GAINS BY POST TRAGEDY

New York.—Isador J. Muller mentally dipped his artist's brushes into a pot of gold he found at the end of a rainbow arched thru the clouds of poverty and Willey Post's death. Muller, regarded as one of the finest American contemporary portrait artists, is the painter and possessor of what is believed to be the last portrait of Post.

Those who sought out Muller after the tragedy in Alaska last week found him almost penniless and facing eviction if he did not pay the $200 overdue rent on his apartment by next Wednesday. Now Muller's rent is paid, he has $150 in cash and promised commissions totaling $2,750. "I cannot talk very much," he said jerkily, "I am so happy and so sad."

ASK AAA RESTRAINING ORDER

Omaha.—Action of the Lexington Mill & Elevator company, Lexington, Neb., Monday in asking an order restraining the government from collecting $13,913.35 in AAA processing taxes for the months of May and June, 1935, was followed Tuesday by the filing in federal court of a tax lien suit against the company for $38,831.07. The action was filed by George O'Malley, collector of internal revenue, who stated the money is due for processing taxes due in July to December, 1933, January to March, 1934, May and September, 1934, and May and June, 1935. Included in the amount asked by O'Malley is a penalty of $3,983.49.

DYNAMITE ON ROGERS LAND

Santa Monica, Calif.—Sufficient dynamite to "blow up the bay" was discovered on property belonging to the Will Rogers estate in Santa Monica canyon by a group of small boys, Capt. R. G. Norris, army air representative at the Douglas aircraft works here, reported. Detectives believe the explosives may have been stolen from road construction gangs working on the Roosevelt highway. The conjecture also was expressed that the dynamite may have been stolen from the noted humorist's ranch, where Rogers had conducted much road building at his own expense.

Rail Workers in Line for Pension by Congress Act

Bill Is Speeded Through the Two Houses and Sent to the White House.

Washington.—A new railroad pension bill was speeded thru both houses of congress within two hours, and sent to the white house. The measure moved thru the senate so quickly leaders had to hold up the vote until the house bill was messaged over, so it could be passed instead of a similar senate measure. On the final vote only three "noes" crept into a chorus of 76 "ayes." They came from Senator Hale (r., R. I.). Not a single objection was voiced in the house.

Introduced by Senator Wagner (d., N. Y.) and Representative Crosser (d., O.), the bill is designed to replace the law enacted last session and declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. Pensions under the new bill would be about the same as in the old, but the Wagner-Crosser measure does not attempt to levy taxes to finance the program. Taxes would be provided in a separate bill, on which the house ways and means committee is holding hearings. This companion measure would levy a tax of 4 percent on payrolls against the railroads and 2 percent on salaries of employees.

Chairman O'Connor of the rules committee said unless the tax bill were passed the retirement plan would cost the government 50 millions a year. It does not have to be passed at this session, however, because the pension law does not become effective until next March. A three-man board, appointed by the president, would administer it.

Pensions, based upon service and pay, would go as high as $120 a month, $35 higher than the maximum provided under the social security law. An amendment was added to the bill excluding rail employees from the general old age pensions.

Employees would be eligible for retirement at the age of 65, or after thirty years of service, tho in the latter case, if the worker was not 65, his retirement pay would be reduced one-fifteenth for each year under 65.

Service in excess of 30 years, or pay of more than $300 a month, would be counted in computing annuities. These would be fixed by multiplying the number of years up to 30 by 2 percent of the first $50 of monthly pay plus 1-1/2 percent of the next $100 plus 1 percent of the next $150.

An employe would not have to retire at 65 years, but for each year worked after that his retirement pay would be cut one-fifteenth.

DEAF AND DUMB IN PRAYER

London.—One of the strangest and most touching services ever held under the dome of St. Paul's cathedral saw 700 deaf and dumb persons from fourteen nations pray and sing without a sound being heard. They were athletes attending the fourth international games for the deaf and mute beginning Monday. The service was conducted in the international sign language. One after the other chaplains and missionaries, some of them also deaf, mounted the lofty pulpit and voicelessly acted out the prayers, hymns and songs with eloquent looks and gestures. Then the congregation joined in prayers and hymns.

P. H. Miller and Pete went to Plattsmouth last Sunday where Mr. Miller the elder visited for the day at the home of his son, James Miller and wife while Pete the younger, had some business matters to look after in Omaha and drove over to the big town and on his return picked up his father.

Opening New Quarry.

W. T. Richards of Wabash was a visitor in Weeping Water last Tuesday morning and was looking after some business matters. Mr. Richards stated that a new quarry is to be opened on his land a short distance west of Weeping Water and on which there are at this time about thirty men employed and which when the quarry is opened and in full force will employ more men. The quarry is to be operated by the Jasper Stone company and is not a new quarry but a new opening in order to get more stone, as there is demand for more for work being done on the river.

Looking for Business.

With the appointment of Sterling Amick, proprietor of the garage and service station which he operates, and according to the prevalent practice he will not be allowed to operate the business and be postmaster, therefore there are many applicants for the purchase of the place which has been doing a good business, or to lease the same. More than thirty applications have been made and Mr. Amick has reserved any decision until after he has received his commission as postmaster.

Were Married on Wednesday.

At the church building of the Mennonite Society was celebrated on Wednesday, August 21st the wedding of Miss Orpha Rector, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rector, of Weeping Water, and Rev. Clayton Severin, rector of the Mennonite church of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

The bride is also a minister of the gospel of the church and sometimes does revival work here, although the Rev. J. A. Percell is the pastor of the church at Weeping Water. The wedding was held at the church on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, after which a wedding dinner and reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in the southeastern portion of town.

The marriage lines were read by Rev. E. D. Young, presiding elder of the church in Nebraska. The newly wedded couple will after having enjoyed a tour make their home at Council Bluffs where the groom is pastor of the church there.

The host of friends of the bride extend congratulations and best wishes, with whom the Journal joins.

Fernbaugh and their little daughter, Miss Lella May Verne De Bauer, all of Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. John Bolz and Ralph Binger, who constituted the merry party gathered around the table for the Sunday dinner, which was enjoyed to the utmost. Binger, at which there were some thirty friends gathered to extend best wishes to the guest of honor. Miss Shaw received many useful gifts.

Mrs. Thomas Christian who suffered a fracture of her arm some three weeks ago when the car in which she was riding collided with another on the road between Weeping Water and Elmwood, is getting along nicely and she is able to use the member slightly and is encouraged nicely by reason thereof.

Beer Is Here Again.

To the convenience of those who desire it in Weeping Water and to the detriment of our neighboring city of Manley which was enjoying a very fine trade from the thirsty ones from Weeping Water while the ban lasted, beer is back. The blanks arrived, application was made and the licenses arrived which allowed the dealers here to sell again. It is to the credit of those who have been selling and who were deprived of the privilege during the time that the license blanks and approval of applications made, that they strictly adhered to the law and kept shut tight. Since they have received their licenses again they are enjoying a good business.

Confirmed as Postmaster.

The press carried the confirmation of Sterling Amick as the appointee for postmaster of Weeping Water on last Tuesday morning and congratulations were heard on every hand directed to Mr. Amick, accompanied by good wishes and from the spontaneous manner in which the greetings came it was evident that the appointment met with almost universal approbation.

Mr. Amick has not as yet received his certificate of appointment and has nothing to say as to the reports which the papers contained. He will await official appointment before having anything to say as to the office, or as to whom will be appointed assistant postmaster. However it is thought that the former postmaster will continue for some time yet.

ROGERS INHERITANCE TAX

Los Angeles.—Inheritance taxes will take approximately one-fourth of the estimated $2,500,000 estate left by Will Rogers, state inheritance tax officials estimated. If the estate reaches a 5 millions valuation, as some of the late actor's close friends believe it will, taxes will take $1,716,000 of the total. This amount would include $387,200 for the state, the remainder going to the federal government. Officials pointed out these figures were based on the belief the widow would get the entire estate, and on the present federal and state tax rates.

NEW RULE ON RIVER LABOR

Omaha.—An amended ruling on river labor was received Saturday by district river engineering offices here from Works Administrator Hopkins in Washington. The new ruling exempts certain classes of skilled river labor from the former federal regulation that 90 percent of the workers must come from the relief rolls.

MAIL FRAUD TRIAL SLATED

Chicago.—Federal Judge Sullivan set Nov. 18 as the date for the mail fraud trial of forty-two defendants in the "Sir Francis Drake estate case" as twenty-nine of those indicted entered pleas of not guilty. The remaining defendants answered the charges similarly several weeks ago. At the arraignment Oscar M. Hartzell, brought here from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he is serving a ten year sentence as a result of a previous conviction on similar charges, was emphatic in his plea of innocence and asserted he wouldn't "be in prison three months longer."

CORN-HOG NETS $2,000,000

First payments on 1935 corn-hog contracts in Nebraska totaled more than $2,000,000 Tuesday as two more counties reported the arrival and distribution of checks to co-operating farmers. E. A. Danielson, agricultural agent in Burt county, reported to state AAA headquarters the arrival of $141,000 for about 800 farmers. Agricultural Agent C. C. Gelwick of Platts county reported the arrival of $115,160 in checks for contract signers.

Cass county received a recent payment of $101,000.

Fall Seeding of Alfalfa May be Started at Once

Chance of Winter Killing Grows With Delay—Good Varieties Listed.

Despite the fact that April and May seeding of alfalfa is a little safer than other dates, fall seeding in eastern Nebraska can be advantageously practiced between Aug. 10 and Sept. 1. The college of agriculture told farmers who have been inquiring about seeding and cultural practices.

Chances of winter killing are greater if seeding is delayed, also under certain conditions seeding as late as Sept. 15 is successful, says Dr. F. D. Keim, chairman of the agronomy department. In central and western Nebraska, seeding during May and June seems most successful.

Seeding with a drill, set to sow about one-half inch deep, usually gives a better and more uniform stand than when sown broadcast. Twelve to fifteen pounds of good alfalfa per acre is sufficient.

"In buying seed it is always desirable to get seed that is plump, a bright olive green or yellow corn and of high germination and purity," Doctor Keim declared in answer to numerous farm questions. "Southern seed is very undesirable for Nebraska conditions, lacking hardiness. Utah and Kansas seed has not been quite so good as the Nebraska or northern grown seed when tested at the experiment station."

Ladak, introduced recently from northern India, is somewhat resistant to wilt and is a good yielding variety. It is regarded as one of the desirable varieties for conditions where wilt is severe, but the supply of seed is rather limited. If Ladak is not available, agronomists say the best seed to be had in commercial quantities for conditions where wilt is severe is common alfalfa.

Turkestan is generally more resistant to wilt than domestic alfalfa varieties but is more susceptible to certain other diseases. It is usually less productive. Hardistan, a strain of Turkestan alfalfa being increased by the Nebraska college of agriculture, is more disease resistant than any other variety. There are now approximately 300 acres of this variety under seed production and agronomists hope there will be some seed available for next year's planting.

"The moving waters are full of life and health; only in the stagnant waters is stagnation and death."
—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

This generalization on life is as true for our business, educational, and religious institutions, as it is for our fish-hatcheries, mountain streams and stagnant lakes. The faith that quickens the human spirit, the religion that is a challenge to action, the church that accepts the challenge of Christ and does something about it, these "are full of life and health." What is true of institutions is equally true of your life. As long as you keep physically, mentally, and spiritually active you are "full of life and health," but the inevitable consequence of allowing these vital "waters" of your life to become quiet and unused, "is stagnation and death."

We are closing our church year Sunday. Would not this be a good day to resolve that your personal religious life and the life of your church will be of a greater influence in your community and in your home during the next year? Clinch your resolution by coming to church and bringing your entire family.

10:00 a. m. Sunday school hour. The lesson is on "In Partnership With God." Have you invited anyone to come to Sunday school?

11:00 Morning worship. The sermon by the pastor, How long has it been since you have been to church? You have made all kinds of excuses to yourself, but will they satisfy your Father which art in heaven? Think it over!

7:45 p. m. Epworth League. The lesson is to be led by Madonna Adee. It is the second in a series on "Governing Ourselves." We had an interesting meeting last week—where were you? By the way, what do you think of young people who jump at the chance to go to any League social activity but are not good enough to put themselves out to come to League? In any other realm we would call them "spongers." What would you call them here? Think it over!
