

PHOTOS OF SUN WIN APPROVAL

Lincoln, Feb. 5.—Taking pictures of an eclipse of the sun is no easy task, says Richard W. Hufnagle, University of Nebraska photographer, who made more than 4,200 exposures in the two hours of the eclipse Sunday morning.

Hufnagle made a moving picture by making an exposure every two seconds and still pictures every 15 minutes to show the progress of the eclipse in its various stages.

His work has been praised by astronomers despite the fact it was his first attempt at taking motion pictures of an eclipse.

A clockwork mechanism operated the camera and kept it centered on the sun so that when the pictures were flashed on the screen the sun would be stationary with the shadow of the moon passing across it. The camera used was mounted on a telescope so the field in view of both corresponded.

GET $15 IN LYONS STICKUP

Lyons, Neb.—Two men posing as customers held up the filling station operated by Bruce Gerch here Tuesday night and escaped with approximately $15 from the cash register, a rifle and two shotguns from a workshop.

The men were driving a light coupe with a 1934 Douglas county license, Gerch said. When Gerch was testing the oil in the car after filling the gasoline tank one of the men poked a revolver in his ribs and marched him into the office.

Mrs. Gerch was in the office. The robbers calmly scooped the money from the cash register and took the rifle and shotguns. The gunmen headed southward in their car after leaving the station, Gerch said.

The vote was exceptionally light, less than half of the registered voters going to the polls. If the issue had carried, the $17,000 would have been used in the purchase of materials, with the FERA providing about $30,000 for labor.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF REASON
(An Editorial)

"Get a situation or a disease out in the open and you can successfully combat it; but lay it on the shelf and it will be a source of continued concern for a long time to come!" That is the logic of a man of long experience as applied to the meningitis situation here in Plattsmouth.

"Keep the schools functioning for the advantages of inspection and control if nothing else," is the advice of this man who is paid to look after and help solve our health problems.

"Were I not absolutely sure (in the light of past experience) that this is the most effective method of dealing with the matter, I would not recommend it to this health board," were the parting words of Dr. Bartholomew as he took his departure for Lincoln after a two hour conference here yesterday afternoon.

That does not guarantee and Dr. Bartholomew would not say there will be no more cases. He does say the plan adopted is the most effective the state health department knows for stamping out contagious diseases.

Children in school under supervision and inspection, trained in avoiding direct contact are safer than those not supervised or cliniced when the occasion warrants and before disease has had opportunity to gain a foothold.
