Miss Doris Cozman and her friend, Clarence French, were over to Pleasantdale last Sunday, where they visited at the home of Glen Snyder and family.

George Steele and wife and sons, Gilbert and Forte, were visiting for the day last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Soren Petersen, Mrs. Petersen being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steele.

Mrs. Roy Stewart has been trying her hand at painting and has the front of the store looking fine, but is leaving some of the higher peaks for Roy, who likes to climb as well as go down into the ground to dig a well.

Mrs. Minnie Petersen, who has been visiting at the old home in Kansas for the past few months, returned home last week and was accompanied by her daughter, Mary, who makes her home in Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. George Braun, of South Bend, where Mr. Braun is an operator for the Rock Island railroad, visited in Alvo Wednesday of last week, at the home of Mrs. William Yeager, mother of Mrs. Braun.

Mrs. Francis Cull Spaulding, of Armour, South Dakota, while on her way to California, to spend the winter, stopped here for a visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. R. M. Cozman, enjoying her visit here very much.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Skinner was a place of much interest last Sunday, as early that morning the stork made a visit to them, leaving a fine baby boy. All are doing nicely and happiness reigns supreme in the household.

E. L. Nelson, in speaking of conditions at this time, said business is very good this fall, compared with the past few years and that he is well pleased with the outlook for the future. He said more people are trading at home than heretofore, which is a good sign.

John Banning was having the property at the lumber yard improved by having the front of the lumber office and the sheds painted. Frank L. Edwards, who is always pleased to have some work to do, is busy with a great improvement to the place.

Simon Rehmeier was shipping a quantity of corn to Hallam, southwest of Lincoln, where the crops were not as good as here. The corn was hauled direct from the shellers on the farm where it was raised and goes to cattle feeders there to be used in conditioning their stock for market.

The Alvo chapter of the W. C. T. U. met last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. U. Deles Dernier, where they enjoyed the day and sure had a fine time. An excellent program was provided and refreshments served as a fitting climax to the social period that followed their business meeting.

George Kyles and wife and Charles Holmes were spending the day Sunday at the home of Hal Parsell, where they came to assist in the celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Betch Kolin, housekeeper for Mr. Parsell. A most pleasant time was had and best wishes expressed for many more happy birthdays.

Verne Stone, who has been making his home in the west for a number of years, arrived at home one day last week, coming to see his mother, Mrs. E. M. Stone, who has been very ill for some time and still remains in a very critical condition. All possible is being done for her. She is confined to her bed and under the care of a nurse. Her many friends are hopeful she may yet rally and recover.

Request is Granted

The Rev. R. J. McKenzie, who has been pastor of the Methodist church in Alvo for some time past and whose return here for the coming year was requested in a resolution passed at a special meeting of his parishioners, at the annual conference of the church held in Lincoln, was again assigned to the charge here, which will be pleasing news to all who know this excellent man, regardless of whether they belong to his church. His pastorate here has been very successful and productive of much good as he has labored faithfully in promoting the work of the Master.

Home from the West

Mrs. Elmer Rosenow, who has been spending a month on the Pacific coast, at Ferndale, Washington, where her parents reside, returned home last Sunday and was sure pleased to see old Alvo and the friendly faces that greeted her here. Not but that she enjoyed every minute of the time she spent at the home of the parents in the west, for she did, but she was glad to get back home. The parents, W. R. Burlingame and wife, are enjoying living in the west. There is not much evidence of depression there and everyone is busy and looking to the future with confidence.

Ben Plymale Loses Horse

Ben Plymale, who with his son, Frank Plymale, and Phillip Cozman, were in the east last week, reports the loss of a very fine horse since their return, its illness being due to poison from smut on the corn stalks it had been eating. Mr. Plymale has two other horses still sick.

Improve Elevator Property

Simon Rehmeier who owns the east elevator as well as the one he uses, is having the building put in good condition and has leased it to the Miller Cereal Mills, of Omaha, to be used for storage purposes. Charles Ayres and Robert Coster are the men who are doing the repair work.

Passes 79th Milestone

G. Rehmeier, who is passing his 79th milestone in the journey of life today (September 24th) is due to receive the congratulations and well wishes of a host of relatives and friends. Yesterday a large number of them gathered to tender this venerable old gentleman a surprise at the home of his son, Fred Rehmeier, near Weeping Water. Those present from Alvo and vicinity included Simon Rehmeier and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor, Mrs. Taylor being a daughter of Grandfather Rehmeier.

Attended Republican Rally

Carl Ganz, Frank Taylor, Ted McCartney, Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Bornemeier, Carl Christensen and wife and W. C. Timlin and three sons were in Louisville last Monday evening, where they attended the republican banquet and rally, listening to the political addresses and enjoying the fine meal that was served by the Ladies Aid society of the Louisville Methodist church, which they say was one of the best parts of the entire meeting.

Alvo School Notes

The newly organized dramatic club in the Alvo high school, which is being sponsored by Miss Mabel McGinnis, high school instructor, elected the following officers at their last meeting: Verna Vickers, president; Dale Ganz, vice president; Margaret Jean Stroemer, secretary-treasurer. The club will present three one-act plays during this semester.

Girls in the cooking class have finished their first project, which was canning. Each girl canned one quart of food. Carrots, tomatoes, peaches, pears and plums were represented in the canned goods.

Although the high school does not have a regularly organized kittenball team, those who play baseball participated in the high school kittenball tournament at Palmyra on Thursday and Friday of last week. The team was coached by Ernest F. Gorr, high school coach.

At the regular convocation for the high school on Tuesday morning, Mrs. C. D. Ganz spoke in an interesting manner on her trip to Alaska. Mr. and Mrs. Ganz spent most of August touring the northwest. All twelve grades were assembled for this special program. Singing was led by Miss Marjorie Ann, music supervisor.

The high school at a special convocation on Wednesday morning selected "The Oriole" as the title for the Alvo school paper, which will be mimeographed and issued monthly by a staff of high school people. The paper is sponsored by Supt. L. M. Hauptman.

Mr. Hauptman and Mr. Gorr attended the first meeting of the Cass County Schoolmen's association in Avoca on Monday evening.

JILTED LOVER SHOOTS

Grand Island.—John Tyre, who expressed his pique at being jilted by random shots from a shotgun, dug deep into his pocket Wednesday to pay a $10 fine for disturbing the peace. Tyre was hauled into court after he had disturbed the bridal party by blasts from his shotgun. He "said it with a shotgun," he admitted in court, to make good his statement that if the bride appeared in a dress he had once given her as a gift, he would "tear it to shreds."

Mystery Solved

Bruno Hauptmann, 35-year-old alien, who was arrested and booked on a charge of receiving the $50,000 ransom money tossed over a Bronx cemetery wall by Dr. John F. Condon, Col. Charles Lindbergh's emissary. Part of the money was found in his possession. With his arrest, officials believe they have solved the kidnaping and brutal murder of Charles Lindbergh, Jr.

Apartment Houses for Relief Families

Start of Housing Program at Grand Island—Lincoln May Get Farmstead Project.

The first apartment house for relief families to be built in Nebraska by a paternalistic government is to be built at Grand Island. Engineer Carnahan of the work relief division, FERA, announced that a one story frame structure to house eight families is to be constructed on a site in the edge of Grand Island, ground to be loaned by the city.

L. A. White, state director of rural rehabilitation, announced the purchase of eighty acres of land near Falls City for a farmstead project, being the third of this kind in the state. The others are at Fairbury and Kearney.

Rowland Hayes, federal relief administrator, announced in requesting $1,793,102 for Nebraska for October from federal relief funds, that he had asked $327,500 for rural rehabilitation. The bulk of this third of a million dollar request would be for the Omaha project, intended to transplant 100 Omaha families on relief to a large subsistence project somewhere near Omaha.

Haynes said if the Washington officials of the FERA grant his request for Omaha and follow it in the near future with funds for a similar large project near Lincoln and a medium sized one near South Sioux City, Nebraska then will have all types of subsistence homestead projects, and in various sections, the provide a good test of their feasibility.

Besides the large sum for rural rehabilitation, he asked $874,102 for general relief, $75,000 for drought relief, $371,300 for meat processing $43,102 for transients, $23,200 for emergency education, $9,380 for student aid and $59,620 for professional workers.

Engineer Carnahan said the shelter for relief workers at Grand Island is to be followed by starting a smaller unit, one for two families, at Norfolk, and another for twenty-four families in Columbus. Grand Island has obtained possession of a site by paying delinquent taxes. The county also shares in furnishing the site. The federal government is to buy lumber and construction will be done by relief labor.

VISITING IN THE CITY

From Saturday's Daily
Mrs. John A. Ouska of Chicago, arrived today to enjoy a visit here at the homes of her cousins, Mrs. William A Swatek and Mrs. Cyril Kahina, as well as with the relatives at Omaha.

Every penny spent for advertising will yield a big return.

MARRIED IN IOWA

The marriage of one of the well known young men of this city and an Omaha young lady, occurred Friday at Sidney, Iowa, when Miss Ernestine Gillian and Mr. Russell Payne were joined in the bonds of wedlock.

The wedding was very simple, the bridal couple motoring to the Iowa city in company with Mrs. Frank Payne, mother of the groom, and Mrs. James Stockham, an aunt of Mr. Payne.

Following the wedding the bridal party visited for several hours at Shenandoah, taking in the radio stations and visiting with friends, returning home last evening.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gillian, of Omaha, where she was born and reared to womanhood and where she has a very large circle of friends.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Payne and has grown to manhood here where he is very popular with a large circle of friends in the community. He is at this time engaged with the L. B. Egenberger grocery in this city. Mr. Payne is a young man of pleasing personality and character and the many friends here will join in wishing the newlyweds the greatest of happiness.

Distant pastures may look enticing to some, but not to those who keep abreast of the values advertised each week in the columns of the Journal.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—If Charlie Chaplin ever entered a Hollywood tournament, his tennis rating would soar. The comedian recently took on Gilbert Roland in a one set match, the score ending six to four in Roland's favor. Which is pretty good for Charlie, considering that Gilbert is No. 1 man at the Beverly Tennis club, where most of the film crowd belongs. A rematch already is planned between Charlie and his youthful conqueror.

Charles Chaplin

It's an amazing story, but Director E. H. Griffith says that government rangers vouch for it. Recently the M. G. M. troupe for "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" was doing final scenes on location at Lake Arrowhead. The company arose early on the last morning and climbed Strawberry Peak. The camera was set up on an angle to match shots taken at the same place the day before. But no sooner had the cameraman looked into the finder than he let out a shout.

A big pine standing square in the background the day before had completely disappeared.

Griffith finally sent a man to telephone the ranger station. He came back with this extraordinary tale.

Strawberry Peak is an itinerant mountain. During the night it had moved a number of feet west and punched further into the sky.

Rangers said this was nothing unusual; that the mountain, due to remote geological disturbances, frequently shifts to the east or west.

Whimsical Bill Fields is so upset over having to give up his fishing trip that he has ordered his chauffeur, Thomas, to go to Lake Tahoe for two weeks, and send him back half the fish.

George Raft's eyes are on the calendar. The star is determined to attend the world series in New York and Detroit, and any interfering picture work bodes an argument. With any kind of luck, however, "Limehouse Nights" should be finished in good time to allow the trip.

In the future, Henry Henigson will be brutally frank. The associate producer recently was cornered on an east-bound train by a movietruck girl who wanted him to get her into pictures. She was on her way to her small-town home in Kansas, but would turn right around and go to Hollywood if the producer thought she had a chance.

Seeking to let the girl down east, Henigson smiled and shook his head. "Make a name for yourself," he said. "Then you'll have a chance."

The girl thanked him and Henry promptly forgot all about her.

Until the other day. Out of a clear sky, the girl walked up to him in the Universal commissary with that "Here I am, when do I start" expression.

At first Henry didn't know her. But her enthusiasm survived that.

"Well, I took your advice and made a name for myself," she exclaimed. And shoved a clipping into his hand.

It was from a Kansas City newspaper—a couple of paragraphs recorded that Miss Billie Allert, 19 years of age, had roller skated continuously for three days on a four-foot platform, 30 feet above the ground.

Now Henigson is up a stump—feeling at least indirectly responsible for the girl coming to Hollywood and yet not quite seeing how the roller skating feat can qualify the kid to become a successful movie actress.

What picture, announced to be sponsored by a famous woman star, may now never be made? Disagreements have come up with the director.

Little Helen Hayes has the smoothest wit. The other evening she went to one of Hollywood's better-known fortune tellers. After a prolonged study of her palm, the seer advised the star to take a long rest, perhaps at a mountain resort.

Helen twinkled at him. "That's fine," she said. "Now can I see the folders you've got?"

Knick-Knacks—

Bette Davis' mother and younger sister arrive soon to pay a long visit. . . . Believe it or not, Joan Crawford's new sedan of popular make is painted antique white and has white satin upholstery. . . . Announcing a blessed event for Traffic, Lew Cody's pet dog which was inherited by Lew's devoted chauffeur-valet, James Glen. Traffic is the mother of three fox terriers—all males. . . . Irene Miller, the Hungarian star, will act in "Candiedelight" for the Pasadena community playhouse, and, after that, she and Ashton Stanley, hotel executive, plan a wedding here. . . . Sid Rogell and Addie McPhail are going places. . . . Henry's 50-50 club is featuring Peg and Ambrose, formerly of the Merfair and the Fall Mall clubs in London. . . . What's this? Ann Harding and Brain Aberne going together. . . . An autographed picture of Germany's ace, Baron von Richtofen brings $10 rent from the Fox studio. . . . And here's a dish to try, hot green apple pie with piping Welsh rarebit poured steaming over it. Recipe by Bill Fields, who doesn't say how long it takes you to get to sleep after eating it.

When Director Frank Borzage met Ann Dvorak at the Warner studio recently, he thought it was for the first time. Until Ann reminded him. A few years ago—when she was 14—Ann managed to get to Borzage at the Fox studios. She wanted to go into pictures. Frank's advice at the time was: "I think you'd better go back to school."

COLUMBO HAD ONLY $5,000

Los Angeles.—Altho Russ Columbo, singing troubador of the screen, had crossed the threshold of stardom when the accidental discharge of a friend's ancient duelling pistol ended his life Sept. 2, he left an estate valued at less than $5,000. Milton Hunt, Jr., disclosed this figure does not include the $49,000 insurance policy which is to be paid the singer's mother, Mrs. Julio Columbo. Hunt said he would file a petition soon to probate Columbo's estate.

Mrs. Columbo is still ignorant of her son's death. She is in a Santa Monica hospital, suffering from a heart ailment.

MRS. FALL SAVES YOUTH

El Paso, Tex.—Mrs. Albert B. Fall, wife of the former senator and secretary of the interior, saved Guadalupe Arellano, 19, from going to the penitentiary on a burglary charge.

Arellano was convicted of entering the Fall residence but sentence was suspended when Mrs. Fall offered him a job at the Fall ranch near Three Rivers, N. M. "Let me help him win an honorable place in life without the disgrace of a prison sentence haunting him," Mrs. Fall asked District Attorney Jackson.

EXPECTS TO RETURN SOON

Henry Timm, who has been at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minnesota, for the past several weeks, is so much improved that it is hoped he may soon be able to return to his home near Murray. Mr. Timm has undergone an operation for ulcers of the stomach and which has been very successful and it is hoped he may soon be restored to his former good health.
