Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schaeffer, of Weeping Water and Miss Lizzie Bauer, of Manley, were in Omaha on last Wednesday, where they were called to look after some business.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Rauth entertained for dinner on Easter and had as their guests for the day, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mochenhaupt and the children and Miss Mary A. Murphy.

John Crane was constructing a storage house for cement at the lumber yard and was laying the foundations early last week to enable completing the structure as soon as the concrete shall have cured.

The Altar society of Manley will give a card party at Weeping Water in the near future, when the business men of that place will provide a hall and furnish entertainment for the ladies in honor of the occasion.

Jack Patterson, a student at the University of Nebraska, and who is a member of the special chorus in a church there, was a visitor at home on Easter Sunday and sang a solo at the services of the St. Patrick church here that day.

M. R. Malvers, of New York, who was here purchasing horses, bought a team of John C. Rauth for $200, and also a single horse from Walter Mochenhaupt for $150, they all being fine animals. The price of horses is showing a nice advance of late.

Walter Mochenhaupt and wife, accompanied by their son, Billie, were in Omaha last Monday, where they visited and where they were met by Jose Huse, of Jackson, an uncle of Billie. He accompanied the uncle home and will visit at Jackson for a month and attend school.

W. J. Rau, who had not been down town from his home since the latter part of December, was able on Tuesday of last week to surprise his friends by coming down to the bank, and while he is still very weak, he is feeling much better than for a long time. He was out for a short ride on Easter day and enjoyed the opportunity of getting out of doors once more. It is hoped that with the coming of spring, he will now gain rapidly in health and soon be strong and rugged again.

Here for a Visit
Adolph Steinkamp was pleasantly surprised when his son, Herbert and wife, arrived for a visit. Mr. and Mrs. A. Steinkamp, Miss Sue Mochenhaupt and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Steinkamp were visiting in Omaha during a portion of last week, where Mr. Steinkamp was receiving some medical treatment for his health. He is much improved and is hoping soon to be entirely well.

Makes Change in Home
In 1910 Thomas F. Jamison, the carpenter and builder, who passed away recently at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John F. Bates, of Rising City, built a home for John C. Rauth and while nearly a quarter of a century has elapsed, the home is still a model of convenience, beauty and usefulness.

With the changing of the times, however, there have been many new conveniences brought out that are adaptable to both rural and town homes. Mr. Rauth has kept pace with the advancing times and recently had some changes made in the interior arrangement of the home. Now he has had the interior entirely redecorated and adding new furniture and furnishings. From the early days of pumping water by hand, through the windmill period and on up to the electrical stage, he has kept pace and today enjoys the conveniences of a modern water system as good as provided in any city home, entirely automatic in the matter of caring for the water supply. The home is also equipped with electric lights and other conveniences for the housewife.

Mr. and Mrs. Rauth have worked hard and are entitled to these modern day conveniences.

RIDE MILE ON FLOOD TIDE

Elk City, Okl.—Willy Beene, his wife and three children rode a mile down the Washita river floodwaters without knowing it. The 31 year old farmer told about it after he had rescued his family from the torrent.

"We were all asleep when the flood came," said Beene, "but I woke up when the house tipped heavily to one side. Right away I knew the foundation had been washed out. I put the bed up on chairs to keep it out of the water and put all the children on the bed." Mrs. Beene, Mary, 5; Jane, 2 and a 5 day old baby were in the house.

"All this time we were floating down the river but I didn't know it until later. The children were scared and the storm was making so much noise that my wife and I never knew we were adrift. Then there was a jolt and I found we had grounded on a hill."

SALLY EILERS TESTIFIES IN HUSBAND'S BEHALF

Los Angeles, Cal., April 5.—Sally Eilers of the movies testified today that Harry Joe Brown spent most of his time with her for several weeks before they were married last September.

She was called to refute testimony of Miss Marjorie Whitels, actress, who is suing Brown, a film director, for 100 thousand dollars on charges of breach of promise.

Miss Whitels had testified Brown wooed her up to the time he married Miss Eilers, and that she saw him frequently after his return from Europe on the same boat with Miss Eilers last summer.

Foreign Nations Owing U. S. Face Credit Embargo

Can't Float New Loans Unless Obligations Are Cleared Up—Up to the President.

Washington, April 4.—A credit embargo was voted by congress today for foreign nations that have defaulted on their obligations to this government and its nationals.

By an almost unanimous voice vote, the house passed the senate-approved Johnson bill barring Americans from engaging in financial transactions with foreign countries that fail to pay their debts owed this nation or investors.

It was sent to the White house, where President Roosevelt is expected to sign it.

Amendments Barred.
Chairman McReynolds of the foreign affairs committee brought the bill before the house under procedure barring amendments and requiring a two-thirds majority vote for passage, saying that when one of the foreign debtors refused to make its payment it asked "what are you going to do about it?"

"Here is our chance to reply, 'You can't borrow from our people,'" said McReynolds. "Let's show these foreign countries we are going to do something."

McReynolds said that recently France sought through a Dutch syndicate to borrow funds from American investors but was turned down by the treasury on the basis of this legislation. This bill, he said, would carry out that policy.

"Applies to All."
Representative Britten (rep., Ill.) said he concluded from the language of the bill that if any nation or a political subdivision had defaulted in whole or in part, its terms would apply and served notice he would support it on that basis.

"I fail to see why England with a surplus of 160 million dollars in her treasury should be excluded because of token payments," Britten said.

Britten said that if the state department excluded Great Britain and other countries that had defaulted or made token payments they all would be inclined to try to pay their debts.

Says England Not in Default.
McReynolds replied that "I would go farther than this if I thought we could get the legislation through at this session."

The chairman said that England, through her token payments, was not in default.

A provision in the bill, which would have exempted the export and import corporation, set up recently by the president to stimulate business with soviet Russia, was attacked by Representative Fish of New York, ranking republican on the foreign affairs committee, as "a product of the brain trust."

He said, however, that he had received today "assurances from a high state department official" that no money would be advanced until the soviet government had agreed on the debt owed by the Kerensky government amounting to 187 million dollars and about 300 million dollars owed American nationals for property confiscated by the communistic government.

KANSAN AGAINST PROJECT
Washington.—Representative Harold McGugin (r., Kas.) criticized various public works expenditures and asserted that Public Works Administrator Ickes was using part of the federal work funds "to carry out some of his long cherished ideas of governmental ownership of public utilities."

McGugin used as an example the Loup River, Neb., hydro-electric project, which he asserted would abolish the Nebraska coal market for Kansas miners.

"There are now from nine to eleven cars of coal daily going into Nebraska from Kansas to generate power in steam plants" said McGugin, charging that instead of aiding employment, many of the public works projects were depriving workers of jobs.

BONDS STOLEN IN NEBRASKA

Los Angeles.—Federal agents investigating reports that millions of dollars in liberty bonds and securities taken in midwestern bank robberies had been disposed of here, disclosed that a Los Angeles bank official they sought for questioning had disappeared. The agents, refusing to announce the identity of the man, indicated a warrant for his arrest probably would be issued. More than $50,000 in liberty bonds, taken in holdups in which machine gun gangs participated in Nebraska and Kansas, have been recovered here. E. H. Utley, assistant district attorney, said he believed some of the bonds were the loot of the "Pretty Boy" Floyd gang, which disposed of the bonds thru "fences" at a great discount. Four men, including an attorney, are under indictment here charged with trafficking in stolen bonds.

URGES CAUSE OF TEACHERS

Columbus, O.—Speaking before an audience that packed Memorial hall to the doors, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt pleaded for the construction of simple school houses and for conservation of public money for payment of salaries to teachers, and the purchase of books and other equipment.

Her address, delivered extemporaneously, was the feature of the day at the national citizens' conference on the crisis in education. "We ought to spend more on the education of our teachers," she said. "We are in a period of change in this country. It is the teacher who must understand that change and interpret it so as to be useful to the future of our country. What we need now is the ability to co-operate with each other for the good of the whole nation."

FILES FOR RE-ELECTION

This morning County Clerk George R. Sayles filed his name for re-nomination for his present office and which will be subject to the wishes of the voters at the republican primary.

Mr. Sayles is well known over the county and has proven a most efficient official in the conduct of the office.

The filing of Mr. Sayles' name brings the republican total to two. Otto A. Keck having filed several days ago for the same position on this ticket.

The many friends of Mr. Sayles over the county will be interested in learning that he has decided to again enter the race.

PRICELESS PAINTING LOST
Perranarworthal, Eng. — Rembrandt's priceless painting, "Pontius Pilate" was destroyed in a fire which wrecked the palatial country mansion "Cardew" owned by the noted polo player, Capt. Charles Tremayne. No one was injured, but the occupants of the house narrowly escaped. Several members of the Tremayne family and their guests were trapped in various places in the mansion. Both the captain and Mrs. Tremayne were driven back by the flames when they tried to escape in their night-clothes over the roof. They finally got out down the back staircase.

Senate Refuses to Boost Normal Income Tax Rate

Remain at 4 Percent Instead of 6 as Proposed—Thompson, Norris Vote for Proposal.

Washington.—By a margin of eleven votes the senate retained in the revenue bill the more moderate income and surtax schedules proposed by its finance committee instead of a proposal that would have restored wartime levies to help pay for economic recovery. The high tax advocates mustered thirty-six votes for a substitute schedule by Senator LaFollette, Wisconsin, calling for an increase in the normal income tax from 4 to 6 percent and surtaxes ranging from 6 to 71 percent. There were forty-seven votes to keep in the bill the committee rates that were tentatively approved Wednesday. This settled the chief controversy over the bill and leaders expected its passage before the week end recesses.

The committee rates provide a flat normal tax of 4 percent on all net income instead of the present 4 percent on the first $4,000 and 8 percent on all over that. They also fix the surtaxes at 5 percent on that portion of the income between $4,000 and $6,000 and graduate them upward thru twenty-nine brackets to fifty-nine percent on all over a million.

The rates approved by the house are a flat normal tax of 4 percent and surtaxes ranging from 4 to 59 percent. The differences in the surtax schedule will thus have to be threshed out in conference. Twenty-four democrats, eleven republicans, and the farmer-laborite, Shipstead voted for the LaFollette schedule. Twenty-nine democrats and eighteen republicans answered "no." The committee schedule would allow the same exemptions for surtax income as now are authorized for normal tax purposes. The effect of this would be to start the surtax at about $6,500 for single men because of the $2,500 and $1,000 exemptions.

Senators Norris and Dill, Washington, supported the LaFollette rates, while Chairman Harrison of the committee spoke against them. Norris said the LaFollette schedule would have hurt no one.

Dill described the higher rates as "very moderate." "It is unthinkable that any set of men should be permitted to put millions into their pockets while others do not have enough to feed themselves," he asserted.
