

Doom of Ozark Hillbilly Near

Typical hillbilly home.

Mountain school.

Like a modern Frankenstein, the government is gradually sweeping the picturesque hillbilly from his mountain home in the Missouri Ozarks to extinction. His passing is the result of the federal government's plan to establish a series of natural parks comprising 8,000,000 acres in 23 Missouri counties. More than 64,000 hillbillies will be moved to other sections, nearer centers of civilization, where their unique habits and customs will inevitably change with their new environment.

Cows that Do Not Pay Their Way are Sold

Good Time to Sell, Says Lancaster Dairy Herd Tester—Some Show Loss of Nearly $1 a Head

Total cost of feed for cows in the Lancaster dairy herd improvement association, made up of dairymen residing in the vicinity of Lincoln, was $9.28 per cow during March, the tester reported, leaving a profit of $2.34 over feed cost. It took 34 cents worth of feed to produce a pound of fat.

Two herds on good (dry) feed averaged 35 pounds of fat and showed a profit of $4 per cow over feed cost. Two others, which are producing about 60 per cent of normal, averaged less than 20 pounds of fat, and a loss of almost $1 a head. A number of cows have been sold on the open market for from $4.70 to $6 a cow. It seems as though this is an opportune time to sell such cows as cannot pay for their feed even when feed prices are much lower.

The 610 cows on test averaged 609 pounds of milk, 27.2 pounds of fat. The value of this fat was $11.72.

The average per cow feed consumption was 40 lbs. silage, 334 lbs. alfalfa hay, 82 lbs. fodder, 89 lbs. corn and cob meal, 30 lbs. corn, 13 lbs. bran, 2 lbs. cottonseed meals and 37 lbs. commercially mixed feeds. Besides, the cows were on pasture on an average of seven days.

A Jersey owned by Con Heckling was high fat cow in March. Her production was 1,268 pounds milk, 65.4 pounds fat. A Guernsey owned by B. Buhrmann stood second with 1,479 pounds milk, 57.8 pounds fat. A Holstein owned by C. Peterson had the most milk and the highest Holstein fat production with 1,736 pounds milk, 57.2 pounds fat.

Walnut Springs Jersey Farm had one registered cow finish a year's record of 11,074 pounds milk, 545 pounds fat, and another registered cow finished a record of 7,824 pounds milk, 503 pounds fat. Otto Boecker had a Holstein cow make 15,432 pounds of milk and 534 pounds fat. A registered Jersey owned by Roy H. Steinhilber made 11,122 pounds of milk and 601 pounds fat.

FIND STICKS OF DYNAMITE

Chicago.—Eighty-seven sticks of dynamite, enough to have blown the building to pieces, were found in a closet in a lodge hall, scene of scores of parties, club meetings and one furious gun battle between police and racketeers. The explosive was wrapped in a newspaper dated Sept. 18, 1926, and had evidently lain undisturbed and unnoticed for nearly nine years. It was badly disintegrated, and doubly dangerous, capable of exploding at the slightest jar or friction.

The building where the dynamite was found is Occidental hall on the city's west side. Jack Michaels, janitor, uncovered it. Nine years ago the hall was the headquarters of the three and rubber workers' union. Three racketeers were shot down there by police Dec. 27, 1929.

PAROLE OF PELL REVOKED

Gering, Neb., May 16.—District Judge Irwin Thursday revoked the parole granted Alex Pell, 26, of Gering, in January, 1934, after he had pleaded guilty to running away from the scene of an accident in which John McDaniel of Clinton, Minn., was injured fatally. Pell was sentenced to one year in the state reformatory. McDaniel was struck while he was walking on the highway between Gering and Scottsbluff. Pell, arrested on May 10, was charged with driving a car while intoxicated. This Judge Irwin held was a violation of his parole stipulation. It was the second time within a month that Pell faced charges of violating his parole.

THREE RIOTERS KILLED

Leuca, Italy.—Three rioters were killed and twelve wounded at the town of Tricase, on this southernmost Italian Adriatic coast, in a clash Friday between police and protesting stockholders of a local agrarian co-operative society known as "Capo di Leuca." Police fired into the crowd of stockholders when they attempted to storm the city hall.

Cass county is one of the finest agricultural centers in the state. Improved farming conditions and better prices for farm products will react to the advantage of every town in this territory.

Advertising expense yields a far bigger dividend than any form of investment.

Chinch Bug Threat Wanes in the Corn Belt

Iowa is Still Facing Serious Invasion but Only Four Counties in Nebraska are Affected.

Des Moines, May 16.—Corn belt entomologists took stock of this year's threatened chinch bug invasion today and most of them found cause for cheer.

A survey of midwestern states disclosed the impending march of the insects gives rise to no serious cause for alarm in most states.

The bugs appear to be concentrated largely in Iowa, Illinois, and Missouri where, despite heavy rains, entomologists declared the threat is nothing to be passed off lightly.

Kansas entomologists said the outlook there did not appear to be alarming.

Nebraska Lucky

E. L. Chambers, Wisconsin entomologist, said farmers will have a little trouble along the Illinois and Iowa border.

In Nebraska Entomologist O. S. Bare found bugs in only four counties. He said the infestation probably will be less than at any time since 1929.

A different story was told in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri. Prof. George D. Jones, Missouri college entomologist, said the outlook in Missouri is as serious as last year.

Heavy rains in Illinois have been practically worthless in destroying the pests, W. P. Flint, entomologist for the Illinois natural history survey, reported.

Iowa Forms "Army"

Iowa officials Thursday marshaled a chinch bug fighting organization. A "Four-M" chinch bug control committee was formed. Letters were sent to county agents designating them as county leaders and requesting them to appoint county chinch bug committees.

State Entomologist Dr. C. J. Drake said Iowa hopes to receive a million dollars of the pending $2,500,000 chinch bug appropriation. About two-thirds of the state is infested, he said. The bugs are concentrated in the eastern counties.

Recent rains have only delayed the bugs' spring march to the fields, Dr. Drake asserted. A white fungus disease, natural enemy of the chinch bug, has developed slowly, he said, the weather being too cold.
