SOW OATS EARLY THIS YEAR
 This year a good many farmers will have to fit their farming methods to the kinds of seed they are able to get. This spring when many farmers will have to plant oats shipped in from states to the north—where the days are longer during the growing season—it will pay to sow oats as early as it is possible and practical to prepare a satisfactory seed bed. This is the general advice given to farmers by T. R. Stanton, oats specialist in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The disadvantage of unadapted seed may be offset to some extent, says Mr. Stanton, by getting seed into the ground as early as good judgment allows. This will give the benefit of growth under the cooler weather of early spring. The greatest danger to oats from weather usually comes from hot weather as they approach maturity. They seldom are damaged by light frost or even severe freezes after the seed is sown. Oats of the later maturing varieties will need every favorable growing day this spring if they are to make a good yield next summer. Early sowing helps the plants to escape disease.

Season for Local Basketball Five Draws to Close

Restrictions Forced Cancelling of Many Games of Schedule—Enter Tourney Without Practice.

The Plattsmouth high school basketball team has suffered a hard luck experience this season with a large part of their schedule shot by restrictions on the use of the gym as well as the necessity for canceling the games. The team has been without their regular practice for the past month and face the necessity of entering the regional meet at Omaha without the training period that they usually have enjoyed. That will be the last year for a number of the squad and who have been very much disappointed in the fact that they have not had the opportunity of rounding out their season's work. The next feature of the sports program of the high school will be that of the spring track training and several promising candidates will be ready to respond to the call of Coach Fred Rothert when the season opens.

Federal Land Bank Finances Many Farm Loans

Report of Omaha Bank Shows Figures That Branch Did Much Business in Depression.

Omaha, Feb. 28.—(Special)—Out of every dollar loaned on Nebraska farmland during the peak year of agricultural refinancing, 80 cents was loaned by the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, it was revealed today from statistics compiled in Washington, D. C. Farm mortgage loans in Nebraska during the rush year of refinancing totaled more than $8 million dollars, of which 71 million, or 80 percent, was advanced by the Omaha Land Bank in the form of land bank and commissioner loans. Other mortgage loans in Nebraska during the peak period include $11,636,000 by individuals; $1,945,000 by insurance companies; $1,498,000 by mortgage companies, and the balance by bank trust companies, joint stock land banks and bank receivers and conservators. "These figures stand out as an indisputable answer to the question of who stuck by the farmer during the depression storm," commented Frank A. O'Connor, general agent of the Farm Credit Administration. "The Federal Land bank loaned four-fifths of the funds to distressed Nebraska farmers not only because it was practically the only source of refinancing credit, but because it offered the farmers the best deal in interest rates and method of repayment. "Traditionally, March 1 is moving day on the farm. But thousands of farmers are still able to call their homes their own because of the refinancing program of the Farm Credit Administration."

FAKE CLAIM RACKET FOUND

Kansas City.—Mounting costs of liability insurance in Kansas City led to formation of a chamber of commerce sponsored bureau to fight what business men here describe as a "fake claim racket" of alarming proportions. Within the last 90 days, Vincent Wakefield, chairman of the executive committee of the insurance committee of the chamber of commerce, told the committee, insurance companies have raised liability rates here from 100 to 400 percent. Ambulance chasing lawyers and unethical physicians who he said not only bolster but sometimes create fake claims were scored by Wakefield.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Thursday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ferrie returned to their home in the country after a shopping trip here, they were surprised to see near the house two pairs of robins, the loved forerunner of the spring-time. The birds apparently were preparing to take up their dwelling near the Ferrie home and prepare for the good old summer time.

'SPICY DETAILS' AVOIDED

Los Angeles.—Barton Sewell, millionaire sportsman, avoided relating some of the oft-told spicy details of an asserted informal exchange of wives with Walter Emerson, actor-writer, when his turn came to testify in Emerson's divorce suit. Sewell has been named co-respondent by Emerson, whose wife, Mrs. Jane Emerson, socialite, countered with a cross-complaint naming Mrs. Leah C. Sewell as co-respondent. The alleged exchange of mates occurred following a beach party last November. When Sewell came up to that point in his testimony he asked: "Do you want me to go into the details of—of—uh, what has been told so many times here?" He referred to Mrs. Emerson's previous testimony that he and she were in one bedroom during the night while Mrs. Sewell and Emerson were in another, adjoining. "If what has already been told is according to fact, you may so testify, and spare us the details," Judge Lindsey said. "I so testify," Sewell replied.

Wabash News

There was no school in Wabash on last Monday and Tuesday on account of the snow, but on Wednesday the ten scholars were all there.

L. R. Stanley was looking after some business matters in Lincoln on Wednesday of last week, but had to go north to the highway in order to get through as the roads in other directions were blocked with snow drifts.

Spoke Over KFOR

Wm. Rueter was over to Lincoln late last week and was met on the sidewalk by the broadcaster from KFOR and was asked what he thought was the proper thing, to give foreign words used in America the accent of the country from which they came or to give the American accent. Will, being a real American, said instantly, give them an American accent. He was awarded a pound of coffee for his answer.

Got the Mail There All Right

Miss Myrtle Wood, the veteran rural carrier who has braved many a storm, was up against a real problem last Monday and Tuesday, driving a portion of the way and walking the balance. She put in the entire time these two days in getting the work done, but was able to deliver the mail to her various patrons and that is a lot more than many rural carriers were able to do.

Otis Wilson Dies in Lincoln

Otis Wilson was born near Weeping Water some 67 years ago and for 55 years made his home in the vicinity of Wabash, farming for nearly 30 years and being employed as a section hand by the Missouri Pacific the remaining 27 years of that time. Some three years ago, he moved to Lincoln and resided there until his death occurred last week. The funeral was held in Wabash last Sunday, being conducted by his lifelong friend, Rev. W. A. Taylor of Union, with interment in the Wabash cemetery.

Mr. Wilson was here some two weeks ago, when he attended the funeral of the late Abbie Van Every, who was killed in an auto accident at Vermillion, South Dakota. He leaves the wife and two brothers, Howard of Lincoln and Frank of Wabash.
