Stradley Factory Very Busy
The factory operated by the Stradley Bros. in Greenwood is a very busy place just now, with some seven men working, where heretofore they have only employed two at most and a good portion of the time none.

The factory report that during the past three months they have been having better business than at any time since the depression first came upon us. Just now they are busy with the making of alterations on a number of combines which are to be used by Ray Frederick for the hulling of sweet clover seed after it has lain in the swath for a time. They are expecting to make a number of their celebrated corn shellers, and will begin upon the same as soon as the rush of work which is so pressing at this time is over. Prospects of a good corn crop this year, lead them to believe there will be a demand for corn shellers and they will make an effort to supply the demand. They have perfected a superior type of sheller, one that is proving popular with experienced corn-sheller men for the efficient work it does.

CHECK UP ON GAS
The Department of Agriculture and Inspection under W. B. Banning as director, has made a line up with the state of Kansas which will give Nebraska a check-up on every gallon of liquid fuel coming from Kansas into the state of Nebraska and is putting this system into effect here in the office which will place this department in a position to know every penny that is due Nebraska from the sale of liquid fuels.

In the past it has been impossible to check on this fuel coming into Nebraska but under the present system and with the ports of entry, every gallon of gas and fuel of any kind can have a double check.

The reports are furnished from the Kansas Division of Inspection of gas and sent to Nebraska where they are double checked back with the ports of entry and transport shipments that come into the state. He is also arranging with Colorado and Wyoming to set up this same system. This will be good news to the oil dealers of Nebraska and is going to be the means of shutting out boogie gas and fuels that have been coming into this state without paying the tax.

Cass county has no bonded indebtedness, like the state, having paid as it went. That is a worthwhile record considering the predicament many counties are in, that have not followed such a wise course.
