DeMolay Party is Wrecked Near Fort Crook

Falls City Youths Returning to Omaha After Dance Have Car Wreck at Overpass Early Sunday.

Among the many auto accidents that were checked up for Saturday night and Sunday was one in which Don Thomas, 21, former Plattsmouth boy, Frank Peck, 21 and George Hecht, 18, all of Falls City, were victims.

The young men were in attendance at the state convention of the Order of DeMolay being held in Omaha, which was climaxed by the banquet and dance given for the visiting members of the order by the Omaha chapter. The young men had escorted three young ladies from this city to the dance and returned with them, it being on their trip back to Omaha that the accident occurred.

The young men had left Falls City early on Saturday and evidently growing sleepy the car had gotten from their control and overturned. The plight of the party was discovered by Virgil Hutton and party of friends who were returning from Omaha to this city and who rescued them from the wreckage. Thomas had been able to get out of the car but it was necessary to break the windshield in order to get Peck and Hecht out of the car. Mr. Hutton took two of the party on into Omaha for treatment while passing motorists assisted in getting the third of the trio to the hospital.

It was found on examination that Thomas had a long cut on the head and Hecht also had several cuts and bruises, but after first aid they were released and able to go home. Frank Peck was more severely injured and suffered an injury to his hip and is still at the St. Joseph hospital at Omaha for treatment.

Feed Agency Lists Supplies for Drought Areas

Aid to Be Extended to Areas Swept by the Drought and the Dust Storms.

Feed and forage supplies listed with the Federal Livestock Feed Agency, with offices at Kansas City and Amarillo, Texas, offer a valuable source of feed for livestock in the unrelieved drought and dust-storm area, according to H. J. Gramlich, special advisor on feed to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Mr. Gramlich, who has just returned from a survey of the drought area, pointed out that while most of the feeds available for immediate shipment into the drought area are unfamiliar to Great Plains livestock feeders, they have a relatively high feed value and their use will enable producers to hold livestock until rains may make pastures available.

"Throughout most of the drought area, comprising western Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, and the eastern part of New Mexico and Colorado, livestock normally are turned on grass April 15. As a result of the drought, combined with coverage of grass by dust, there is no green feed available," said Mr. Gramlich. "Supplies of roughage are practically exhausted, and dealers have about exhausted all their sources of supplies of usual feed."

"However, the Livestock Feed Agency has listed several thousands tons of oat and vetch mixed hay from Oregon and Washington; upwards of 50,000 tons of grain hay mixed with alfalfa, from California and Arizona; 5,000 cars of Lespedeza hay and Johnson grass hay from Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky and Mississippi; a quantity of soy bean hay from Illinois; and approximately 100,000 acres of pasture in Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma."

"In expanding the source of supply roughage for dealers and producers, through agency listings it should be emphasized that the feed listed, while not usually fed in the region affected by the drought, is generally quite satisfactory. Lespedeza is a legume, and its hay is comparable to alfalfa in feed value. Vetch is also a legume, being high in protein, and in combination with oat hay, which is high in carbohydrates, makes a roughage satisfactory for either work horses or cattle."

Johnson grass, Mr. Gramlich said, is similar to fine-stemmed cane hay and is equal in feed value to either fine cane hay or sudan grass. Soy hay, while not attractive looking, is very high in feed value, being rich in protein. "To those not familiar with soy bean hay," he said, "it appears to be stemmy and coarse. However, livestock will consume even the coarsest parts of the plant with relish."

California and Arizona mixed alfalfa and grain hay will cost producers approximately $20 per ton delivered; oat and vetch hay from the Willamette valley will cost approximately $18 per ton delivered; Lespedeza will cost about $9 per ton, f. o. b. Nashville, Tenn., to which must be added $6 to $8 freight charges; Johnson grass will cost $9 to $10 per ton in Alabama, and $12 in Mississippi, to which should be added $6 to $8 per ton for freight; Soy bean hay or sample grade sells for about $10 per ton in Illinois, and with freight added to the drought area, will cost from $18 to $20 per ton.

Another source of feed is corn fodder conserved last fall by the Missouri relief commission. The commission bought a large acreage of standing corn for harvest as fodder by relief labor. In the last few days more than 100 cars of this baled fodder has been shipped into western Kansas. It is estimated that approximately 50,000 tons are available.

Mr. Gramlich estimates that 90 percent of the cattle in the afflicted area are breeding stock and milk cows. "Farmers do not want to sell this livestock," he said. "They would like to hold it for at least another month if possible in the hope that there may be sufficient rain to bring pasture and enable them to keep these animals which are an integral part of their farm equipment. By establishing the branch office of the feed agency it is hoped to accelerate the movement of this feed to dealers, and thus to close the gap between the supply of these feeds not ordinarily used in the great plains region and the livestock producer."

Cass county farmers produce a full share of the foodstuff of the nation. It is to your interest and mine that your business of producing be placed on a profitable basis, for then we will all share in that prosperity.

McCARL BACKS GRAIN PLAN

Washington.—The agricultural adjustment administration announced Comptroller McCarl had approved the 1935 supplementary wheat contracts under which benefit payments will be made to farmers even though they plant their full base acreage. Because the drought disrupted production plans for wheat this year, the AAA determined to remove contract restrictions on plantings. Under this plan the farmers will make no reductions in 1935 but will receive payment for the reductions they had planned. These farmers will make the 1935 reductions in 1936, in addition to any acreage reductions planned for next year.

The modified program was expected to result in the planting of an additional 900,000 to 2,300,000 acres of wheat and an increased production of from 10,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels depending upon weather conditions.

WANTS BEQUEST SET ASIDE

Washington.—In a special message President Roosevelt suggested to congress that the $250,000 estate left to the government by the late Justice Holmes be set aside temporarily in a special fund until it has been decided how it is to be used.

He proposed a select committee of congress and a committee of the supreme court be named to decide "after ample deliberation" the wisest uses "to which this noble bequest should be put."

Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, Wednesday introduced a bill to create an "Oliver Wendell Holmes" fund with which to purchase portraits of former supreme court justices and set up fifteen $1,000 scholarships in law schools.
