Fred L. Hild has been making some repairs on the cistern at the place where C. M. Read lives, as with the scarcity of water it is essential that there be no loss of water.

Alonzo Crosser and Harry Albin were both looking after some business in Omaha for the day last Monday, they driving over for goods for both institutions operated by these gentlemen.

Mrs. Jennie Frans was visiting for a number of days in Nebraska City where she was guest at the home of her son, Kemper Frans and family and her daughter, Mrs. Joe Long and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Seybolt were over to Lincoln Tuesday where they went to secure some oil for the use of the tractor which Mr. Seybolt uses on the road work and they enjoyed dinner with Mrs. Margaret Brendel and son, Richard.

Miss Bessie Copenhaver was a visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Copenhaver of Union and where she enjoyed a very nice visit. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snavely were also enjoying the day with Mr. and Mrs. Copenhaver.

Lucean Carper and family were over to Nehawka last Sunday where they were guests at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Carper, Lucean's mother, and where they met also Paul Pappé and family of Lincoln, as well as R. H. Ingwersen and family of Nehawka.

Wm. Sporer has been suffering from repeated attacks of rheumatism and for the past few days the twinges have been coming with greater frequency and has made it difficult for Mr. Sporer to get about, but he don't give up easy, and is still getting about even with some difficulty.

Will Hold Program.

The ladies of the Christian church of Murray have arranged for an all day meeting at the church building on June 3rd where they will all bring their eats and their dishes, and will at the church hold one session of the services before the noon hour besides the Bible school and the other sessions during the afternoon. One of the features of the all day meeting will be a program by the kiddies. Better come. The church is reporting the addition of two new members who formerly made their home at Elmwood.

Discuss Dance Platform.

The building of a dance platform in Murray is being discussed by the citizens and various angles to the question is being raised by a number of the people, some of whom are for the proposition and others not in favor.

Will Celebrate Virginia Picnic.

Arrangements have been perfected for the holding of a Virginia Picnic and at which all people from Virginia are expected to be in attendance. The gathering is to be held at the former Morton Park, now the property of the state of Nebraska and where they will meet on May 27th, and among other things they will celebrate the passing of the birthday anniversary of Stephen W. Copenhaver.

haver. Now all who ever lived in Virginia, and have a remembrance of the "Old Dominion" had better be there and enjoy the occasion.

Mr. Copenhaver who was sure born in Virginia, has resided in Nebraska for over 40 years and does not know which state he likes the best.

Finds Old Time Relic.

John Christensen while in the field found a relic of more than half century ago, a Trade Dollar, coined in 1875, and which was made by the United States for trade with China and other oriental countries then on the silver basis. The dollar was coined with 420 grains of silver instead of the standard of 412.5. The coin had evidently lain in the ground for many years, but was in a good state of preservation, as those dollars were polished after being coined and do not tarnish easily.

Planting Much Corn.

The Frederick Seed company is planting and having planted a large number of acres of corn of the different brands which they grow and sell, white, yellow and sweet corn. They are growing some three hundred acres of Iowa silver mine for Funk Brothers Seed corn company of Bloomington, Ill., also they are growing 300 acres of sweet corn for seed, and some 2,700 acres of other varieties for seed which brings more than five cents per bushel above the market price, this making it possible for the farmers in this vicinity to realize better prices for their farming operations.

The Frederick Seed company have just completed the filling of an order for two thousand bushels of prime seed corn.

Are Expecting to Dance.

There has been arranged a dance for the coming Saturday night and which will be held at the country home of Dan Hoschar and wife, should the platform which is now being built be completed, and if not the dance will be in Murray at the vacant store room east of the Lancaster store.

After the one o'clock luncheon the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Boedeker. The salute to the flag was given. One song, "My Nebraska," was sung. Each member answered to roll call by giving her favorite hobby. After the business meeting Mrs. A. D. Bakke took charge of the lesson, which was very interesting. Papers were given on different subjects, Margaret Todd on flowers, Mrs. C. D. Spangler on quilts, Mrs. A. A. Young on Window of Books; Mrs. John Young on rock garden, who has a very nice one herself, which the members enjoyed looking at.

As this week was to be National Poetry week there were a number of poems read by different members. The meeting took up a couple of hours, but was greatly enjoyed by all the members. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. G. H. Gilmore, June 21st.—Club Reporter.

Chicago Re-building Burned Stockyards

Hint of Incendiarism Refuted After Investigation—1,000 Workers on Job Day and Night

Chicago, May 20.—An army of workmen today began speedy reconstruction at the scene of Chicago's big fire.

Meanwhile, City Fire Attorney T. J. Sheehan and others were carrying on investigations in efforts to determine the cause of the 10 million dollar blaze that swept through the Union stockyards and environs late yesterday and last night, consuming more than a dozen major buildings and scores of small business houses and homes.

Sheehan said he was convinced from his preliminary investigation that the fire was accidental and not set.

1,000 Workers on Job

No bodies were found in the debris. Earlier reports had been that two persons were believed lost, and that other bodies might be discovered in the ruins.

More than one thousand men went to work cleaning up wreckage, and rebuilding in the stockyards today. They worked by artificial light tonight to rush construction so that business at the world's largest meat center could carry on almost as normal tomorrow.

Police Prevent Looting

The blaze started apparently in a cattle pen at Morgan street and Exchange avenue, inside the yards, late Saturday. It spread quickly throughout tinder-dry pens and barns in the yards, and until midnight the skies flared red.

Large police details patrolled the desolated area to prevent looting. Governor Henry Horner said relief funds would be made available for the 1,200 or more homeless.

Build Emergency Pens

Men were busy today clearing away wreckage and emergency pens were built hurriedly to care for cattle shipments already en route.

Railroads and officials at the Union live stock yards were quick to give assurance that cattle, hogs and sheep already shipped would be cared for adequately. It was expected that within 24 hours most of the razed pens would be rebuilt.

About 60 per cent of the pens escaped the fire, which zig-zagged thru the yards, O. T. Henkle, general manager of the stockyards, said.

Greater part of the loss was represented by razing of the Live Stock Record building, Exchange building that houses offices of commission men and several packers, the Dexter pavilion, the Live Stock National bank and the Stock Yards inn, with its famous Saddle and Siroin club, all owned by the Union Stock Yards company.

Packingtown Saved

Packingtown itself, the vast aggregation of slaughtering houses, refrigerators, plants, storage houses, by-product processing plants and major office buildings of the big packers, was saved, although for a time it appeared that all would be burned.

The only packing plants damaged were those lying east of Halsted street—the P. Brennan Packing company plant, a huge warehouse of the Omaha Packing company, the Independent Packing company and the Levi Peltzer Packing company, all small plants compared to the large concerns.

Fourteen separate structures, housing stores, offices and hotels on the east side of Halsted street were either destroyed or damaged badly. The four-story Drovers National bank building was demolished. The Live Stock National bank—its interior a reproduction of Independence hall at Philadelphia—was damaged badly, but its officers said they were certain records were intact within the fireproof vault, and they expected to open for business tomorrow.

STATE TAX COMMISSIONER HERE

From Wednesday's Daily. Hon. W. H. Smith, state tax commissioner, was in the city today for a few hours, visiting at the office of county assessor, county clerk and register of deeds, looking over the matter of farm sales in this county. Mr. Smith was at Omaha and came down to visit with his friends here as well as to look after the matters for his office. While in the city Mr. Smith was a caller at the Journal office for a short visit with the publisher, R. A. Bates, an old friend. Mr. Smith was formerly in the newspaper business at Seward but has been in charge of the tax department of the state under Governor Bryan.

DIES WHILE ROWING BOAT

Elias Kildow, 71, 1706 Avenue F, Council Bluffs, died suddenly on Friday afternoon while rowing a boat across the Nemaha river in the vicinity of Rulo. Kildow had started across the river to meet his nephew, William J. Smith, who lives south of Rulo and was working in a quarry. The nephew, standing on the river bank, saw the boat drifting down stream and towards the mouth of the Nemaha where it empties into the Missouri. He called to Everett Smith, another nephew of Kildow and who throwing off his clothes sprang into the river and was able to bring the boat containing Mr. Kildow to the bank.

Mr. Kildow had been visiting his sister, Mrs. J. E. Smith near Rulo for the past two weeks.

Mr. Kildow was for many years a resident of Plattsmouth and is known to a large circle of friends in this community who will regret to learn of his death. While here he was engaged in work as a fireman and was engaged here with the Plattsmouth Gas & Electric Light Co., at their plant as well as assisting in firing at the Cass county court house for a number of years.

It is expected that the body will be brought to Plattsmouth for interment in the Oak Hill cemetery.

DIES AT MASONIC HOME

Mrs. Marion A. Robertson, 53, died Sunday at the Nebraska Masonic Home, she having been in poor health for some time. She was born January 5, 1851, at Fairport, Monroe county, New York, where she spent her younger years. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson made their home in Omaha for a great many years, where Mr. Robertson died in 1915 after years of service in the Omaha public schools. Mrs. Robertson was admitted to the home here from Vesta chapter No. 6, O. E. S., October 4, 1923. She was also a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Omaha. She is survived by two nieces, residing in the east, and one nephew in Florida.

The body was taken to Omaha, where funeral services here held at the Glendale mortuary and the body taken later to New York, where it will be buried near Portageville, where other members of the family are resting.

Cass County Farm Bureau Notes

Copy furnished from Office of County Agent Wainwright

Plant Atlas Sorgo and Soybeans for Forage Crops

Farmers who have second year sweet clover ground as contracted acres and would like to hay or pasture it can change their contracted acres by applying at the corn-hog office. This will mean one of the local committee looking over the ground and appraising it in comparison to the sweet clover ground, as to yield, and changes made on the individual's contract. This is the only change that has come from Washington at this time on helping the farmers with the hay and pasture problem as far as contracted acres are concerned. Some are taking their oat ground as contracted acres in place of second year sweet clover as they feel the oat crop will be a failure anyway.

Crops That Will Make Feed Next Winter

Under present circumstances probably the best assurance the farmer in this county can make for plenty of hay and forage is to use some of the Atlas sorgo is a cross between black Atlas sorgo is across between black amber cane and kafir corn. It can be drilled in with a lister at the rate of 15 pounds per acre, cultivated a couple of times and will make an abundance of fodder, it has nice green foliage, a sweet stalk and also makes excellent silage. It can be planted on oat ground or any other ground on the farm as it does not violate the corn-hog contract. It is more resistant to chinch bugs and hot weather than corn.

Soybeans seeded at from one bushel to one bushel and a peck per acre, on a well prepared seed bed between now and June 5th, will make an excellent hay crop, are absolutely chinch bug resistant and will stand.

A total of 569 boys and girls are if handled and cured right, will be practically equal to alfalfa in feed value. It probably would be well to inoculate the seed as the crop has not been grown much in this country. Inquire at the Farm Bureau Office for details concerning either crop.

Many 4-H Clubs Enrolled

A total of 569 boys and girls are enrolled in sixty-four 4-H clubs scattered throughout the county. Many of these boys and girls have been in club work from one to five and six years, while a good many are making their first entrance into the club band. June 1st is the deadline when all clubs must be organized. If you are interested in club work and have a group of at least five boys and girls who wish to organize get in touch with the agents.

Attend Nineteenth Annual Club Week

May 28 to June 2 will find Doris Hoback, Marjorie Zink, Dale Reed, Milford Smith and Malcolm Pollard, Cass county 4-H'ers attending Club Week in Lincoln with some 400 other club members and local leaders from the state.

Monday will be known as local leader's day. A special program has been arranged for local leaders who can arrange to spend only one day in Lincoln.

Mr. George E. Farrell, Chancellor Burnett, P. C. Taff, assistant director of extension in Iowa and others will appear on the program. The program starts at the Agricultural College at 10 a. m. and finishes with a program by the University 4-H Club in the evening. All local leaders who can attend the Monday meetings will find it very helpful.

Sees Danger Ahead from Codling Moth

E. H. Hoppert, state horticultural specialist, in offering suggestions to fruit growers, says: "The hot weather of the last three weeks has speeded up codling moth emergence. Moths are being caught in considerable numbers at Shubert, Nebraska City and Lincoln. Temperatures have been favorable for egg laying. It looks like the beginning of the worst codling moth season we have ever had in Nebraska and the middle west."

The first cover spray should be applied by May 26. Use lead arsenate for the codling moth. In old orchards and in young orchards where the infestation was heavy last year, use 2 pounds to 50 gallons. In orchards where there were very few worms last year, 1 1/2 to 50.

With the codling moth as serious as it threatens to be this year, supplementary control measures are advisable in orchards where there was a heavy infestation last year. The chief one of these to be used at this time of year is banding the trunks with chemically treated bands. First, however, the trunks and main branches must be scraped to remove all loose bark. The bands are tacked securely and snugly to the trunk, using large headed tacks. The two inch width is satisfactory for Nebraska. The bands should be in place by June 1, so as to catch the worms for the first brood after they come out of the apples. If your regular dealer in spray materials does not have the bands, perhaps he can supply you with the materials and you can make them yourself, or the Shubert Co-operative at Shubert can supply the bands. They come in rolls about 100 feet long. The cost is approximately 1.3 cents per foot.

Caution: The chemical used in the bands irritates the skin. Use cotton gloves when working with treated bands.

Hear Mr. Farrell

Mr. George E. Farrell, who will be in Lincoln for part of 4-H Club Week will have a real message for everyone who attends the Sunday night services at the Grace Methodist church, 27th and R St., Lincoln, May 27th at 7:30 p. m.
