Improvements Being Made at Legion Building

Improved Stage, Partition of Assembly Room and Roof Repairs Now Being Completed.

In anticipation of an active season ahead, the American Legion has been making some extensive improvements to its community building since July 1st, when the government lease on quarters there expired. Included among the improvements has been re-installation of the stage, partitioning of the assembly room from the stage to the side walls, with two doors at each side, arrangement of the back-stage space into a recreation and club room for members, additional lighting, roof repair and a new ceiling in the kitchen, this latter work not yet being completed.

The object of partitioning off the back stage space from the main assembly room is to provide club room facilities for the members that may be heat at a minimum of expense.

Wall tables have been installed and other conveniences provided, and it will be possible to entirely shut this part of the building off from the large assembly room.

The work has been done largely by Legion members, who have spent a great deal of time on the job during the past ten days in order to get the hall ready for the opening dance to-night. In addition to this, they have cleaned out the coal and furnace rooms and the check room and have the building in as fine shape as at any time since it was first opened to the public eight years ago.

Election Tomorrow Night

The post will hold its annual election at the regular October meeting tomorrow night, with a Commander, two Vice Commanders and nine members of the Executive committee to be selected by ballot. In addition to these, there are numerous appointive officers to be named by the new Commander and the Finance Officer, who is elected by the new Executive committee from among its membership.

A feed is being arranged to follow the election and all members are urged to be present.
