MANLEY NEWS

William Casey and wife were visiting with friends in Lincoln one day last week.

John Murphy and sister, Margaret, were in Omaha last Tuesday, where they were visiting with friends and relatives for the day.

Madames A. B. Hill and Earl Salberg, of Omaha, were visiting in Manley last Monday, being guests for the day and evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Hawes.

C. E. Mockenhaupt, daughter Miss and son John were visiting and staying after some shopping at South Omaha on Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meyers, of near Manley, accompanied by their little weeks-old baby, were visiting at the home of the parents of Mrs. Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. William Scheefer of Manley.

Mr. Kirk and wife, who have been visiting their home at Murray, where they have been conducting a barber shop, came to Manley last Monday, going from here to Inavale, where they will make their home for a time.

Mrs. Emma Andrews, who has been away, was a visitor at the home in Manley for a short time and on last Thursday departed for Falls City, where she will visit for the remainder of the year at the home of her son, Harold Andrews and family.

Chris Meyerjurgan, of Omaha, was a business visitor in Manley last Wednesday morning and was looking after some business matters here, later going to the home of his brother, Henry Meyerjurgan, southwest of Murdock, for a short visit before returning home.

Anton Auerswald, while at his work, had the misfortune to get a particle of steel in one of his eyes, and after unsuccessful attempts to remove the same, he was taken to Omaha where a magnet was used to dislodge it. He suffered a great deal of pain until it was removed and the eyeball was very sore for some time afterwards.

Quits the Navy

John Murphey, who has been in the navy for some time and whose term of enlistment would have continued for two years yet, has been released on account of his health, which is very poor at this time. After his release, he came home and has been visiting for a few days at the home of his brother, Edward Murphy, of Lincoln.

Will Make Home in Omaha

Miss Mary Murphy departed for Omaha the fore part of last week, at which place she is visiting for a time with relatives. At the conclusion of her visit, she will make her home at Creighton Hall, which is a home for women alone in life and which is a nice quiet place to reside.

Sponsoring Stag Party

The Holy Name society of St. Patrick's Catholic church is sponsoring a stag party for the men folks, to be held at the Manley hall next Tuesday evening, December 18th. A delightful supper will be served and there is to be an evening of entertainment that will appeal especially to men. The ladies will not attend this meeting, as it is being arranged particularly for the men folks.

They Got Two Rabbits

Joseph Wolpert and Father Harte, who had borrowed the dog of W. J. Rau, went out to the farm home of Andrew V. Stander, where they expected to enjoy a very fine rabbit hunt last Monday afternoon. No sooner had they arrived, however, than the dog was attacked by the dog belonging to Mr. Stander, and fled for parts unknown. They sought to round up the scared canine and in fact put in more time trying to corral the dog than they did hunting rabbits. They did manage to get two, however, during the course of the afternoon, and that is more than can be said about the dog, for they were not able to get within shouting distance of the canine.

The following morning Mr. Rau went out and after some tall searching was able to locate the animal, which was still too scared to come at any other call than that of his master. He brought the dog back to town with him and happiness was restored to the Rau home, for the dog had been an especial pet of the family.

SAYS WILL NOT FIGHT BACK

Omaha.—W. D. McHugh, republican, Douglas county election commissioner for twelve years, who has served the last three years without formal appointment by the governor said Friday he does not intend to "fight back" in the reported move to have Governor-elect Cochran replace him with a democrat. McHugh's chief deputy, Al May, is a democrat.

"If there is going to be politics in this job, I don't want it," McHugh said. "I would be glad to discuss the office and the record made over many years with the governor-elect." Mr. Cochran, at Lincoln, said he had heard of no organized attempt to replace Mr. McHugh.

"See it before you buy it."

Need Care in Use of Lights in the Henhouse

Hens Stimulated in Winter May Lay Fewer Eggs Next Summer, Says E. B. Lewis.

Using lights to increase egg production must be carefully planned and co-ordinated with the best feeding and care of poultry, says E. B. Lewis of the college of agriculture. An increase of production in the winter months when eggs are usually high does not mean the good hens will be able to produce more eggs per year.

Lewis points out, however, that wiring and equipment to control the lights automatically costs but about $5 to install, and at present electric rates about 20 to 60 cents per month in operation costs per unit of 125 hens. If eggs are 25 cents per dozen

In November and December, the poultryman would need to get about one to two dozen extra eggs per month from each 100 hens, to pay for the lights.

There are three common methods of using lights to increase winter laying. One includes the use of lights both morning and evening, for an hour or two each period; in another method lights are used only from early morning to daylight; and by the third method, newer than either of the others, dim lights are used all night long or from 10 to 11 o'clock until daylight. In any of these methods there is the possibility of increasing egg production as much as 75 percent in November and December. In January and February, hens in lighted houses usually produce a few more eggs than those in unlighted houses. As warm weather and longer days approach, the hens that produced heavily in early winter usually fall behind those that started later and have laid fewer eggs.
