Plebiscite Returns Stir Peace Hopes

Saar Nazis Celebrate Their Overwhelming Victory as Others Consider Plans.

Germany's smashing victory in the Saar plebiscite stirred new hopes for peace in Europe.

In the Saar Nazis celebrated their overwhelming victory. They polled 90 per cent of the total vote cast.

SAARBUECKEN — A jubilant, though good-humored, Nazi celebration caused hundreds of Socialists to take refuge in the Socialist center, imploring the League of Nation's protection, while most leaders of the status quo faction entering hiding.

Nazis took over police control, jailing 30 anti-Nazis.

Thanks Powers.
BERLIN — Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, felicitating the Saar, thanked other powers for "their loyal execution of the election," promised the reich "will make no more territorial demands upon France" and indicated the way lay open toward improved Franco-German relations.

GENEVA—League of Nations circles believed the plebiscite outcome strengthened Hitler, reinforced Germany's position among great powers and improved prospects for peace. The League council reared to turn the territory over to Germany without further delay.

PARIS—While France hoped the Saar victory would satisfy and pacify Hitler, some observers vouched the opinion that it might dangerously strengthen the Fuehrer. Border forces were increased in anticipation of disorders in connection with the Nazis' victory celebration.

Withhold Action.
LONDON—The British government, believing the situation in the Saar might continue dangerous for several weeks, indicated no move would be made to hasten demobilization of British forces there.

METZ, FRANCE—Banks reported thousands of Saarlanders banked savings in French banks before the territory reverts to Germany.

VIENNA—Austria heard the plebiscite outcome with misgivings, fearing enthusiastic Nazis would renew activities in Austria.

FAVOR A SINGLE LICENSE

Omaha.—Mayor Towl's liquor legislation committee reported that, in its opinion, Omaha people want a single license for beer and whisky; a limitation of the number of licenses, possibly one for each 1,000 inhabitants, which would permit about 215 in the city; and a license fee and occupation tax high enough to secure a reasonable revenue, but not so high that the price of liquor will be excessive and bootlegging will be fostered.

The committee also reported other points favored by the majority of citizens were: Sale both by the drink and in the original package; strict regulations to govern the sale and use of beer and hard liquor, with a provision that each licensee post an adequate bond to guarantee compliance; and that matters of statewide concern be taken care of by the state law, but that detailed regulations be left to the local governing bodies.

LEGION'S BILL INTRODUCED

Washington.—The American Legion's bonus bill was introduced in the house, splitting into at least two well-defined groups the congressmen who want to pay off the adjusted compensation certificates with cash.

Representative Vinson (d., Ky.) was chosen by the Legion to drop its bill into the hopper. The measure called for cash payment, cancellation of interest on loans already made, and extended from 1935 to 1945 the time in which applications for adjusted compensation certificates may be filed.

It made no provision for raising money necessary to pay the bonus. The treasury would have to borrow the funds thru the issuance of bonds. Estimating it would cost "considerably less than 2 billions," Vinson predicted that "Y bill will be enacted."
