Farley Finds Profit in Postal Department

But Insists on a Continuation of the 3-Cent Letter Rate, Which Expires July 1st.

Washington.—Hopes that a trans-Pacific airmail service would be started this year was expressed by Postmaster General Farley in reporting formally to President Roosevelt that last year the department made a profit of $12,161,415.

The postmaster general said he hoped one or more American companies would inaugurate Pacific service and that plans for a trans-Atlantic air transport service would be advanced if not consummated.

It is imperative, the postmaster general said, that the three-cent postage rate, which expires July 1, be continued. A reduction to the old two-cent rate would reduce department revenues by 75 millions a year.

Farley said the surplus of $12,161,415, which he previously had announced, was obtained "without the dismissal of any employe because of decreasing receipts and also without impairment of the service to the public in any essential particular.

"On the contrary," he added, "the service in many respects was improved. "What has been accomplished is largely the result of efficient and loyal service on the part of both executives and employes in the department in Washington and in the field. When this administration took over the operation of the post office department on arch 4, 1933, there was an excess of about 15,000 employes in the service.

He died on last Monday morning at an early hour, the funeral being held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. W. B. Blas, his pastor, interment being at the beautiful Elmwood cemetery.
