Scout Circus is Attended by a Capacity Crowd

Events Move Along on Scheduled Time in Spite of Hampering of an Overflow Crowd.

Besides the entire troop of local Scouts and accompanying leaders, it is safe to say, Plattsmouth furnished seventy-five attendants at the Boy Scout circus in Nebraska City last night. Around 300 Scouts from eleven troops in the Arbor Lodge district participated in the circus, without benefit of group rehearsal. In spite of this handicap and the fact that an overflow crowd took up considerable of the space on the main floor arena, the acts went off with precision and at no time was there any delay.

Arrangements for the circus had taken a lot of previous work among the Scouts and their adult leaders, who had worked it out on paper at various conferences in the past few weeks, including blue print assignments of floor space to each troop.

Scout Executive B. B. Dawson, of the Cornhusker area, of which this district is a part, who was present and acted as official announcer, declared the show moved with all the precision of similar shows in Lincoln and other large cities with which he has been connected, and at which rehearsals are held before attempting to present the acts.

The circus opened with a prologue, following a band concert of 30 minutes duration, that depicted the origin of the Boy Scout movement in the United States. Scout Executive Dawson welcomed the audience and a moment later the massed flag bearers came through the entranceways leading the grand entry that included all Scouts and Scouters. Assembled in orderly manner, the group joined in pledge of allegiance to the flag.

The opening act was "Games" and the Plattsmouth troop portrayed the well known game, "Streets and Alley." Following this came the signal act, with Plattsmouth Scouts taking part in semaphore and bell and buzzer. The safety first act was carried out by troops from other towns, but Plattsmouth furnished a horse in the "Out of the Ark" number, which was under direction of Supt. Devoe. John Bestor played the role of "Noah" in this scene.

In knot tying, Plattsmouth furnished one rope making machine and two boys spinning ropes, as well as a considerable number tying tenderfoot knots.

The chariot race was most amusing and was carried out under great difficulty, due to lack of space. The local troop had a splendid chariot on which they had spent much time, designed for great speed on a good sized oval track, but outclassed in the short run and quick turn required. The event was won by Nehawka troop, with a flashy little chariot that could be turned around easily. It is probable the local troop will enter their chariot in the Lincoln circus early in May, where a large size arena is available and some real speed can be shown.

Next came the aviation act, under direction of Raymond Larson, Plattsmouth Scoutmaster. Some splendid stick and scale model planes were released, but here as with the chariot race, the size of the building was inadequate for a real test of skillful flying. The judges awarded four medals, two on stick models and two on scale models, which were well worth any boy's time and effort to capture.

The closing act was the heavy pioneering act that crowded the floor. Two signal towers, one triangle type and the other four-square type, were erected in opposite corners and there were such other exhibits as lean-tos, rustic entrances, fence, council fire, and council ring, reflector fire, and pup tents, the latter item being furnished by Plattsmouth Scouts. Four tents were included, requiring eight boys.

In the fitting climax, taps were sounded from one of the towers by Bugler Francis Libershal and echoed from the other tower.

To those who have never seen a Scout circus or had much idea of what it is like, the exhibition proved a revelation of some of the things Scouting teaches as the boys went through their various acts.

of education candidates who were selected include J. S. Gribble and N. O. Coleman.

All of those selected are good men and will do their best to administer the business affairs of the town and schools in a satisfactory manner to all concerned.

Advertising will stimulate business during so-called dull seasons of the year. The store that advertises regularly and persistently is seldom heard to complain about business conditions.

Commissioners Comply with the State Assistance

Adopt Resolution Accepting Provisions of Nebraska Assistance Act Covering 1-Cent Gas Tax.

The board of county commissioners at their session this week passed the resolution of compliance with the provisions of the Nebraska Assistance Act, H. R. 675, providing for the administration of the funds raised by the additional gasoline tax of one cent a gallon.

This fund is to be handled for relief among the counties of the state and under section 9 of the act there is created a state assistance board which is given power to adopt rules and regulations in administering the act and which shall be considered as law in handling the fund.

The act also provided that it shall not apply to any city, village or county that does not by resolution accept the terms of the law and its administration.

The board also approved the appointment of Wm. Bourke, assessor in Elmwood precinct and Grover C. Hoback, assessor, Nehawka precinct, which were confirmed by the board.

The assessors elected at the fall election had failed to file their bonds within the required time and which automatically vacated the office. The board also approved the appointment of F. J. Fitch as justice of the peace of Stove Creek precinct.
