Mrs. Helen Gruber, wife of Simon Gruber, had the good fortune to have her birthday come on last Sunday and the family, with a number of their friends journeyed over to enjoy the cool of the river along the wooded hills. While all were having a good time, they failed to notice the weather and before they were aware of it, a storm came up and the rain gave them a good ducking as well as made the roads muddy, so they slid into a ditch on the way home and had to be pulled out. Federal Money for Hog-Corn in State 29 Millions

More About Restrictions for Planting in Drouth Area Counties—Raise Corn for Forage

With 17 per cent of Nebraska's 1932-33 corn acreage rented to the government and about 84 per cent of its allotment of hogs under contract, the state corn hog board of review said gross benefit payments to Nebraska farmers will total about $29,129,000. This payment by the government does not include allowance for piggy sows sold to the government last fall. Seventy-five per cent of the eligible corn acreage has been signed up.

The board announced county quotas of hogs and hogs are nearing completion and will be in the hands of the county committees within a few days at the latest.

"Approximately 1,757,000 acres or 23 per cent of the signed corn acreage is rented to the government," the board said in a statement. "This is about 17 per cent of the 1932-33 average state corn acreage. Approximate benefit payments for hogs will be $16,480,000 and for corn $12,649,000, making a total of $29,129,000."

"It is estimated that 84 per cent, or 4,295,000 hogs out of the total state allotment of hogs produced for market are under contracts at the present time. Out of the total of 7,638,000 base acres signed in the corn program, approximately 1,757,000 acres are under contract."

The statement said about 90,000 contracts were signed covering 84,000 farmers out of the state's total of 126,000 farms of ten acres or more. About 75 per cent of the corn acreage in the state was signed up.

The board said unless complications develop to delay the work, the submission of county quotas to the local committees the fore part of this week, will complete the board's work in less than the allotted time of three weeks.

Planting Restrictions

One-third of Nebraska's counties have been placed in the second drouth relief area according to word just given out.

The thirty-one Nebraska counties now designated as secondary drouth counties are Hitchcock, Red Willow, Furnas, Harlan, Franklin, Webster, Nuckolls, Hayes, Frontier, Gosper, Phelps, Kearney, Adams, Clay, Fillmore, Lincoln, Dawson, Buffalo, Hall, Hamilton, York, Custer, Sherman, Howard, Merrick, Polk, Valley, Greely, Dixon, Sioux and Dawes.

Recent corn-hog administrative rulings modify the wheat and corn-hog adjustment contracts in counties designated as drouth counties to permit increased planting of forage crops for feed and pasture on contracted acres. Pasturing privileges are extended to July 1, 1934, with provisions of further extension on the proclamation from the secretary of agriculture. Corn planting for forage is permitted in Sioux and Dawes counties after June 1 and after June 25 in the other counties designated as drouth counties.

Corn planting for forage in the counties designated as secondary drouth counties are not to be harvested as grain and the AAA may designate the date before which such corn for forage is to be harvested.

These rulings permit planting of forage crops in counties designated as secondary drouth counties in excess of such permitted in the contracts, but does not permit planting on contracted acreage. Contracted acreage can be pastured in the counties designated as drouth counties, including sweet clover.

MEAT—

AND THE CONSUMER'S DOLLAR

Men who carry on in industry must eat meat for proper nourishment. You, the farmer and stockman, get a generous proportion of the money that they spend for food.

The more money you spend to purchase the products of their toil, the more meat can they eat—and the higher the price they can afford to pay.

You get more money for your stock when everyone sells on the PRIMARY market. When spent, it helps the city worker. It comes back to you in the form of still higher prices for your stock—and everyone can live better.

Birthrate in Canada Exceeds that of the U. S.

Investigation Shows That Canadian Women of Higher Age Groups Have Large Families.

The recent birth of a set of five girls to Mrs. Ovilla Dionne, 24-year-old French-Canadian woman who was already the mother of six children, bears out the results of a study reported almost concurrently by statisticians of one of the leading insurance companies, that Canadian women—especially those of the Province of Quebec—have more children than American women.

On the basis of 1930 records, the insurance statisticians found that the higher birthrate in Canada was due to a greater number of children born to Canadian women in the higher age groups. Although the 1930 birthrate was higher in Canada than in the United States—23.9 per thousand as against 18.9—yet women under 29 actually contributed a greater share towards the total birthrate in the United States than in Canada. Above that age, however, the ratio in favor of the Canadian mothers became more and more pronounced with increasing age. For example, in the age group into which Mrs. Dionne would fall, 20 to 24 years, 14,215 children were born to every 100,000 Canadian women, as against 12,516 per hundred thousand in the United States.

At ages 24 to 29—the height of the reproductive period—Canadian births per hundred thousand women exceeded those of the United States by 5,539; while in the age group 35-39, the births per hundred thousand women in Canada were almost double the number in this country.

The contrast between the United States and the Province of Quebec, considered separately was even more striking. According to the insurance company statisticians "in the age group 20 to 24 this province moved into first position, which it maintained from this point on throughout the reproductive period. In fact in the age group 30 to 34, the women of Quebec had, on the average, more than twice as many children as the women of the United States. The ratio goes on increasing with the age of the women, so that at ages 40 to 44, when reproduction is still a fairly important factor, Quebec mothers outstripped American mothers by well over three to one."

URGES RIVER DEVELOPMENT

Rulo, Neb.—Arthur J. Weaver, former governor of Nebraska and president of the Missouri River Navigation association, in a speech prepared for delivery at a Rotary club meeting here Tuesday night, outlined from the first the campaign of the last eight years for Missouri valley equality and opportunity thru speedy development of navigation.

He pointed out that before the operation of the Panama canal, industry thrived in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, with an almost unchallenged trade territory from Canada to the gulf, the extreme west and Pacific coast regions and a large territory east of the Mississippi river.

The effects of the canal, Weaver said, have been to drive 15,000 industries from the Mississippi valley states. He said practically all shoe factories have been driven out of the Missouri valley, and that only twelve canning factories remain where sixty-eight operated before. Weaver pointed out that midwestern agricultural states have lost sixteen congressmen and the waterway states have gained more than that number because of the effects of the Panama canal have been to drive industry to the great lakes, the gulf and seaboard regions.

Ak-Sar-Ben to Start Its Den Shows June 11

Plattsmouth and Cass County to Have Special Night at Annual Festival of Omaha Group.

Omaha.—The famous Ak-Sar-Ben Den Shows, at which thousands of visitors are entertained each summer, will start their 40th season at the Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum on Monday, June 11, continuing each Monday night through June and July, with the single exception of July 2. Residents of nearby communities and all other visitors to Omaha are invited to attend these shows as guests of Ak-Sar-Ben. Admission tickets may be obtained from Ak-Sar-Ben's ambassadors in the various communities. The ambassador for Plattsmouth is Elmer Webb.

The night assigned to this community is June 18th. This year's Ak-Sar-Ben Den Show is expected to surpass all previous offerings in beauty and splendor of production. Special effort has been placed on this year's show because of the 40th anniversary of the organization. The story is about the cattle country of western Nebraska.

The initiation this year will likewise receive more attention than in recent years, and prospective victims may expect the worst sort of "torment," none of which, however, have ever proved serious or fatal in the past.

Ak-Sar-Ben officials point out that visitors who happen to be in Omaha on any Monday night during the season are invited to attend the show, even though it is not the night assigned to their community. Tickets should be obtained in advance from the local ambassador, or visitors will be admitted upon presenting proper identification at the coliseum.

Once again, women will be permitted to attend the show, and now that real beer is back it will be served free as part of the buffet luncheon which follows every Den Show.

SUGGESTS WAR PREVENTIVE

Washington.—Establishment of a national policy of the United States toward warring countries is proposed in a bill prepared by Representative Knutson, Minnesota. Designed as a move to prevent war, the measure would prevent the export from the United States of munitions and supplies and would bar financial assistance to nations in conflict unless they subscribe to a code of warfare established by this government. In a statement Knutson said he would introduce the measure Monday, and added: "The measure would be of no effect in peacetime, but when two or more nations do go to war it would place us in a position to have the conditions under which we would furnish war materials or financial assistance, and thus enable the United States to be in a position to protect itself by a code of warfare satisfactory to our own government, when two or more nations are engaged in a ruthless struggle for supremacy."
