4-H Final Reports Due

4-H Club work for the summer is practically over and final reports are being received at the Farm Bureau office daily. Many of the clubs have held their achievement program and turned in their reports showing a one hundred per cent finish.

Club leaders should have their members make out their reports at once, so that the year's work may be completed.

Conditions Generally Good for Sowing Wheat

With the recent rains and the soil in excellent condition many farmers are anxious to sow wheat. Therefore they are inquiring about the Hessian fly situation. Due to the extreme dry and hot weather and the absence of volunteer wheat the Hessian fly menace is very slight. The urgent need for early fall pasture together with all the other favorable conditions at present makes it advisable for farmers to plant wheat as soon as possible.

Wheat planted now will practically be out of the way of what little fly there might be. Many questions regarding the amount of wheat farmers can plant according to their wheat and corn-hog contracts are also coming to the office.

The wheat contracts will require a ten percent reduction this fall rather than fifteen percent as was required last year. Those who have wheat contracts and wish to plant wheat on other land can be guided by the rule which states that they may plant the same number of acres as the average they had in the base years which were 1930, 1931 and 1932, or an amount equal to the number of acres which they had in 1933 whichever was the greater for harvest as grain. The amount that can be seeded for fall and spring pasture or hay is unlimited, according to the corn-hog contract.

School Day Lunches

There is a big opportunity in preparing school lunches to select wholesome, nourishing foods of sufficient variety so the children will welcome the lunch hour. An energy giving food as creamed soup, chowders, macaroni and cheese, baked beans, or hot chocolate with sandwiches, a fruit or vegetable and a sweet should be included.

A lunch box attractively packed with a luncheon of which a child will be proud to eat with their friends will bring results well worthwhile for the added efforts of the mother with the preparation of same.

Extension bulletin 990, School Lunches, contains suggestions for sandwich varieties and other possibilities for lunch boxes.

Bindweed Demonstration.

Several Nebraska farmers are getting the best of their bindweeds by following four definite steps which cost practically nothing in cash outlay. Arthur Peterson will tell farmers of this county who come out to the meetings, the first of which is scheduled for October 22nd, the place being announced later. It may be possible to give considerable assistance to farmers on bindweed control this fall. Farmers wishing assistance should list their name and the approximate amount of bindweed he has to be treated. From this list the agent will be able to select places to schedule demonstrations.

The first step in bindweed eradication is to begin summer following stubble land immediately after the small grain is taken off in June or July. A duck foot cultivator is used. The second step is to summer fallow again in the spring until June. The third step is to plant some heavy, another crop like cane when the growing conditions are good in June or early July. The fourth step is to put the land in a row crop like corn the following year and watch for the surviving weeds.

This procedure, Nebraska farmers have found, does not cost much except the work, and loses no crop if the growing conditions are good. It

Former Resident is Charged with Mailing Candy

Fred Grundman, 42, Arrested at Omaha Charged With Sending Candy to Wife.

Fred Grundman, 42, laborer, living at the Northwestern hotel, Sixteenth and Webster, Omaha, was arrested Thursday on a federal grand jury indictment charging him with an attempt to poison his wife by sending poison through the mails. Grundman was taken into custody by Postoffice Inspectors Batie and Coonen and Deputy United States Marshal Young and placed in the county jail in default of a five hundred-dollar bond.

The indictment alleges Grundman on August 10, 1933, mailed a box of high grade candy to his wife, Marian, 24, then separated from him and working as a waitress in a restaurant at Twenty-fourth and N streets.

Say Enough to Kill.
She received the package, recognized the handwriting and opened the box. She said that several of the pieces of candy had been cut open and appeared to have been pricked with a pin point. Suspicious, she turned the package over to postal inspectors who reported they found the candy to contain poison in sufficient quantities to kill.

Married Here.
Grundman and his wife were married here on October 24, 1922, by Judge Duxbury, making their home here for several months and in the spring of 1923 they separated, the wife going to Omaha where she was engaged in working in a restaurant. Grundman followed the wife to Omaha and at one time invaded her room and made necessary having him arrested for disturbing the peace.

Gets a Divorce.
In February, 1934, Mrs. Grundman obtained a divorce at Omaha, and she is now living in another state.

Grundman in jail at Omaha said he never saw the box of candy until officers questioned him about it when he was on the job laying mains for the Northern Natural Gas company. They had him write his name, said Grundman, and they said that it resembled the writing on the package.

He admitted he was jealous of his wife, who he described as pretty. "After she left me at Plattsmouth, where we were married, I followed her to Omaha because I wanted to give her one more chance."

Sentenced to Jail.
They quarreled, he said, and in a tussle with a man who appeared to arrest him, a gun was discharged. He said he didn't know the man was an officer. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail for disturbance of the peace and discharging firearms in the city limits.

It was while he was in jail that his wife filed suit for divorce. As he had only $2g, on advice of an attorney, he said, he paid this to settle the divorce costs.

the wheel will show you what a difference these advancements make in safety and driving ease. And when the ride is over, and you step out refreshed and ready for more, you will know why so many thousands have found it impossible to return to ordinary driving after an experience like this. That is the Ownership Test—easy, enjoyable, and the most practical way to choose a car.
