Before marriage a man yearns, and after marriage the "y" is silent.

Another thing that is hurting this country is that no one seems to know what it is all about.

No wonder the new dealers are a bit touchy about the Hoover articles. It seems the ex-President won't even admit they're the liberals they think they are.

The consens at or luncheon table yesterday was that the Morro Castle disaster was bad enough without the Ward line's clumsy efforts to make it look better.

Finland is the only nation which has paid her war debts in full and on time. Does anybody remember, by the way, which side Finland was on in the Great War?

"Government statistics have been improved somewhat," says a New York editor. That's so often one of the troubles with statistics. Nobody wants to let them tell the story in their own way.

Some one with a flair for statistics hops up with the comforting intelligence that crooners have a bigger chest expansion than football players. Maybe Ohio State could beat Michigan with a glee club.

Will Rogers has been visiting in Vienna, where, he says, the next world war is expected to begin. He also should drop in on the playing fields of Eton, and thus have the next year pretty well covered in advance.

Modern dancing is just enough walking to make an excuse for holding a girl in one's arms, declares the dancing master who teaches West Pointers their steps. Isn't that a good enough excuse for any kind of dancing?

The reason General Johnson's salary was so low the first year of the NRA was that he was so busy he wouldn't have had time to spend more. Now that his duties are being lightened, he has to have more money to support his leisure.

Hitler says Germany is 90 per cent pure. If it was just a little purer it would float.

Wall Street broker's joke: "Yeah, one of my boys is working in Wall Street, and the other one can't make a living, either."

Al Smith's crowd is trying to save democracy from the Democrats. Mr. Hoover is trying to rescue liberty from the liberals.

"A Chicago Gangster Dies Penniless." Thus far, all to the good. Now if there were some way of getting it away from the lawyer who got it away from the gangster.

It is perhaps a little early, but we haven't read any stories from Big Six debate coaches as to whether they have been successful in lining up promising freshman material.

Training activities for the latest welterweight championship fight failed to arouse much interest in one local man who is now getting himself in condition for the furnace-stoking season.

A college professor has perfected a device by means of which he can take samples of a person's breath and tell whether or not he has had enough liquor to make him drunk. If you think there is any doubt about it, better hold your breath.

Why do child psychiatrists make so many debatable statements? One of them was quoted the other day as saying that if the child wants a saxophone, the parent should buy it, because it is better than buying him a revolver.

A Washington Observer says more rescues might have been made from the Morro Castle if a 17-knot coast guard cutter hadn't been sent off up to Greenland to fetch Ruth Bryan Owen home, leaving the coast patrol to a cutter which made only nine knots an hour. May we hasten to the defense of Mrs. Owen by saying that even if she did borrow the coast guard's fastest cutter, she probably didn't know the Morro Castle was going to catch on fire?

Although those whom he called upon during his eastern trip have said little, it seems certain that Upton Sinclair is going to get his federal aid.

Some folks are of the opinion that Huey Long is entitled to a little credit for not cloaking his state program with the pretention that it will promote recovery.

Twenty unemployed men were engaged recently to watch Loch Ness and see if the monster were still there. They reported having seen it twenty-one times, which indicates they like the work and wish to continue.

It will be some time before such a problem confronts movie executives, but what they will do after they have used up the phrase, "at last we have found the perfect romantic team," by costarring every masculine actor with every actress of note.

Asbury Park, N. J., wants to buy the charred hull of the Morro Castle as a museum or resort attraction. It would seem that any community so desperately in need of attractions as to want the Morro Castle should not be charged real money for it.

Parents in a certain Arkansas town who recently named their twins William Dyess and Floyd Sharp, in honor of some FERA officials, were taken off the relief rolls after an investigation by case workers. And now the children's names have been shortened to plain Bill and Floyd.

Wasn't his name Antaeus, the mythical giant whose strength was multiplied every time he was thrown to the bosom of Mother Earth? Something similar to the process, apparently, by which Upton Sinclair's Democracy is tripled whenever he leans on the bosom of Jim Farley.

Harry L. Hopkins, Democrat, director of federal relief, is very much humiliated to learn that his brother in Tacoma, Wash., is running for coroner on the Republican ticket. Still, the brother may be elected and then one Republican will be removed from Mr. Hopkins's relief roll.

What dreams must a resigned director of the budget have after leaving his desk in the whirlwind of Washington. Up to the bed posts, along the foot of the bed, over the covers, smirking and grinning would march the army of dollar signs, decimals, commas and percentage marks. And at the door, the poor old budget, too large to get inside and pursued by a pack of gents in cutaways and silk hats, would stretch out his arms and scream for help.

Most Enjoyable Picnic
Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Marvin and daughter, Miss Helen, and son, Niel; Mr. and Mrs. Vern Shepler and son, Charlie Deb, of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. John Mars and Lois, of Cook; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wachtel, of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wachtel and sons of Falls City enjoyed a picnic near the Platte river at Springfield, a week ago Sunday.

Corn Cutting Under Way
Corn cutting for fodder and silage is progressing rapidly. A number of fields have been harvested and sold to more unfortunate communities. The Kaffer corn and Atlas Sargo that was planted failed pretty much. Travis Cameron has a 20 acre field of Atlas Sargo that is somewhat of a miracle. It is progressing nicely about 4 feet high and a good stand which will make a large amount of feed.

Visitors at Jardine Home
Renssler Hewitt and family, of Boelus came in Saturday evening to visit the Jardine family who are relatives. The Hewitt family were residents here a number of years ago. They returned home Monday, finishing a trip through Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska. Mr. Hewitt reports things are a lot worse in most places than around Greenwood.

Boys Win Trip to Chicago
In the crop judging contest at the State Agricultural college at Lincoln September 1st, James Jeffery won the second place and Louis Jeffery, seventh. Horatio Erskine placed fourth. Certainly a good showing, considering the large number competing. The boys will get a trip to Chicago, which is well worthwhile for their efforts, to say nothing of the added advantage of being such well qualified judges. The first two named are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jeffery.

McNurlin-Brandes
Miss Patsy McNurlin, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ery McNurlin, of Omaha, and George Brandes, also of Omaha, were married at Papillion on September 1st. They will make their home in Omaha, where Mr. Brandes is employed as one of the fire chiefs in the fire department at the Cudahy Packing plant.

Taking Gun to Plattsmouth
The well-known Greenwood cannon, that has made its appearance at numerous state conventions of the American Legion and has just arrived back home from the trip to Grand Island, is to appear in the opening King Korn Karnival parade at Plattsmouth Wednesday night. The Greenwood gun crew will accompany the firm piece and be in charge of it during the parade, which is sponsored by the Plattsmouth Legion post. It may be they will fire a few good old fashioned salutes, although that cannot be undertaken except in the outskirts of town on account of danger to windows in the downtown business section.

The appearance of the gun in the parade Wednesday night will help to bring back memories of the days when the young men of our fair land were being made targets of such guns as this.

Entertained Card Club
Mrs. Walter G. Holt entertained at their home in Greenwood last Wednesday the members of the Ladies General Kensington, which the ladies enjoyed very much. They are taking much interest in their work and had a most pleasant gathering.

Entertained Eastern Star
Mrs. George E. Bucknell entertained at their home in Greenwood last Thursday the members of the Order of Eastern Star. There were a large number of the ladies present and a very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed. In departing the ladies expressed their joy at the very pleasant gathering and of the fine entertainment and refreshments which the genial hostess had provided.

Has Three Barber Shops
The City of Greenwood now has three barber shops, the third being added last week when Fred Anderson, who has been residing in the country for some time, moved back to town and is conducting a shop at his home in the northeastern part of town. He has barbered in Greenwood for many years and knows the business well. The other two shops are those of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilkins and John S. Gribble.

Rev. Goings Some Better
The Rev. W. E. Goings, pastor of the Christian church, who has been very poorly for some time past, is now feeling some better. He has been assisting Carl Weideman with the peeping of the Christian parsonage, the old paper being badly discolored as a result of the fire there several weeks ago.

Moving to the West
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sweems and family, who have made their home here for some time past, but who has had but little work and not enough to make a living, departed last Wednesday morning for the west in a Ford car which was provided. Out of a fund for that purpose, a tire was purchased for the car and $49 provided for gas and oil, and they went on their way rejoicing. They have numerous friends where they are going, and it is hoped they will be provided with the means of making a livelihood there.

The Rev. W. E. Goings was over to Plattsmouth last Tuesday and secured the needed aid that the family might make their way to their new home. Robert Bourke arranged a gathering at which a shower was had in favor of Mr. Sweems and family.

Meet at Crystal Springs
The Coleman family held a reunion at Crystal Springs, which is located southeast of Ashland in Cass county, on last Sunday, at which there were about forty of the family in attendance. A very pleasant time was had and at the noon hour a picnic dinner was spread under the trees and all enjoyed a hearty dinner as well as enjoying visiting for the entire day.

Sang at the Fair
Mr. and Mrs. Rex Peters were over to Weeping Water on Wednesday of this week where Mrs. Peters was one of a group of people furnishing entertainment from the platform at the county fair, she singing several solo numbers. Miss Helen Marvin accompanied on the piano. Lee Knolle, who also sang a group of numbers, also had the same accompanist. The demonstrations which were given called for encore numbers, indicating that the singing of both these artists was highly enjoyed.

Home from the East
Ben Plymale and son, Frank, who have been spending some two weeks in Old Virginia, where they went to look after some business matters, and where they visited with friends, have now returned home. They made the trip in a car and not only visited there but also took in the World's fair as they came home that way. Then they went south through Illinois and crossed the Mississippi at Alton, where they stopped at a technical school for a short time.

Home Again and Happy
The four young men who have been spending a couple of weeks on a trip to the southland, going down through Kansas as far as Oklahoma City and visiting there for some time, while they looked over the cotton and tobacco growing industries as well as the mining of coal and ore and the operation of the oil wells and refineries, have returned home. They came up through the state of Missouri and across a small portion of Iowa into Nebraska, making a total of five different states they were in while they were away. In all they traveled 1370 miles and saw many interesting sights. The boys making the trip were Dwight Talcott, Walter Lovell, Donald Sheffer and Woodrow Fulmer.

Will Visit in the South
S. S. Petersen, the village blacksmith, who has been as busy as he could be all summer, but has now in a way got caught up with his work, will in a short time depart for New Hampton, Mo., where he will visit for a week or so with his old time friend, Andy Stephensen.

See the goods you buy. Catalog descriptions are flowery enough, but how about the goods when you get them?
