

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be controlled.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is at all druggists. Member N. R. A.

MAKES ESCAPE AT AURORA

Floyd Sherwood, 24, broke jail at Aurora shortly after 8 p. m. Thursday, Sheriff Howard reported to Lincoln police. He was being held for burglary. Howard thought the man had taken an eastbound freight train. Officers here were detailed to watch railroad yards thru the night. Sheriff Howard described the man as being five feet eleven inches tall, weighing 180 pounds, brown eyed, dark complexioned and wearing overalls and a leather jacket.

Second District Bar in Tribute to Judge Begley

work of Judge Begley, we feel that it is fitting that the Bar of this Judicial District resolve:

That in his death the Bar and the bench of this District and the community in which he lived, have sustained a grievous loss, and that his life and work are worthy of emulation by us all.

That his family has been deprived of the love and help of a kind and indulgent husband and father, and the community a helpful citizen.

Resolved further that the foregoing resolution be spread on the Court records of each County of this District and a copy thereof be sent to his widow.

Dated May 11, 1934.
PAUL JESSEN,
C. E. TEFFT,
E. S. NICKERSON,
Bar Committee, Second Judicial District of Nebraska.

Following the reading of the resolutions the court called on the members of the bar to add their voice to the tributes that had been expressed in the resolutions of the committee.

Many beautiful and eloquent tributes were given to the great legal ability of Judge Begley, his cheerful and genial disposition and from the younger members of the bar his interest and friendliness in their cases tried before him and which had served to start them on their legal careers.

Judge Paul Jessen called to the bar the fact of the long and glowing record of Judge Begley on the bench, in the time since the second district had been created, he had served one-third of that time. His long and brilliant service had convinced the speaker that men like these should be kept on the bench as long as it was possible to do so. Judge Jessen also touched on his pleasant social relations with Judge Begley.

C. E. Tefft added his expressions of personal esteem with a fine tribute to the fairness and outstanding love of justice that had characterized the departed. The speaker stated that if a client came into court with a just cause they could expect every justice. It had been fortunate for the district that they had serving them such a just and upright judge.

E. S. Nickerson of Papillion, added a personal tribute to the departed, whom he had known in his native county and paid honor to the service that Judge Begley had brought to the bench.

William Ritchie, of Omaha, paid a very beautiful and eloquent tribute to the personal life and association of Judge Begley, his inspiring mind, heart and soul, that in his personal touch he had radiated the greatness of his soul and the speaker loved to recall the greatness of the just judge before whom he had practiced and whose service on the bench was honored by members of the bar in all sections.

Unable to be present, County Attorney W. G. Kieck sent a written message of tribute from his thirty years acquaintance with Judge Begley and his unflinching belief in the administration of the law in a just manner.

W. A. Robertson, president of the bar association, spoke briefly in tribute to Judge Begley, who had been a close neighbor and friend over a period of twenty-five years. The speaker had cherished this friendship and had been impressed with the deep sense of responsibility shown by Judge Begley. All people, in any walk of life had equal right at the bar of justice in the court of Judge Begley and he had given justice as he had seen it in his wonderful knowledge of the law.

C. A. Rawls, one of the oldest members of the bar, paid a particularly beautiful tribute to Judge Begley, in whom the speaker stated he had been impressed by three characteristics, his cheery disposition and unflinching pleasantness, the capacity and genius for study and his ability to transmit this great capacity for work into concrete judicial thought. The close of the life of the departed has been a beautiful one, still engaged in his active work, smiling and talking with friends when life's thread was snapped.

A. L. Tidd spoke of his associations with the departed jurist and his great capacity for work in his office and the many years of service that he had given the people of the district.

H. A. Collins of Papillion paid personal tribute to the departed as a friend of many years standing and to his work on the bench of the district.

In view of the life, character and V. E. Tyler of Nebraska City, in his remarks, stated that in his law career he had served under Judge Begley in the district court from the time that he had entered the practice of law until this time. Judge Begley had been kind and helpful to the younger members of the bar. The life and services of Judge Begley had been the very highest that any man could give and served as an inspiration to all members of the bar and those who came in touch with him.

County Attorney G. H. Heinke of Nebraska City paid tribute to both the judicial and personal career of Judge Begley, his fair and fearless action on the bench and as well his services in leadership in the church that he found possible despite the exacting duties of his office.

Judge W. W. Wilson of Nebraska City, former member of the supreme court commission, told of the brilliant work of Judge Begley, who had come to the bench as a young man and had become one of the great judges of the state, one recognized by the supreme court in their repeated calls for his services. The decisions and opinions given by Judge Begley in the supreme court had established much law in the state and his opinion widely quoted.

Judge A. H. Duxbury told of his personal friendship and admiration for Judge Begley, before whom he had tried his first law case, being appointed by the court to defend a criminal case and that the kindly manner of the court had served to aid the young members of the bar in their careers.

Bernard M. Spenser of Nebraska City also expressed his admiration of the departed as a just and fearless judge and one kindly to those who were entering the legal profession, the speaker having tried his first law suit in his court.

D. O. Dwyer also paid a tribute to the great capacity for study and preparation that had marked Judge Begley, his pleasant personality that had endeared him to the public. That his record had been one above the average, was shown by his long service on the bench.

T. Simpson Morton, county judge of Otoe county, and former Judge John M. Dierks added their tributes as members of the younger portion of the bar and their appreciation of the great service that Judge Begley had given his district and the state.

J. R. Mueller of Syracuse, George M. Lathrop, Nebraska City and Joseph M. Strawn of Papillion, gave brief tributes to the memory of Judge Begley, both as a jurist and friend.

Judge Livingston in closing the session of court paid tribute to Judge Begley as a man of unusual personality and dominating knowledge of the law that had made him the equal of any member of the bench or bar in the state of Nebraska. Two-thirds of the members of the second district bar had never practiced before any other judge in the district court. Coming to the bench as a young man the older members of the bar had seen Judge Begley grow in his office until at the time of his passing he was the equal of any judge in the state of Nebraska.

BATTLE REPORTS CONFLICT

Cairo, Egypt.—A terrific battle between the invading forces of King Ibn Saudi Arabia and the Yemeni army was described in conflicting reports reaching here from the war zone between Hodeldah, captured seaport and Sana, capital of Yemen. Claims of victory were made for each side. One source said that the Emir Faisal, heir of Ibn Saud, had overtaken and defeated the rear guard of the retreating Yemeni troops. From Yemeni officials, however, came telegrams stating that their retreat had been halted and that the Saudi army suffered a severe defeat in a twenty-three hour battle.

PLAN FOR CHINA REVEALED

Geneva.—The League of Nations made public its suggestions for rehabilitation of China, which have been awaited with great interest in view of Japan's recent pronouncement of her "Asia for Asiatics" policy.

The league plan, contained in a report by Dr. Ludwig Rajchman, league representative, will be discussed by a committee of the league council May 14, when additional recommendations are expected.

League officials admitted the recommendations of Dr. Rajchman for internal improvements and developments is political in that, they claim, the projects if carried out would transform China into an independent, unified nation.

MURDOCK ITEMS

E. D. Friend and wife, of near Alvo, were guests for the day last Sunday at the home of Eddie Craig, where all enjoyed an excellent visit and a very fine dinner.

Homer H. Lawton was spending the past week in Lincoln, where he had some painting work to do for a party residing there. Homer is a good workman in this line.

Edward Rosenow, of west of Elmwood, on the O street road, was visiting with friends and looking after some business matters in Greenwood on Wednesday of last week.

In a game of ball which was played on the local grounds last Wednesday between the Murdock team and a team from Louisville, the home team was able to win over the visitors by a score of 11 to 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowe and their babe, who have been visiting for some weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Neitzel, grandparents of Mrs. Lowe, departed Saturday for their home at Hyannis.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Elchoff were visiting in Lincoln on Tuesday of last week, they driving over to the big town to look after some business matters and as well were visiting with their friends while there.

Thomas Walling, the newly appointed deputy sheriff, was a visitor in Murdock, coming to look after some legal matters and was also at Elmwood. On his return to Plattsmouth, he was accompanied by Mr. Depner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Tool were in Omaha on last Wednesday, where they were attending a meeting of the officials of the American Red Cross, and where they also attended a supper given at the Fontenelle in the evening.

The real warm days which came on last week prompted Oscar McDonald to cut a door in the east side of his place of business in order that there might be better ventilation and the room be made more comfortable on hot days.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bradford were in Omaha last week, where they attended a meeting for the organizing of a club they have been instrumental in getting started among a group of their friends and acquaintances. The new club has fifteen charter members.

John P. Mockenhaupt, who is making his home at Plattsmouth, was a visitor with his relatives and friends on last Wednesday, coming for the visit and returning to Plattsmouth, where he is working. He will return again soon for a longer visit with his friends.

Floyd Williams, who has been troubled with repeated attacks of appendicitis and who was taken to the hospital at Lincoln where he underwent an operation, has since been recovering nicely and was able to return home on Sunday, being able to show good improvement.

Mrs. L. B. Goerthey had as her guests at their country home on last Monday afternoon the members of her Bible school class. The boys played ball and the girls were entertained with games and also with the closing of the afternoon were entertained with a very delightful lunch.

Frank Melvin has been placing a new shingle roof on the hotel and otherwise placing the building in the best of repairs. Chester Elesman has had charge of the interior decoration including painting, varnishing and papering. Thus, with the aid of these two gentlemen, the hostelry is assuming a greatly changed appearance.

The Ladies Aid of the Murdock church met on last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Mathew Thimgan and were entertained by this excellent lady. They looked after the affairs of their society as to its relation to the church work and planned for greater activities and were entertained by a very delightful luncheon by the genial hostess.

E. W. Thimgan, of Plattsmouth, who has filed for the nomination for sheriff, subject to the will of the voters of the republican party, was a visitor in Murdock on Tuesday of last week and was looking after some business matters here as well as meeting with his old friends and looking after his political chances for the nomination for sheriff.

Messrs Lacey McDonald, A. J. Tool and Harold W. Tool were over to the Platte river on last Wednesday afternoon, where they went to try out the fishing proposition and to get acquainted with the new kinds of fish that might have come up the river this season. They had a good time and would have liked to brought enough fish home for all their friends, but they did not get quite enough.

Conducted Services at Weeping Water The pastor of the Methodist church of Weeping Water, the Rev. E. S. Pangborn, has been ill and was at the hospital in Omaha the past three weeks, and while he is again so he can come home, he is still very weak from the operation and treatment and not able to look after his church work. Accordingly, L. Neitzel of this place accepted an invitation to go to Weeping Water on Mother's day and conduct services in the place of his friend, Rev. Pangborn.

Primary Gives Good Program

The members of the primary grade of the Murdock high school rendered a very pleasing program last Wednesday afternoon, which was attended by all the mothers and a considerable number of the grandmothers of that grade.

Enjoy Good Time

The young folks society of the Christian Endeavor met on last Monday evening at the home of Alvin Oehlerking, where they enjoyed a very fine evening with their program and as well the social portion, which was enhanced by the very fine luncheon that was served.

Seniors See the City

The Senior class of the Murdock high school, with the superintendent as their sponsor and driving one of the cars which carried them, took last Tuesday as their sneak day and saw Omaha, they visiting a number of places of interest and seeing how things are being done out in the world. During the time they were away the Rev. H. R. Knosp was supplying as teacher at the schools.

Will Teach at Harbine

O. E. Bradford has accepted an offer as superintendent of the schools at Harbine and will with the opening of the schools for the coming year in the fall go there to act as superintendent and instructor in their public schools.

To Reorganize Bank

In accordance with the decision of the judge of the district court allowing the Bank of Murdock an opportunity to reorganize the bank, a meeting of the stockholders and depositors was called, looking to that end.

The town of Murdock like all other towns is in need of a bank to serve its interests and expedite business transactions. The closing of the bank a second time, when it was getting in good condition for the paying off of depositors, caused a delay and much inconvenience while the owners were compelled to go into court to get permission to reopen and again serve the community. Hearing of the case was quite long and drawn out, but now it seems the way is clear to effect a re-organization that will insure greatest conservation of the assets of the institution. This will be good news to everyone in the community.

The Class of 1934

With the closing of this school year, the following will complete the high school course: Wilma Panska, Rose Zoz, Helen Zoz, Bernice Oehlerking, Della McCrorey, Robert McDonald, Robert O'Brien, Robert Bornemeier, Willard Stock, Marfan Stock, Merle Richmann and Dean Gakemeler.

Victor Seymour is Convicted of Perjury Charge

Jurors Find Him Guilty on Five Counts—To Ask a New Trial or Appeal.

The jury that took Victor Seymour's case Wednesday morning returned a verdict at 1:50 Thursday afternoon at Lincoln finding him guilty on five counts of perjury.

The maximum penalty on each count is a fine of $2,000 and imprisonment for five years.

Mr. Seymour declined to comment on the verdict. His attorney, T. S. Allen said he would file motion for a new trial, and if that were denied he would appeal the case.

To give Mr. Allen time to prepare his motions, Judge Munger said he wouldn't pronounce sentence until after his return from sitting with the circuit court of appeals in St. Paul, probably about June 1.

After considering the case eleven hours, jurors at 10:45 a. m. knocked on their door to request of the bailiff a conference with the court for purpose of clarification. The request came at a time when it was commonly believed that members were in a deadlock.

At 11:35 a. m., jurors were ushered into the court room in the presence of the judge, Seymour, Deputy U. S. Attorney Van Pelt and T. S. Allen, representing defendant. Henry Snell, jury foreman, said: "We have reached a verdict on one count. What we want to know is whether or not the penalty attaches to each count separately."

Judge Munger answered that in a criminal case the court fixes penalty and that he may impose one penalty on all counts, if a defendant be convicted on more than one, or on each separately, it being entirely within his jurisdiction.

SCHOOL PROPERTY TO STATE

Washington.—The house passed and sent back to the senate for action on an amendment a bill authorizing the secretary of interior to convey to the state of Nebraska the Genoa Indian school property providing Indian pupils be permitted to attend any institution for which the disbanded Indian school is converted.
