ten Faris and Lucy B. Wassum, a sister, of Spokane, Washington. The family was bound together by a most wonderful love for each other, having been taught by a noble good mother who loved her boys and girls dearly, and admonished them to lead a good life.

The deceased came to Nebraska when a young man, with C. F. Harris, and after a season returned to his old home for a few years. While there, he was converted and joined the M. E. church South at Mt. Zion, Va. He never saw fit to change his relationship with that church.

He was married to Rachle Copenhaver, of Marion, Va., on March 25, 1903. Shortly thereafter he again heard the call of the west and returned to Murray, where he began farming one mile south of town and has remained most all the time since close to this town, except a short period spent in the State of Minnesota.

To this union four children were born, one, Ellen Virginia, having died in infancy. Those remaining are Mrs. George H. Rieke, of Union; Curtis Faris and John Faris, Jr., of Murray, together with a faithful wife and many relatives and a host of friends to mourn his passing.

John H. Faris was a man of fixed principle. He often said a man without principle was no man at all. He tried to make his word as good as his bond. He was industrious and honest and sought to teach his children that honest toil was no disgrace, but was to be commended. As to his sickness, while his concern was for his family, which he loved. He instructed his wife and family and some of his near friends as to all the plans and arrangements relative to his passing, naming his speaker several weeks ago and also selecting the subject. He wished him to talk to the living at his passing on. He stated that he would not be there, that he would be gone on, but he wanted the living to hear. He told his wife and friends many weeks ago that his faith and hope was in the one who said "I am the light of the world." His passing will not only be remembered by his family and relatives, but by a host of neighbors and friends.

The funeral was held from the Presbyterian church at Murray last Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. A. Taylor, of Union. Scripture and prayer were by Rev. Stewart, pastor of the church. Interment was in the East Union cemetery.

HALF A MILLION FIRE LOSS

Lyndhurst, N. J.—Damage estimated at $500,000 was caused by a spectacular fire which started in a United Cork company warehouse and spread to the neighboring J. H. Lehman Machine company. The blaze raged on at night, but apparently under control, as firemen from thirteen municipalities continued their fight to prevent it spreading to other factories and several hundred small residences. Three warehouses of the cork company's seven-building plant were leveled by the fire, which is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion. Aside from numerous small fires, the flames at night were confined to the work company plant, where a fourth building was badly damaged. About twenty piles of cork, each over twenty-five feet high, burned furiously.

URGES NEW INDIAN BILL

Washington.—A bill to prevent dissipation of Indian allotted lands was introduced by Representative Warner, who claimed for it the effects sought in the Indian bureau's pending land policy-self government bill while at the same time leaving time for further consideration of any new policy legislation. LITTLE FELLOW OFFENDER

Chicago.—The charge that the "little fellows" are the chief offenders against the NRA codes was made here by John Swope, aide to General Johnson in the recovery administration's compliance division. Swope, who presided at a conference of state NRA directors, said the attempt on the part of the "little fellow" to chisel on the codes accounted in part for the criticism that the NRA operates unjustly against the small merchant while fostering big corporations. Most difficulty has arisen in the service codes covering laundries, garages, hotels and the like, said Swope.

directed by Jean Gilbert Jones with the wonderful volume and harmony of the hundreds of singers, awakened the entire countryside. All in all the series of entertainment was a wonderful demonstration of what can be done for the people of a community when all work together.

Makes Report on Cattle Meet.

The report of W. G. Boedeker, delegate from Cass and Otoe counties sent to the Chicago meeting, was made last week at the Weeping Water meeting and was in substance as follows:

The forenoon session of the meeting was devoted entirely to hearing speeches by the AAA men from Washington, four in number, each of whom urged the necessity for a cattle program and a process tax on cattle.

These men stated that the cost of a cattle program must be paid from a process tax on cattle, but that any appropriation by the government for a cattle program must be returned to the government from a process tax on cattle. Also that the cattle feeders must expect to benefit from a process tax only through a cattle program reducing the number of cattle and that by a reduced number of cattle the cattle feeders would receive a better beef market later on.

They also made the statement that the cattle men are now riding on the backs of the hog men and that unless a process tax were placed on cattle that it would be necessary for a compensation tax to be placed on beef.

The afternoon session was in charge of an AAA man as chairman and was for the purpose of hearing from the cattle grower and cattle feeder as to their views on a cattle program and a process tax on cattle. With the corn belt cattle feeders voicing vigorously against such a tax, a resolution was adopted by the conference authorizing Harry Petrie, the chairman of the meeting and who is head of the beef cattle and sheep sections of the AAA to name a committee of twenty-five men to be picked from cattle feeders to work with the administration in trying to work out some sort of a reduction program and when and if such a program is worked out it is to be submitted back to conferences of cattle growers and cattle feeders for their approval.

The southern cattle country including the states of Texas and Georgia were represented at the meeting and were very strongly in favor of a process tax on cattle, as was the heads of so-called farm organizations such as the National Grange and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Practically every cattle feeder at the meeting that was permitted to say a few words were seriously opposed to a cattle program and a process tax. A large number of the cattle feeders came to the meeting with petitions protesting a process tax on cattle, one man had petitions signed by two thousand cattle feeders.

Numerous attempts were made to take a vote for or against a process tax on cattle, but each and every time the issue was sidetracked by the AAA chairman, who apparently was aware of the apparent majority at the meeting being opposed to a tax, and had a vote been taken on the issue, and had only real cattle growers and cattle feeders been permitted to vote, the vote would have been fully 75% opposed to a tax.

Ninety-six degrees temperature so early in May means that when it gets over a hundred in June and July we won't notice it—much.
