INCREASE AT UNIVERSITY

With an 11 percent increase in enrollment, first semester classes started at the University of Nebraska Thursday morning. The official count Thursday morning was 5,066 students as compared with 4,551 at the start of classes last year and 3,836 in 1933. The official figure for Wednesday was 1,416.

About 1,200 additional students are expected to complete registration before a final figure is available. This number includes about 450 nurses and medical students at Omaha, graduate students, and stragglers.

The two day registration period just closed marked the heaviest volume of students ever handled in such a period. In addition to the 1,290 registration figure on Tuesday, an additional 212 registrations were held up for additional checking on Wednesday, making the total Wednesday figure 1,416. Last year three days were given over to registration, the figures being 875, 977 and 640 registrations respectively.

GEORGIA IS BEING LINED UP

Atlanta.—Three "R's"—Roosevelt, Russell and Rivers—were seen by political observers here as possible obstacles to the political ambitions of Governor Talmadge of Georgia, bitter critic of the new deal. The situation drew attention with the announcement that President Roosevelt plans to speak in Atlanta Thanksgiving week, the exact date to be announced later. Forecasters in Georgia say that if Talmadge enters the presidential preferential primary in this state he would find President Roosevelt already lined up in the race for Georgia delegates to the next national convention. Should the governor decide to run for the U. S. senate, his opponent would be Richard B. Russell, Jr., the incumbent. And if the governor seeks another term in his own office he would contest E. D. Rivers, speaker of the Georgia house.

Russell and Rivers, strong supporters of the president, issued statements expressing their delight at Mr. Roosevelt's forthcoming visit.

Congressman Luckey Honored by Friends

Gathering at Lincoln Pays Honor to Distinguished Representative from 1st District.

Congressman and Mrs. Henry C. Luckey were welcomed home to Nebraska Wednesday night by 250 neighbors, other friends and constituents who honored them at a dinner at the Lincoln hotel at Lincoln and heard an account of Representative Luckey's activities in what he described as "one of the most epoch making congressional sessions in history."

In support of his statement, the speaker pointed to such measures as the social security act, the neutrality act, public utility act of 1935, Tennessee valley act, farm mortgage and home mortgage relief acts, work relief bill, and amendments to the AAA. Mr. Luckey said he supported all of these measures.

"I believe the AAA to be the best program yet offered to assist the American farmer but a readjustment of our cotton program is imperative if we are to regain our world markets soon," he said.

Striking out against what he called "excessive expenditures," for the army, navy, Mr. Luckey said that while he favored an adequate defense, the United States and other countries are engaging in an armament race which cannot help but lead to catastrophe. He voted against bills to increase army and navy strength.

"I opposed the ship subsidy bill which I believe to be one of the biggest rackets carried on in the past twenty years. I hope this raid on the treasury will stop," Congressman Luckey told his audience.

He voted against the extension of the NRA after a questionnaire sent to business men and others in this district revealed the measure was unenforceable. The provision establishing the potato license and processing taxes was likewise opposed.

Mr. Luckey spoke of his own forty hour postal employes law which was passed by congress and another bill he sponsored which would have removed the postoffice from politics.

As for the constitution, the speaker said on that score he could see little issue and that the so-called challenge of the supreme court is an "illusory one." No member of congress would knowingly vote for a bill which he knew to be unconstitutional, he declared.

J. E. Lawrence introduced the speaker. Representatives McLaughlin and Binderup were unable to attend. Mayor and Mrs. Bryal were guests of honor at the affair which was arranged by a committee composed of the eleven democratic county chairmen in the first district. Headed by Clarence L. Clark of Lincoln, it included Charles Barth, Seward; Dr. A. P. Fitzsimmons, Tecumseh; Dr. M. Gilmore, David City; Elmer Hallstrom, Avoca; R. E. Harmon, Auburn; Dr. J. E. Leisbe, Beatrice; Frank H. Marnell, Nebraska City; Dr. A. E. Stuart, Cedar Bluffs, and W. M. Thompson, Pawnee City.

FATAL ACCIDENT IS STUDIED

Edison, Neb.—Dr. C. C. Copeland, Furnas county physician, Wednesday night said investigation into the death of Mrs. Gwendolyn Chapman, 25, of Beaver City, revealed no indications of any intentional violence.

Mrs. Chapman, riding in a gravel truck with Darrel Slonecker and Marshall Stump, both of Edison, was killed Tuesday as the truck plunged into a ditch near here. County authorities said relatives of Mrs. Chapman complained they suspected foul play.

Dr. Copeland said it was apparent the woman died as the result of a blood vessel in her neck being severed in the accident. There was nothing to indicate the truck was ditched intentionally, the investigator said. County Attorney D. Simmons said manslaughter charges will be filed against Slonecker and a hearing will be held in county court Friday morning. Mrs. Chapman was the mother of two daughters.

LEGS BROKEN BY CAR

Karnival Proves a Great Success in Every Way

Total Attendance for Four Days Estimated at Near 35,000—Saturday Crowd Large.

The fourth annual King Korn Carnival closed shop late Saturday night when a new record of attendance was set at 35,000 for the four days and the record crowd of 12,000 for Friday, the largest attendance of any of the days.

For the day Saturday there was a very large crowd of the residents from all parts of the county and the agricultural hall, the flower show, antiques and other exhibits were busy all days in the crowds going and coming.

The Saturday afternoon program opened with the well known Farmers' Union band of Louisville being heard in concert at the platform at 1 o'clock and which was followed by a short musical program given by Donald Cotner, saxophone, Billie Reddie, piano and Mildred Knofficek, violin.

The rural school parade was held early on Saturday afternoon and drew out a crowd of some 5,000 stretched along the line of the parade and to witness the feature floats. There were many very beautifully designed floats that were to be seen in the parade that represented much work on the part of the teachers, pupils and parents, all of the floats having their bevy of handsome and bright checked children costumed in keeping with their float. Several of the more elaborately decorated floats of the Friday merchants parade were used to give the visitors who had not been here Friday the opportunity of seeing these fine floats. Also the winners of the children day parade were in the line of march and received a fine ovation from the large crowd.

The Farmers' Union band, the American Legion drum corps and the "ho boe" band furnished the music for the parades. It was estimated that some 250 children were participating. The judges who inspected the parading floats awarded prizes to District No. 47, Selma Hill, teacher; District No. 45, Alice Wells, teacher and District No. 5, Lucille Wiles, teacher.

R. Foster Patterson, program director, resumed the entertainment at the platform following the parade with a large group of the younger artists of the county being presented in a fine array of varied numbers. Among those appearing were Ivan Smith and Theodore Smalley, David Robinson, in vocal and instrumental numbers and a fine group of young people who were in the audience and came forward to help entertain.

In the afternoon program a diversion was created when Chief of Police Libershal appeared at the platform and accompanied by Fred Sharpnack, one of the originators of the Whisker Club, handcuffed and followed by Judge C. L. Graves, armed with a pair of clippers and while the cries of the victim rang in the air, his honor proceeded to clip the beard so badly that the services of a barber were necessary.

The evening presented a musical program by the Lancaster orchestra of Murray as the prelude to the evening offering and which featured the cornet solo of Duane Harmon, Weeping Water, winner of first place in the mid west audition contests in Omaha recently. These numbers were beautifully given and the young artist will certainly have the wholehearted support of the residents of this section when he takes the air Wednesday as a feature of "Town Hall" at 7 o'clock.

The Louisville Farmers Union band under the direction of Will B. Green, of Lincoln, was heard in an hour's concert of the standard and popular numbers that proved one of the bright spots of the carnival.

The old timers closed the fourth annual carnival with a musical program and the old time dances staged on the paving between Fifth and Sixth streets and when the last strains died away the members wended their way homeward to await the 1936 King Korn Carnival.
