Passing of Mrs. George Hurlbut

Mary Jane Rose was born in Sussex county, New Jersey, March 1, 1839, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rose Brown, at Northport, Nebr., January 2, age 95 years, 10 months and 2 days.

Her early childhood was spent in New Jersey, where she received her education and at the age of twelve years joined the United Brethren church, of which she remained a faithful member until the time of her death.

Coming to Cass county many years ago, she was united in marriage to George Hurlbut, who preceded her in death 28 years ago. Eleven children were born, seven of whom preceded the mother in death, they being Fred, Carrie, Bertha, Francis, Eddie, Albert and Eva.

There are left to mourn her passing three daughters, Mrs. Rose Brown and Mrs. Lulu Milligan, of Northport, Nebraska, and Mrs. Eleanor Jones, of Rezet, Wyoming, as well as one son, Frank Hurlbut, of Greenwood. There are also 17 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Hurlbut was a kind and loving wife and an affectionate mother, always solicitous of the welfare of her children and her passing is regretted by the large number of descendants and those who knew her during the long years of her active life.

The funeral was held last Sunday afternoon from the M. E. church in Greenwood, with Rev. Bruce Gideon, the pastor, officiating. Burial was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Laid Down on the Job

Much Adoo Over Small Fire

One night last week the chimney at the home of Frank Hurlbut was discovered to be afire, belching forth sparks in great volume. The fire alarm was sounded and many people turned out, but by the time they arrived on the scene, the chimney had concluded its imitation of Mount Vesuvius and the people had nothing to do but to go home and go to bed again. However, they showed they could respond to a fire call when needed and that is, after all, the really important matter.

Jobs are Found for 3,528 in State During December

Total Number Placed with Private Concerns is 900 Above That for December, 1933.

Francis Cornell, state director of the national re-employment service, of which the Cass county office is a part, reports that the Nebraska service made 3,528 placements during December. Cornell said 2,405 of these placements were in private industry, an increase of 999 over the same month last year.

Total placements for December, 1934, however, were much lower than in the same month in 1933, when 28,971 placements were made.

"This large decrease," he said, "is due to the fact that in December, 1933, we were at the peak of the CWA program." The director found considerable hope in the private employment increase and said "herein lies the answer to the permanent absorption of the unemployed."

Cornell said the service now had 47,197 names in its active file and that all these people were ready for work immediately. He said this number was not the total number of the unemployed in Nebraska as many who are without jobs are not even registered at the re-employment headquarters in the various counties.

Cornell said the placement rate had held up very well for December in comparison with the preceding month. "Despite a normal seasonal slump, our placements in December lacked only 313 of equalling November."

Cornell also announced that Nebraska ranked very high in national re-employment statistics, standing tenth in the nation in October when 7,871 placements were made.

San Quentin, Calif., Jan. 16.—The most widely known convict among the many in San Quentin prison, scene of Wednesday's desperate by four inmates, is Thomas J. Mooney.

Money, serving a life sentence for the San Francisco preparedness day bombing in 1916, had no connection with the break, however. Prison authorities said he was at his routine duty, peeling potatoes for the guards' mess, in the excitement.

President is Anxious for Social Laws

Seeks Quick Action in Order to Give Legislatures Opportunity to Vote Their Approval.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The way to a bigger old age pension than $30 a month was pointed out Friday by President Roosevelt.

It came while threats of a fight within the Democratic party for more liberal unemployment and old age insurance were rising from the ranks of congress.

President Roosevelt said at his press conference that while sound financing demanded that the federal government not give more than $15 a month for immediate pensions, there was no reason why the states should not give a larger amount.

Seek Speedy Action.

The president said he hoped social security legislation would be passed quickly so state legislatures could act on it at once.

Hearings on the measure will start early next week by both the house ways and means and the senate finance committee.

Meanwhile, republicans held their council. The position they will take will be decided at conferences. Senator McNary of Oregon, republican, said the senate republicans would meet early next week. Representative Snell of New York had not decided when he would call the house republicans together.

Joint Expenditure.

The old age pension plan proposed by the administration called for federal and state governments to bear jointly the expense of giving a maximum pension of $30 a month to persons already over 65 and for those younger than that to join their employes in contributing to a fund which eventually would be self-sustaining.

Expediting the preliminaries for spending 4,000 million dollars in putting 3,500,000 unemployed to work. Secretary Ickes, public works administrator meanwhile, called on state, municipal and other authorities for a national inventory by March 1 of feasible construction projects.

Both congress branches turned to pending business—the senate to debate the World Court issue and the house to District of Columbia money items.

100 Million to Finance.

The Wagner bill carried appropriations totaling nearly 100 million dollars to finance the program during the fiscal year starting next July 1. Authorizations for spending more than 200 million dollars each year thereafter also were included.

To finance unemployment insurance, every employer having four or more persons on his pay roll would be subject to the tax. The employer would receive up to 90 per cent credit on the tax for contributions made by him to state unemployment insurance funds.

Give Money to States.

The unemployment insurance funds would be invested and handled by the federal government. The federal government would give the states 49 million dollars a year to assist them in administering the law.

The compulsory old age plan would affect all employes making $250 a month or less. The benefit would be provided by a federal tax on pay rolls, of which could be deducted from wages or salaries, to start Jan. 1, 1937.

FOWLS UNDER CENSUS

Facts regarding the number of eggs produced in 1934, the number of chickens on hand, and the number of chickens raised in 1934 will be obtained in the new farm census which began January 2. The census will give the poultry farmer and the housewife a statistical picture of egg and chicken production in 1934 and of the number of chickens and turkeys on farms, January 1, in each county, state and in the United States as a whole.

How the drought and the consequent shortage of feed grains have affected the production of eggs, the number of chickens and turkeys, and the chickens raised in 1934 will be of interest not only to poultry farmers but also to the housewife. The results of this coming farm enumeration will give some indications of what will happen to egg and poultry production in 1935 and may affect the egg and poultry prices during the coming years.

Farmers are urged to write, phone or call at the headquarters of the census supervisor in their district and procure a sample copy of the farm schedule, study the questions and have their answers ready for the enumerator who will visit them during January.
