tried to thrust them away. They probably meant well, they would not have the Lord interrupted in His work, but Jesus had to rebuke them, for their interference. Jesus was a lover of children, and he would be very much pleased if more people would bring their little ones to Him, because the older ones are not so easy brought to Him. How happy Jesus would be if all mothers (and fathers) would place their children in the good shepherd's care. With his hands upon them to guide, with his blessing upon them to protect them, against the fiery darts of the wicked one, we can safely leave them in His care. How tenderly God will look after the lambs and sheep he tells us in Ezekiel 34:15-16: "I will feed my flock, I will cause them to lie down, saith the Lord God. I will seek that which is lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen that which was sick."

How often must these mothers have told their children that Jesus had blessed them and prayed over them.

Nehawka

Mrs. Sarah Young was a visitor in Lincoln on last Saturday where she went to consult her physician regarding her health.

Miss Harriett Leach was a visitor with friends for the day on last Saturday and was also looking after some shopping in Omaha.

W. J. Wunderlich was called to Plattsmouth on Monday of this week where he was looking after some business matters for the day.

John Campbell and wife were over to Plattsmouth on last Saturday where they were looking after some business matters for the afternoon.

Miss Lois Troop and Maurine Cisney were enjoying their Easter vacation on Monday and Tuesday of this week visiting with friends and relatives in Plattsmouth.

James Smith, who is gardening this summer in Sarpy county, departed for his field of labors late last week. He is to raise garden stuff for the Norfolk Packing Co.

Mrs. Fred Lutz entertained at her country home the members of the Neighborhood club on last Friday where all enjoyed a very fine time and there they spent the afternoon quilting.

Mrs. Laura Ringwood, who makes her home at Minneapolis, was a visitor with relatives here and at Plattsmouth for the past more than a week and will visit for some time yet. Mrs. Ringwood was formerly Miss Laura Puls.

John H. Steffens was over to Lorton for the day last Monday, remaining over until Tuesday where he was assisting in the rendering of the report of his father's bank at Lorton and assisting the father with the monthly balance sheet.

The Nehawka schools instead of taking their Easter vacation on last Thursday and Friday, waited until Monday and Tuesday of this week when they took the vacation, the teachers going to their homes during the week-end and the first two days of this week.

Dr. Henry W. Walters who has been making their home in the residence of Mrs. Z. W. Shrader, she residing on the farm, moved the first of the week to the home of Henry Schomacker where they will make their home. Mrs. Schomacker moved to town to make her home in the old home.

Ray Creamer, who lost one of his horses a year ago, also suffered the loss of one last Sunday. The animal seemed all right when he placed it in the barn last Saturday night and when he went to the barn Sunday morning the animal was dead. This makes it severe as the time for the use of the animals is here now.

James Ketch, formerly of Weeping Water, but who has been in the employ of W. O. Troop on the farm, was taken to Omaha where he underwent an operation for relief from a severe attack of appendicitis and is doing well since. The appendix was burst, making the case one of much severity. Parr Young and Dr. R. W. Tyson accompanied the unfortunate man to the hospital.

Delivers Autos Here.
Charles Hansen, the Plymouth dealer who has been disposing of many of these fine cars, received a shipment from the factory on last Monday morning, they being delivered by a carrier truck instead of via railroad as they can deliver the cars in less time and at a smaller cost.

Building Concrete Cistern.
James Miller, the concrete worker and who by the way is one of the very best, is at this time constructing a cistern which is reinforced concrete, seven feet in diameter and twelve feet deep, with a covering of reinforced concrete, which makes one of the very best of cisterns and one that will give many years of service.

Hold Directors Meeting.
The directors of the Nehawka Farmers Oil Co., were holding their monthly meeting at the office of the company in Nehawka last Saturday. The company has been doing an excellent business and which extends over a large portion of the county. Raymond C. Pollard is the efficient manager of the company.

New System Installed.
The changing of the telephone operations of Nehawka from the old style switchboard and its operators to the new automatic dial system, was completed last Saturday, and on last Saturday night the operation of the system under the new plan was started. While it was thought it would be a difficult matter to change over by many of the subscribers the new system went into effect as smoothly as anyone could desire. Some new subscribers have been added.

Received Second Injury.

Some time ago Olaf Lundberg received an injury in the fracturing of one of his knee caps and while with good care and treatment allowed him to get about and while he was extremely careful of the injured member he slipped on last Saturday night and sustained a second fracture. This has compelled Mr. Lundberg to take to his bed again while a second healing will be accomplished. His many friends are hoping that he will soon be able to be out again and that this time he will not suffer a recurrence of the former injury.

Undergoes Operation.

Mrs. John Opp who has been in poor health for some time was taken to the St. Mary's hospital at Nebraska City where she underwent an operation for the restoration of her health and was reported following the ordeal as rallying nicely and it appears as though she would come through all right. The husband, John Opp, and their family physician, Dr. Walters were present at the operation.

Gave Description of Work.

The Rev. Murray Nelson, a missionary to Africa who has spent many years in the work in the wildest portion of the continent and a member of the missionary workers of the United Brethren church was the minister at the Otterbein church on Easter Sunday and gave a descriptive discourse of the work there and entertained the large audience with the manners of living in the wildest continent in the world.

Mrs. Wehrlein Entertained.

Mrs. Wm. Wehrlein entertained on last Sunday and had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wehrlein and their son, Billie, Anderson Lloyd and the family and Roy Creamer and family, where all enjoyed a very pleasant time and an excellent dinner.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. William Hunter was operated on Monday at the Clarkson hospital at Omaha, the operation being to relieve a very painful condition occasioned by a previous operation. The patient came through the operation in fine shape and it is expected will soon be able to return home.

Eugene Hula, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Hula of this city is also a patient at the Clarkson where he was operated on Sunday for a severe case of appendicitis, he having a sudden attack of this malady and which made necessary the operation at once as the appendix had burst.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Duda of Omaha were here Sunday to spend the day visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Duda and with other relatives and friends.
