Mail Service to This City is Improved

Changes Made in Handling Mail Gives Better Service to All Points Than Heretofore.

Changes made in the dispatching of mail at the local postoffice which was made effective Wednesday gives a greatly improved service, Postmaster J. W. Holmes states, enabling mail that is posted at the office by 4 p. m. reaching its destination in fast time.

One of the important changes is that of the connection with No. 2 at Pacific Junction, this enabling connections into Omaha for north and west and also for Kansas City, for the south and southwest mail. This connection will enable mail to reach Omaha in time to catch the mail planes for all sections of the country and insures air mail a prompt delivery.

Mail planes leave Omaha for the east at 9 p. m., reaching Chicago at 12:10 a. m. and New York City at 5:10 a. m. Mail for the west will leave on the plane at 8:43, reach Salt Lake City at 1:30 a. m. and San Francisco at 6 a. m.

Mr. Holmes has prepared a table of the hours of dispatching and receipt of mail at the local office and which will be of great interest to the residents here who have been protesting the change in mail service that cut off several trains but which is now adjusted to give a much better service.

ATTENDS MEETING

From Saturday's Daily Judge A. H. Duxbury was at Weeping Water today where he attended a conference of the county committee on public works and re-employment, called by Hon. W. B. Banning. There were present representatives from all sections of the county to take part in the meeting and many of the precinct projects that have been offered at various meetings were taken up.

What Does Platts-mouth Need Most?

Passage and the putting into operation of the gigantic work relief measure, will make available a grant of work relief money in every city, village and rural area in the country now beset with unemployment and relief problems.

The machinery for administration is being rapidly put into operation. At a meeting of the county-wide committee held in Weeping Water today, preliminary approval was given to a number of "first need" projects, including the repavement of Sixth street in Plattsmouth.

Reports from that meeting indicate money will be made available for both labor and material to construct approved undertakings of merit and for which there is need.

The Journal has heretofore pointed out, and reiterates, that city officials will not appropriate money or increase the city's bonded indebtedness to further work relief projects. However, with the government furnishing material and labor cost, there ARE a greater number of much-needed and worth-while projects that can be undertaken, than could possibly be allowed. The problem, then, is to settle on those most needed for the general benefit of the community, formulate a program and urge its approval.

Some of those mentioned include construction of an amphitheatre in the athletic park, extension of underground storm sewers along the avenues, provision of sewer outlet facilities to the Missouri river, preparation of adequate dumping ground with a suitable road leading thereto, construction of a swimming pool, etc.

All are worthy projects, and with Sixth street paving first on the list (being already tentatively approved) it will be up to the public to determine what other projects should be applied for. Doubtless there are many additional ideas. If so, they should be presented in concrete form to the committee that will make up the city's formal request for allotments. Cost must be predetermined to a degree of accuracy that will permit of their completion within the allocated sum.

To the end of shaping up such a program, it is urged that citizens submit their ideas in writing, either to the office of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, E. H. Wescott, or to Mayor Lushinsky.

Prompt action is essential, for the machinery of administration is being rapidly put into motion at Washington, and the work program will be upon us, almost before we realize it.

In Plattsmouth precinct, the big program is hard-surfacing of feeder or "farm-to-market" roads, which is indeed a most worthy enterprise.

Funds for the approved projects will be made up of government and state gasoline tax money, coupled with proceeds of the county relief levy, and provide work for a large number of Cass county unemployed, under the regulations as to hours and wages laid down by the government administrators.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends and neighbors for their tender kindness during the sickness and death of our loved husband and father. Their kindnesses will be always a very loving memory to us all.—Mrs. R. E. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Schwartz and Daughters.

Fifty Years of City Library a Civic Festival

Community Joins in Tribute to Miss Olive Jones, Librarian, Who Also Has Served Half Century.

The Plattsmouth public library which has in the last half century grown to be one of the most important civic centers in the community, the source of knowledge and entertainment to thousands, Thursday was the scene of a great community demonstration.

The members of Chapter F, P. E. O. had arranged the splendid tribute to the library and to Miss Olive Jones, who unselfishly in the years has served as the librarian and friend and counsellor of the patrons who came to the library in search of the best that the world of books might offer. The committee in charge was headed by Mrs. E. H. Wescott, the splendid attendance and the fine program attested the efforts of the members in arranging the event.

To those present at the anniversary of the library and its loved and honored librarian, who has been familiar with the original library, it was a far cry from the small shelf of books that fifty years ago constituted the Y. L. R. A., located in a small room over one of the business houses, to the fine building and several thousand volumes that today serve the Plattsmouth community with reading matter.

The auditorium of the library was the scene of the observance and this had been arranged most attractively for the occasion and the stage brightened by the many fine bouquets that had come as personal remembrances to Miss Jones.

The programs were presided over by Mrs. Wescott, committee chairman, the afternoon section of the observance being opened by a group of the old songs by Mrs. E. G. Shellenbarger, one of the well known vocalists of the city.

In the afternoon Mrs. L. S. Devoe gave two beautiful piano numbers, Mrs. Chester Wiles several of the well known songs and Miss Mildred Knodtke, talented violinist, a very artistic violin number.

Superintendent L. S. Deyoe of the city schools, spoke briefly on "Our Strong Arm" in which he recounted the splendid service the library has given to the city schools in the years past and relieved the schools of the necessity of maintaining a reference library for the use of the students. In the city library the pupils of the schools had found a source of aid to their education that was without price.

Mrs. L. O. Minor spoke of "What Someone Told Me," giving a review of the work of the library and its faithful and devoted librarian in all the years.

Mrs. Virgil Perry, in her short remarks urged the support of the present Y. L. R. A. which has been the means in all these years of supplying the library with many of their fiction works, which after they have been on the association shelves a year are placed in general circulation. The small membership fee has aided greatly in the upbuilding of the library.

Little Miss Elizabeth Perry, granddaughter of Mrs. T. H. Pollock, one of the group that first established the library was presented as "The Third Generation."

On behalf of the general committee, Mrs. Elbert Wiles, past president of the P. E. O. society presented the handsome bronze plaque that commemorates the 50th anniversary of the library and the services of Miss Jones and which will occupy a prominent place in the building, as well as chairs that have been secured in the community fund for the anniversary.

E. H. Wescott, president of the library board, on behalf of the board, made acceptance of the gifts and spoke eloquently of the service of the library to the community and paid honor to Miss Jones for her great part in the service to the public that had made the library so important to the community.

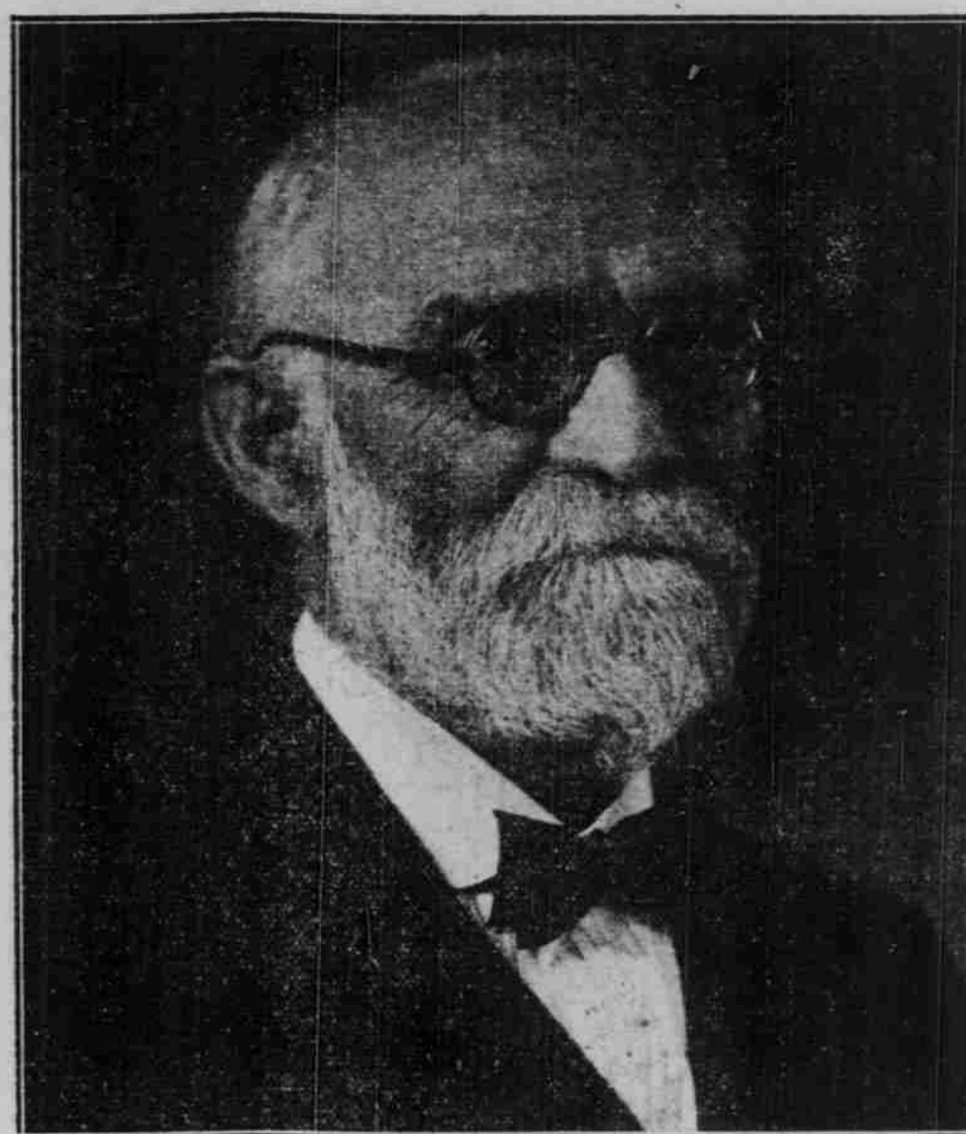

A number of guests were present to enjoy the occasion and who were introduced by Mrs. E. H. Wescott, among those being Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Eigenbroadt, Mrs. Fannie Dickson, Miss May Richey and Mrs. Sam Balance, of Lincoln and Miss Fay Eades of Omaha, all former residents here.

Miss Jones was called upon and gave a review of many interesting incidents that filled the busy years of her work in the library and the many friends that had been factors in the library support.

Evening Program

In the evening despite the weather conditions the auditorium was filled with the residents of the community

Publishing Book of Life

L. Nietzel

L. Nietzel, who has ever been an exponent of divine truth from early manhood to his present declining days, has prepared the story of his Christian life, under the title, "Pilgrim's Progress," made up of a series of prose, interspersed with songs expressing the thoughts he felt as he passed through the different stages of Christian advancement. The book is being published in the Journal office and will be ready for distribution in the very near future. Final proofs are now in the hands of the author, and press work will proceed at once.

For a number of years, Mr. Nietzel has prepared the weekly Sunday school lesson published in the Journal, as well as preaching and teaching in different churches over the county, and on numerous occasions has paid visits to the Masonic home in Plattsmouth to lead the Bible school hour held there each Sunday.

The time covered in the book runs from the date of his conversion to the present, and includes his ministry at points in this state, where he was sent many years ago, first having charge of the Wahoo Mission, where his labors were productive of much good. A picture of the author will appear in the frontispiece, with space for autographing. The books will be distributed among friends of the author.

and a large number of the children patrons of the library were present to join in the tribute to their friend, Miss Jones.

The Rotary quartet composed of Frank Clويد, R. W. Knorr, H. G. McClusky and George Jaeger, gave two old selections, "Grandfather's Clock" and "Good Bye My Lover, Good Bye," in memory of the days when the library was being established in the community.

Frank A. Clويد gave another of the old and loved songs, "Annie Laurie," in his always delightful manner.

Mr. George Jaeger was heard in one of his artistic violin selections to add to the charm and beauty of the program.

Don C. York, another of Platts-mouth's favorite vocalists gave as his portion of the program, "When You and I Were Young Maggie," fitting most artistically into the fiftieth anniversary.

The Catholic Parent-Teachers association paid tribute to the services of the library through Mrs. F. I. Rees, past president of the association, who detailed the aid that the reference works had given their students and the fine services of Miss Jones.

Mayor George Lushinsky, on behalf of the city of Plattsmouth, paid high tribute to the long and faithful service of Miss Jones as librarian and the expression of high regard and affection that she is held in by the residents of the community.

Miss Virgil Perry told of the work of the Y. L. R. A. and the opportunity that was afforded residents of the community to enroll in this still active organization for the promotion of the library work.

Mrs. L. O. Minor gave a delightful touch to the evening program with her review of the old days that brought intimate touches of the personality of the founders of the library association and reading of newspaper articles of an early day on the library and those who have made it possible.

the commencement of her fifty-first year as librarian.

The program was closed by the remarks of A. L. Tidd, long a member of the library board and who had been instrumental in securing the present building. Mr. Tidd took as his subject, "The Gazing Ball," reviewing the past history of the library and the promise of the future.

Members of Chapter F, P. E. O. served punch and wafers at the close of the very happy day of anniversary which will long be a pleasant memory to all who were in attendance.

FUNERAL OF E. D. McCARTY

The funeral of the late E. D. McCarty was held Thursday afternoon at the Horton funeral home where a large number of the friends of the family had gathered to pay their last tributes of respect to his memory.

Dr. H. G. McClusky, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, conducted the services and brought words of cheer and comfort to the members of the bereaved family circle on the loss that has come to them in the taking away of their loved one.

During the services Frank A. Clويد gave two vocal solos, "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" and "Face to Face." Mrs. J. R. Reeder being the accompanist for the numbers.

The body was borne to the last resting place by members of the American Legion, Mr. McCarty being a veteran of the World war. At the grave a firing squad from the 17th infantry at Fort Crook, gave the last salute and taps in memory of the departed veteran.

Came Here 44 Years Ago.

Last Sunday (April 7) it was 44 years since L. Nietzel came to Murdock to found a town. He saw it from the beginning of a farmed quarter section, grew to one of the best, cleanest, substantial villages in Cass county; with less lawlessness than in any other town; with more home owners, that take great pride in the upkeep of the same, than in most places, that believe in higher education, of which the consolidated high school, with its eight teachers is a fine testimonial. It supports a strong church, with a flourishing Sunday school of 140 average attendance. A high type of citizens compose its population. Not many men have the chance to see such development. He is very proud to belong to them.

Happy Home Makers.

The Happy Home Makers were truly a happy crowd on Friday afternoon when they gathered at the home of Mrs. Krey. The contest losers entertained the winners at a Spring tonic party.

The guests were met at the door by Dr. Quack (Mrs. Ward in costume) and his assisting nurse, Selma Lan. Their cases were diagnoses and they were treated with panacea. The afternoon was a hilarious one, spent at games, dealing with the spring tonic idea.

At the close of the fun the guests were served a lovely lunch by the losers, consisting of chicken salad, buns, cream puffs and coffee. The favors were small pill bottles filled with mints and tied with ribbon bows.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. C. A. Rosencrans was at Lincoln Thursday to visit her brother, Lester Wunderlich, at the Bryan Memorial hospital. Mr. Wunderlich, who is working in Lincoln, was taken very ill the first of the week with an acute attack of appendicitis and rushed to the hospital where an immediate operation was found necessary and Mrs. Rosencrans drove to that city for the operation. The sister found Mr. Wunderlich much improved yesterday on her visit and he is now rallying nicely and hopes in a short time to be out of all danger.
