Ten Per Cent Cut in Corn is Planned for '35

Larger Acreage Crop Optional and Modifications and Simpler Rules Proposed.

Secretary Henry Wallace of the agricultural department of the government announced Sunday at Washington new plans for the crop control program for the year 1935, covering the corn-hog control plan. Midwestern farmers will be asked to keep corn acreage and hog numbers only 10 per cent below their 1932-1933 average production. The reductions compare with a 20 to 30 per cent cut in corn and 25 per cent cut in hog numbers required under the 1934 contract. The maximum corn acreage that the new contract signers may plant is 90 per cent of their average during the 1932 and 1933 base period. They may, however, make a 30 per cent cut in acreage, growing a minimum of 70 per cent of the base period, and receive benefit payments for the additional 20 per cent reduction.

To Permit New Surplus.
 The 90 per cent maximum, assuming a return to normal weather conditions, will permit the production of about 250 million bushels of corn in excess of estimated requirements for live stock feeding.

This excess, if produced, will again be sealed under a continuation of the corn loan program in force this year and next, Wallace intimated. Only farmers who sign the acreage adjustment contract, however, will be eligible to receive loans on corn they store.

The maximum of 90 per cent on hogs will apply only to those produced for market from 1935 litters, with no limitation on purchases of feeder pigs from other contract signers. Pigs purchased from non-signers will be limited as before to the average number bought during the base period.

Continue Process Tax.
 Total adjustment payments to farmers, it was estimated, will be between 150 million dollars and 165 million dollars in 1935. Funds for the payments will be raised by continuing the processing taxes of $2.25 per hundredweight on hogs and 5 cents per bushel on corn through the year beginning November 5, 1935.

Adjustment payments for corn reductions will be made at the rate of 35 cents a bushel of yield estimated for the acres taken out of production. Payments for 1934 were made at the rate of 30 cents a bushel.

Different Hog Basis.
 The first payment of 15 cents a bushel will be made as soon as signers' contracts are approved. The remainder, less the producers' share of the local administrative expenses, will be paid on or about January 1, 1936.

Hog payments will be at the rate of $15 a head for the number reduced. This compares with $5 a head for each hog raised under the 25 per cent reduction this year.

Upon acceptance of the producer's hog contract he will receive $7.50 per head of the $15 due, getting the remainder about January 1, 1936.

Wallace declared that because of the smaller percentage of adjustment in hog numbers the total hog payments per farm would not be as high as during the past year, but he added that the producer's total income, including his return from the increased number of hogs, would be larger.

"Facing Real Test."
 Farmers who reduce corn acreage in 1935 will not be required to set aside a definite tract of land as "contracted acres," as was required this year, and may rent to the government any acreage with a corn history.

This change was made to simplify compliance and to permit greater flexibility in farm operations, the secretary said.

Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the corn-hog section, said farmers face "their first real test of voluntary crop control" in considering the 1935 contract.

"A year ago, a surplus was at hand, prices were low, and the need for production control was obvious," he said. "This year, prices are improved and the effect of a prospective surplus is not so apparent. Plans must now be based on the future outlook, not on the situation at the moment."

"Full success of the 1935 program will depend upon the voluntary cooperation of a clear majority of producers."

Four Reasons for Request.
 Black gave four reasons to justify the administration's request for 1935 reductions:

1. Acreage may increase in response to feed shortages and high prices resulting from last season's drought.
 2. Forced liquidation and government purchases of live stock have reduced corn needs for the coming year.
 3. Drought damage to pastures and new meadows will lead some farmers to plant them to corn next year.
 4. Relative cheapness of seed corn will encourage larger crop plantings.
- He added that existing demand conditions "do not yet warrant" a re-expansion of hog numbers.
- In the present control plan, acreage out of corn production had to remain idle, but under the new proposal it may be used for other crops. This move is expected to rebuild forage supplies, as winter wheat has already been sown and spring wheat is under a tight AAA control, and feed crops are likely to be the chief ones planted.

CHILD IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Richard Elliott returned Monday evening from Columbus Junction, where he was called the last of the week because of an accident to his little son, Larry. The little lad with several other children were playing and while the mother was momentarily out of the house Larry fell into a bucket of boiling water, inflicting very severe burns. The child has been under constant care since the accident and his condition is considered serious but it is hoped that he may be able to withstand the effects of the injury. It will be several days before the outcome of the case can be fully determined.

The attention of the deputy sheriff was attracted to the scene of action and as he attempted to secure the man, Balsader started his car and drove south. The deputy sheriff followed in his car and overhauled the Balsader car and placed the man under arrest.

Cow Creates Disturbance
 Amos McNamee, having led his ordinarily gentle cow to water, after completing the chore, attempted to return the bovine to her place. Just then a dog came along and the cow, not liking the looks of the animal, proceeded to charge with all the gusto some of her ancestors may have exhibited in the arenas of old. It was with great difficulty that Amos was able to get her quieted down and then not until after the rope had been wound around his legs and the infuriated cow had crowded him against a fence, pinching him quite badly. In due time the animal was returned to her place, but Amos says he does not care to be mixed up with any more of this kind of monkey (or should we say dog and cow) business.
