Omaha Fireman Breaks Neck in Sandpit Here

Dive Into Shallow Water Results in Fatal Injury to Leo Lenz, 26; Dies Later in Hospital.

The first tragedy of the summer season at the Merritt sand pits, favorite bathing beach of this section, occurred late Saturday afternoon when Leo Lenz, 26, Omaha fireman, dove into the shallow water and broke his neck.

The young man in company with a companion, John E. Nemetz, Jr., had motored down from Omaha to enjoy a dip into the waters of the pit and to escape the extreme heat of the day. They had not been at the pit long until Lenz decided to dive into the waters of the pit, thinking that the water at that particular place was some eight foot deep he leaped into the water which was very shallow and remained motionless in the waters of the pit, his head remaining under the water. Nemetz swam to the rescue of the young man and with several others at the beach, succeeded in getting him onto shore.

The condition of the young man was found to be serious and a message was sent to this city and the Horton ambulance hurried to the scene and took the young man on to the St. Joseph hospital at Omaha. His condition was recognized as dangerous and the last rites of his church were administered to him at once.

Mr. Lenz died at 6:40 Sunday morning at the hospital as the result of the broken neck.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Lenz and is survived by a brother, Charles, and a sister, Mrs. Mariam Nash.

Mr. Lenz was a member of the Omaha fire department and had been a member of the department for several years.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 8:30 at the home 119 Demerott street and at 9 a. m. at the St. Patrick's church at 15th and Caster streets.

She was well known in Nebraska City where she had often visited her sisters, the late Mrs. H. E. Hirsch and Mrs. John Scarp. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Pearl Hines, Nehawka; Miss Vera Burdick, Chicago; Mrs. John Bagley and Mrs. Anton Stalurski, Omaha. Two sisters, Mrs. Fred Nutzman and Mrs. N. Klaurens and a brother, Henry Gruber, reside at Nehawka.

RECEIVE JAIL SENTENCE

From Wednesday's Daily
This morning Elvin Shryock and Charles Price, local young men, were arraigned in the district court before Judge Daniel W. Livingston, charged with being involved in the theft of chickens from the Nebraska Masonic Home.

The young men made their plea of guilty to the charge and were ready to receive their sentences.

The mothers of the young men were present and made a plea for leniency for the two while Sheriff Homer Sylvester added his recommendation as the two had already served some time in jail and were excellent prisoners. County Attorney W. G. Kieck stated that the stealing of chickens had become quite common here and he did not favor a parole of the young men but would not object to a light sentence being given.

Judge Livingston gave the young men thirty days in the county jail for their offense and they were turned back to the custody of Sheriff Sylvester.

GRAB TRAFFIC VIOLATOR

The night police Sunday evening arrested Julius Gutchewsky, of Omaha, who is charged with violating the traffic rules of the city. The man driving his car failed to stop at the stop sign at Sixth and Main street, driving on through and turning north when he was captured by Officers Pickrell and Stewart. There were six in the car at the time. The owner and driver of the car was held here while funds were secured at Omaha and a cash bond of $15 placed in the hands of the police and he allowed go on to his home. The hearing in the case has been set for 8 o'clock this evening before Judge C. L. Graves.

Geologists Fail; Farmer Succeeds in Water Quest

Nehawka Man Locates Water Supply With Wire and Peach Rod—Solves Problem.

Water pumping from a sixty foot well at the rate of twelve gallons a minute Tuesday at Nehawka brought vindication to "water witching" and triumph to Henry Wellensiek, farmer.

Armed only with a battered section of heavy wire and a slender peach whip, Wellensiek located a new source for Nehawka's water supply when expert geologists had failed.

Last week end, Wellensiek took his divining apparatus and traversed the section where he believed a well should be sunk. When his wire instrument, bent into the shape of a "U," began to vibrate in his hands, he marked the spot on the earth and commanded city officials to sink their well. "You'll strike a vein of water somewhere between sixty and sixty-three feet," he said. Tuesday, well diggers reached the sixty foot level and struck water.

Location of a source of water after several unsuccessful attempts solves a water problem which was rapidly becoming acute. City officials plan to sink half a dozen wells and connect them with a new distributing system to be constructed with the aid of PWA funds.

In the east window of the Westcott's clothing store is one of the collection of old time pictures of Plattsmouth people, taken from the George B. Mann collection. This is a group picture of the employees of the Burlington store department which was taken in 1885 when a large force of men was engaged there. Of the large number there is only one still residing in the city, James K. Pollock, present assistant cashier of the Farmers State bank. The list of names as far as could be checked by Mr. Mann comprised the following:

J. H. Waterman, Charles Winchell, L. C. G. Brinkman, L. A. Dorrington, Sereno Dutton, T. C. Shepherd, Charles M. Wead, Walter Houseworth, Cliff Shepherd, John Kline, Henry Jackson, Samuel Hinkle, J. N. Glenn, S. C. (Tom) Wilde, Martin McGuire, William Slater, John Bajock, Sr., Peter C. Minor, William H. Mann, G. F. S. Burton, James K. Pollock, John J. Buttery, Jerry Ritter, George F. Houseworth, Dan Thouvenel, Charles E. Chassot, Thomas Wilkinson, Robert A. Ttate, John L. Minor, Charles M. Butler, H. T. Scribner, Capt. Edward Donovan, John H. Young.

Cass County Hog-Corn Association Expense

Officers of Association Estimate Two and Three-fourths Per Cent of Benefit Payments.

Expenses of the Cass County Corn-Hog association up until July 1st will amount to 2 3/4 per cent of the benefit payments which farmers of this county will receive on their contracts, John B. Kafenberg, treasurer of the association says. He based the figures on the benefit payments at 20c per bushel on corn and $5.00 per head on the hog allotment, compared with the budget turned in by the association for expenses up to July 1.

Books of the association are open to all men who sign contracts, and will show actual expenses of the association from the time activities started last January until June 30th. The facts of the case contradict rumors which may have been going around about the excessive expenses of the association.

Practically all of the money spent will go to local people, most of them members of the association, who have done the work. A little money has been spent for office equipment and supplies, and the remainder has gone for services and mileage of association committeemen and employees.

A new budget will be drawn by the directors of the association to cover the period from July 1 until the close of the year. This budget is not likely to be as high as the one for the organization period. In other words, the total expense of the corn-hog association will likely not be more than 5 per cent of the benefit payments. This means that farmers receiving benefit payments will pay in association expenses about five cents out of each dollar of total benefit payments.

The average corn-hog association of the state has drawn up contracts covering three hundred and fifty thousand dollars in benefit payments. Cass county has over a half million. Had a commercial corporation attempted to set up and manage an organization handling one-third to a half million dollars in a year, the corporation would have deducted about 25% for organization expenses, and then probably have employed a manager with a salary of from five to ten thousand dollars per year to handle the business of the organization. In the case of the corn-hog association, the members themselves have managed the organization of the association, and have not only been economical, but have spent practically all of the money within the county.

Sues for $50,000 Damages for Sand Pit Accident

Action Filed Here Saturday Night by Representatives of Leo Lenz, Who Has Since Died.

There was filed in the office of the clerk of the district court here Saturday evening an action in which Leo F. Lenz was the plaintiff and Harriet Merritt et al, defendants, asking damages in the sum of $50,000.

The case is an action for damages arising from the accident at the Merritt sand pits Saturday afternoon in which Leo Lenz suffered a broken neck and from which he died several hours after the filing of the suit in court here.

The petition states that the defendants maintain a swimming beach to which the plaintiff as well as others paid admission and that the company had represented the beach as safe and had erected and maintained a diving board from which the plaintiff had dived and received his fatal injuries.

The petition stated further that the plaintiff was twenty-six years of age and capable of earning from twenty-five dollars up per week, that the accident has permanently injured him, and for which reason the damage is asked.

Since the death of Mr. Lenz, it is probable that another action will be started by his estate against the defendants in the case.

In the game scheduled between the Orphans and Wintersteen Hill in which the Wintersteen Hill team failed to show up for play, the board awarded the game to the Orphans as forfeited.

Red Sox Win from Ramblers Here Sunday

Locals Take Game by Score of 6 to 4 in an Interesting Game at Athletic Park.

The local Red Sox baseball team, minus the services of several of their regulars, Sunday afternoon took the Rattlers of Omaha, winning the game by the score of 6 to 4, before an audience that had gathered despite the intense heat and blistering wind.

The locals started in to take a lien on the game in the opening inning when after Stone was retired McCarthy singled and when the hit of Krejci was juggled in right field he was able to tally and Krejci scored on the double of Pierce.

In the second inning Les Thimgan tripped to start the inning and scored on the single of Taylor who also scored on the double of McCarthy.

The locals closed their scoring in the third with two more runs, Krejci was the recipient of benefit from several errors that placed him on base, scoring on the blow of Thimgan who was able to advance while Taylor was being given a pass to first and the hit of Bradley scored the last run of the locals.

The visitors scored two of their runs in the fourth inning as the result of four safe hits that they secured off Bradley, but aside from this inning they were never dangerous.

FINDS CROPS INJURED

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lillie returned home Monday night from a trip through Richardson and Pawnee counties in the interest of Mr. Lillie's candidacy for the democratic nomination for land commissioner.

They report that the crops in that section west of Falls City look very bad, the drouth and the hot weather having baked the growing crops and presenting a most discouraging outlook for any crops even tho a rain should come in the next few days.

Pastures are as brown as in the late fall while field after field of corn is whitened by the dry and heat, the corn brittle to the touch. Fruit trees also have suffered from the heat in this great fruit section of Nebraska and late apples look bad.
