Improve Interior of Plattsmouth State Building

Banking Room in the Building Being Given Extensive Repairs and Redecoration of Room.

The banking room in the building of the Plattsmouth State bank is being given a very extensive improvement that will add to the appearance of the interior of the building to a great extent.

The lower portion of the west wall of the office as well as the banking room is having the plastering replaced with a marble section that will reach from the floor to the level of the windows on the west side of the room. The fixtures of the office are partially of marble and the new sections placed on the wall are matched with that of the fixtures.

With the placing of the marble facing along the wall the room will be redecorated, the work being pushed from the closing of banking hours on Saturday and it is expected to have all the work completed by opening time on Monday. The upper portion of the walls will be in tan tones while the ceiling will be in a lighter shade to aid the lighting of the room.

The improvement program will remove the grim reminders of the recent attempt to hold up the bank, as several of the bullet holes have remained in the plastering as marks of the gun battle that raged for a few moments in the bank and which resulted in the killing of one robber and the wounding of another.

Colored Men in Search of Work Visit This City

Attracted by Advertisement for Rock Workers, Several Come Here From Kansas City.

From Saturday's Daily
Last night a group of negroes, an uncommon sight here, arrived in the city and when rounded up by the night police stated that they expected to go to work in the rock quarry that is operated for the use of the river improvement program.

The men had clippings from a Kansas City newspaper for help wanted at this point as rock breakers and also stated that there was some twenty-five or thirty other colored men that expected to come here to locate.

There have been but few colored people here in the last thirty years and even then but one or two that had maintained a residence here. "Uncle Ned," Baker, ex-slave was the sole survivor of the colored colony that in an early day located here but was routed from the city in the late nineties when their dwelling place was fired and the fire department proceeded to wash them out and since that time there has never been more than two of the colored families located here.

It was stated at the court house where the employment bureau is located that the colored people arriving here would not be permitted to remain and work on the job and that local labor from Iowa and Nebraska would be employed by the contractors on the rock breaking job as they had in the past.

Sheriff Sylvester as well as Officer Roy Stewart and Dave Pickrell were busy last evening in rounding up the negroes coming here and the officers made a tour of the railroad yards to line the colored men up and see that they left the city at once and not make any stay here longer than necessary for them to be on their way.

State Director Biart Tells of the FERA Program

Makes Clear Many Features Not Clearly Understood by Residents of the State.

"There seems to be considerable misunderstanding in some quarters concerning the new work relief program of FERA. It should be distinctly understood that FERA is not operating an employment office, a service which is already being exceptionally well handled by the national re-employment offices. The Federal Emergency Relief Administration aims only to provide work for persons on relief rolls, so that they may earn what they get without the stigma of charity and pauperism generally associated with direct relief. FERA is not interested in getting jobs done, but unfortunately in some places local officials seem to be interested in the relief program primarily for the purpose of getting certain projects done with Uncle Sam paying the bill," says State Director Biart.

The Federal Relief Administration expects counties and communities to hire as many of the unemployed at local expense as possible. It is also expected that individuals now employed and that business both large and small shall do their full part in putting people to work. In other words, providing real jobs is a local obligation and responsibility.

FERA cannot take people off relief rolls. That is entirely up to the local people. The most we can do is to permit the people on relief to earn their necessities.

To bring this about the Work Division was formed. To put this work program into operation takes time. First let it be understood that the people assigned to the jobs which the work division has prepared must come from the relief rolls. They must be bona-fide relief cases. Their need must be established through investigation by relief workers, and this is a job that cannot be done in five minutes. It may take a week or even more to complete thorough investigations. It might be well to state that need must be fully established and certification of non-relief persons cannot be secured to satisfy any "big-shot."

After the individual has been certified as a bona-fide relief case by the relief office, he is given a "work requisition" which is virtually an order on the work division to provide the man with work according to his budgetary requirements. The next step is to check with the re-employment office to see if the man is registered for work. He cannot be placed on a FERA work division job unless he is. The third step in some places is to subject the man to a physical examination and if he passes then the work division makes out a work order to be passed on to the foreman of a specific project.

The work division must then notify the relief division of that placement. Nobody is going to starve during the period it takes to get the machinery into smooth operation. Those on relief will be cared for as usual. The relief job is a big business and no business can get a new program into operation over night or without a hitch.

It has been found that many of the men certified by the relief division have picked up temporary jobs or part time jobs that prevent them from being assigned to work division projects. This is a most encouraging sign. Early regulations provided that persons whose budgetary requirements did not reach 54 hours per month could not go on work projects. This naturally disqualified a large number of men. The new ruling received April 14, which provides a minimum of 18 hours per month, will release a large number of men for work.

If everyone realizes that FERA is doing a relief job and not an employment job and if we have a little more co-operation and patience and less jawbone, particularly on the part of those who have done little or nothing to alleviate the distress of the unemployed, the entire program will be operating smoothly in short order.

MISS WILLIAMS HERE

Miss Cora Williams, supervisor of music of the Plattsmouth city schools, who since the Thanksgiving vacation has been gravely ill, was in the city Friday. Miss Williams had gone to Baldwin, Kansas, for a holiday visit on Thanksgiving and was taken ill there with an attack of pneumonia and for months was under constant medical care. She remained at Baldwin until her condition permitted her to go to her home at Elmwood where she has since been recuperating. Miss Williams has been outstanding in her musical work in the schools here and at Elmwood where she formerly taught.

The friends and associates in the school work here were delighted to see Miss Williams and to find that she was feeling so much improved that she was planning on continuing her school work in the music department of the Plattsmouth schools. The fact that she is to return to the music work will be the occasion of a great deal of pleasure to the students with whom she was very popular in her teaching.
