He made the trip in his car, and although he traveled at a very moderate rate of speed, the car skidded and left the pavement. The Old Age Pension
George E. Bucknell was called to Plattsmouth Thursday, where he was meeting with the Old Age Pension committee, of which he is a member, but as there is very little money in the fund as yet it looks like nothing were received, part of which were approved by the board and will come in for some distribution in the near future, as personal taxes are paid and the money for this becomes available. The limited levy if all of the tax were paid, will not yield any great sum of money, however.

TABBY'S WISE JUDGMENT

Old Tabby Cat has very soft little paws, She could walk very quietly without showing her claws; When danger came near and looked very rife, She could show them quickly and settle the strife.

Her paws were soft and covered with fur— If all was quiet how sweetly she could purr; Left to herself, she seemed very tame, But ruffled by her enemies, she made quite a name.

Old Tabby went hunting one day in the field, And there saw an owl that had talons for a shield; So Tabby made a pass at an owllet to snare, And found to her surprise that two owllets were there.

With claws unshielded, she struck left and right, And ran through the field until completely out of sight Of those glaring eyes and talons that tried to embrace Her bodily form, and then gave chase.

Old Tabby thought what a chance she took To outstare an owl with such a stern look; So she brought to a close one chapter of her life, Though my claws may be long I will start no more strife.

There are those who have tongues like talons that bear Tales of discord, pretending to be fair; Intolerant, yet ignorant, the price they must pay For Christianity is Love, and not churchianity today.

What judgments ignorance imposes and slays Those who are not in accord with our own pet ways; But wisdom is our judge, and dispenses Justice and Truth, Not a mortal fall of ignorance, and age, or one bubbling over with youth.

DEFICIT IN FRENCH BUDGET

Paris.—Leon Barety, reported for the finance committee, told the chamber of deputies that France's budget deficit in 1935 will be 559 million francs ($36,894,000). Barety said the treasury would be in difficulties early in 1935 unless "our economic situation is considerably improved." Paul Reynaud, former minister of finance, renewed the campaign for the devaluation of the franc. "France," he told the chamber, "must either deflate prices or devalue its money." Reynaud further declared that the American public in its recent elections had given President Roosevelt a virtual vote of confidence on his monetary devaluation policy.

"We instead," he declared, "are entering the Hoover phase" of trying to raise prices, and "that is how Hoover broke his back."
