HOMEMAKERS EXTENSION CLUE

The Homemakers extension club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ralph Anderson, a large number of the ladies being in attendance to enjoy the fine program and social features of the occasion. The meeting was opened by the singing of the song of the month, "Annie Laurie." The lesson of the day was on "Tailored Accessories," ably presented by the project leaders, Mrs. Edgar Newton and Mrs. Ray Bryant. The social portion of the evening was in charge of Mrs. Otto Keck, who conducted two interesting and much enjoyed Hallowe'en games.

As the meeting was drawing to a close dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Anderson, Justus Lillie, Jr., and Everett Noble.

Kennard Lad Wins with 4-H Pig Entry

Omaha.—The grand championship and the reserve grand championship was won in the 4-H club fat pig contest of the Ak-Sar-Ben livestock show Tuesday by a pair of belted Hampshires exhibited by Robert Wilkins, 17, of Kennard, Washington county, Nebraska.

One, a 250-pound barrow, won the heavyweight class for Hampshires and then triumphed over all breeds. The other hog, weight 205 pounds, won the medium class and the reserve championship. Wilkins will "finish" the reserve winner of the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago.

First in the lightweight division was the entry of Theodore Vogt, Seward, Neb. Arden Aegerter, 12 of Seward county, showed the grand champion fat lamb, a Southdown Laurence Buller, 20, of Utica, Neb., exhibited the champion Duroc, a medium weight. The heavyweight entry of Marie Ingalls, Polk county, was reserve champion. Clifford Munk of Seward county showed the champion lightweight Duroc.

The 4-H clubs' parade of baby beef before the judges is scheduled for Wednesday morning. Senator Crawford, the prize winning roaster owned by George Brandeis, of Omaha, showed at the night horse show.

Other winners in the 4-H pig contest were: Chester white division; Light weight entry of Frances Rehmeier, 16, Weeping Water, Neb. grand champion barrow; her heavyweight entry reserve champion; medium weight entry of William Wilkins, Washington county, Neb. first in its class.

Rotary Club Hears of Work of Boys' Camp

Superintendent W. L. Wallace and Two Young Men from Camp Furnish the Program.

The members of the Plattsmouth Rotary club heard a very fine discussion of the work of the boys' transient camp north of this city which is being converted into a home for the boys deprived of the comforts and privileges of a regular home.

The program was in charge of Dr. H. G. McClusky and who introduced W. L. Wallace, superintendent of the camp and James McGovern and Lee Fischer, two of the young men residing there.

The young men related many of the experiences they had found in their travels over the country, many real adventures being encountered in the trips through the nation. One of the boys resided in California while the other was from Chicago and now both have found a home here at the camp.

Mr. Wallace told of the plans that were being made for the care of the boys, their rehabilitation, giving them the opportunity to complete their educational work which in many cases they were unable to do in their home communities. The plans were for the treatment of the boy in a humane and understanding manner that they might be able to take their rightful place in the society of the nation.

The members of the club were delighted with the talks given and the understanding that they received of the future plans of the government for the camp and the care of the boys.

Vote on Local Option in Number of States

Question of Liquor or No Liquor in Several Communities—Questions at Issue Vary.

Chicago.—Several hundred communities over the nation will vote next week for the first time since prohibition days on "local option" in the matter of liquor or no liquor. For many of the localities it will be the first time in years the voters have had opportunity to say directly whether or not alcoholic beverages may be dispensed in their neighborhoods.

The questions at issue vary according to the sections in which the balloting takes place, a survey showed. In 103 Cook county, Ill., (Chicago) precincts the citizens will determine in local balloting Nov. 6 if they will be "dry" or "wet." At least forty-four villages, townships and precincts in eighteen of Ohio's eighty-eight counties will have local option questions to decide, most of them whether they will abolish 3.2 percent beer. One county only in Michigan will settle a liquor issue, and West Virginia votes on a repeal of the state prohibition amendment. Five Texas counties will vote on 3.2 beer.

Altho the liquor issue is settled in most Minnesota communities, it is estimated fifteen communities will ballot on local option, and North Dakota, still dry, will vote on straight-out repeal, as does Wyoming.

Utah, Kansas and Idaho, all dry except for 3.2 beer, have no local options, Missouri votes on whether it shall be legal to serve hard liquors in hotels and eating places. Currently it is legal to serve only wines and beers, but enforcement officers have generally been overlooking violations pending the outcome of the voting. One hundred and forty communities in Pennsylvania will vote on the legality of drink sales in hotels, restaurants and eating places.

O'CONNOR TO VISIT LINCOLN

Chicago.—Westward bound by air to cast his ballot next week in his home city of Los Angeles, after which he plans to address two groups of midwestern bankers, J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of currency, paused in Chicago. His mission, O'Connor said, is merely to vote and to "see if my law office is still there—I haven't been in it since May."

O'Connor denied reports he is acting as emissary of Postmaster General Farley sent to request Upton Sinclair to withdraw as democratic nominee for governor of California.

O'Connor said he will address a conference of bankers in Kansas City on Nov. 8 and a meeting of Nebraska bankers in Lincoln the next day.

NO TRACE OF TEXAS KILLERS

Dickens, Tex.—Scores of west Texas peace officers massed on the plains between Claremont and Snyder in the search for Virgil Stalcup, desperado under sentences totaling 254 years, and Clarence Brown, his killer companion, slayers of Sheriff W. B. Arthur in the county jail here. The hunt swung to that section after a previous report that the sheriff's automobile, used by the killers in their flight, had been found twenty miles south of Spur, proved erroneous. Twelve carloads of officers dashed to the spot. They hunted fruitlessly for hours and reported the machine was not in that section.
