TEMPERATURE TAKES DROP

From Friday's Daily

The temperature last night took a sudden drop to bring semi-winter to this section of the west. The mercury this morning showed 22 above zero and made the day one filled with snappiness but with clearing skies that made it very bright and cheerful after the gloomy weather of the past two days. The northwest part of the state reported snow flurries. The roads in this section that were well soaked with the rain of Wednesday night were frozen today and permitted travel from the sections where there is no paving and gravel, permitting the residents of the territory south and east of the city to get in for their week-end shopping without inconvenience.

STANDARD BEARERS PARTY

The Standard Bearers of the Methodist church gave a very pleasant Hallowe'en party at the parlors of the church on Monday evening. The parlors of the church were well decorated to give a spooky effect, while candles added to the effect of the scene. Rev. and Mrs. V. C. Wright arranged the program of the evening that proved most delightful. Mrs. Merritt S. Kerr, our leader, also added to the success of the arrangements and the preparation of the lunch. The serving was the close of the evening and a good time was had by all.

ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

Miss Dorothea Mae Duxbury was hostess on Friday evening to a group of the young friends at a very delightful Hallowe'en party. The home had been arranged appropriately for the occasion, the basement being transformed into a witches den where the fortune teller was stationed to tell the fortunes of the guests, while cats, ghosts and other spooky effects made the scene typical of the Hallowe'en legends. In the contest for the ghost stories Elizabeth Ann Wiles was the prize winner. At an appropriate hour refreshments were served by Mrs. A. H. Duxbury that added to the enjoyment of the jolly party. In entertaining Mrs. Duxbury was assisted by Miss Peggy Jane Wiles.

Cass county is one of the finest agricultural centers in the state. Improved farming conditions and better prices for farm products will react to the advantage of every town in this territory.

Grant C. Martin Dies at Home in Lincoln, Nebr.

Former Attorney General and Well Known in This City—Ill But a Few Days.

Grant G. Martin, prominent attorney for many years, died at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at his home in Lincoln after a few days' illness. He was stricken with internal hemorrhage several days ago.

Born in Boone, Ia., he came to Nebraska when he was a youth. His father was a Methodist minister, and for many years Mr. Martin had been prominent in the councils of that church. During his twenty-eight years of residence in Lincoln he was a member of St. Paul church, and active in a number of official capacities.

He was a college mate of W. T. Thompson, and when the latter became attorney general in 1907, Mr. Martin, then in the active practice of law at Fremont, was named as an assistant. A few months later, when W. B. Rose, deputy attorney general, was named to the supreme court, Mr. Martin became Mr. Thompson's deputy. In 1911 Mr. Martin was elected attorney general and served until 1915.

Immediately following his service in that office, he was appointed a member of the supreme court commission, serving in that capacity until 1919. Since then he has been engaged in the general practice of law in Lincoln. In 1921 he was a candidate for chief justice of the supreme court, losing by a few thousand votes to Andrew M. Morrissey, now deceased.

Mr. Martin was in charge of a number of important pieces of litigation during his terms in the office of attorney general, his entrance into the office being coincident with the triumph of the progressive element of the republican party, and he was connected with much of the important legislation enacted to carry out pledges of the victorious element in that political organization.

ENTERTAINS CLASS

Thursday evening Miss Janet Westover was hostess at a most charming Hallowe'en party at her home on high school hill and at which were present the girls of the freshman class of the high school to join in the happy event.

The home had been arranged in the Hallowe'en setting with witches, cats and ghosts to add their touch to the atmosphere of the occasion and which made a very appropriate setting for the party.

The evening was spent in games of the season that had been arranged and carried out in a clever manner that brought a great deal of enjoyment to all of the jolly party.

The prize winners in the games were Nora McCarroll, Maxine Nielsen and Joan Hall.

At a suitable hour dainty refreshments were served by Dorothy Jean Turner and Ruth Westover to aid in the completion of an evening of the rarest delight.

DEATH OF G. B. MATHES

The death of G. B. Mathes, 78, occurred Wednesday night at 10 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. B. C. Rakow, with whom he has made his home for the past ten years. Mr. Mathes was born in Morristown, Tennessee, later coming north and locating in Iowa where he made his home prior to coming to this city to reside with the daughter and family. He was a gentleman very highly esteemed by those who had the privilege of his acquaintance and who share with the family the sorrow that his passing has occasioned.

The wife preceded him in death in 1907 as well as one son, the family at that time residing near Riverton, Iowa. There is surviving, the daughter here as well as one brother who resides in Morristown, Tennessee.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday at 1 o'clock at the Sattler funeral home at Fourth and Vine streets and the body be taken to Riverton, Iowa, for interment in the family lot in the cemetery there.

20 More States to Lose Federal Dole on Nov. 15

Hopkins and Ickes Attack Hugh S. Johnson, Governors Landon and Talmadge.

Blunt-spoken Harry L. Hopkins lashed out at administration critics as he announced the federal dole for relief will end in twenty more states Nov. 15, in a statement at Washington.

Grimly asserting that "my own hide has grown considerably tougher" in recent months, the works progress administrator told his press conference: "That the assertion of Gen. Hugh Johnson that the work relief program is a failure was 'a lot of x x x damn nonsense.'"

That Governor Landon of Kansas has balanced his state budget by "taking it out of the hides of the people;" that Kansas has "never put up a thin dime for relief."

Slams at Talmadge. That Governor Talmadge of Georgia was "unwilling to do anything. He believes in the whipping post."

Mingled with these sharp personalities, and Secretary Ickes' earlier denunciation of Johnson as one who suffered from "mental saddle sores" and who criticized the public works administration because he wasn't put in charge of it, were these concrete work relief developments:

Hopkins allotted funds to thirty-nine states for continuing the dole during November—with six already cut off direct relief, while allotments to three others including Kansas remained undetermined—but gave twenty only enough to carry them until the Nov. 15 deadline for liquidating their relief administrations.

Warn Power Companies. Ickes and Hopkins joined in warning power companies that they cannot force cancellation of PWA municipal power projects by tying them up in the courts until after the Dec. 15 deadline.

Observing that he now has enough money to put $3,500,000 persons to work, Hopkins warned at his conference that after Dec. 1 there would be no federal help even for states lacking funds to support unemployables. He then charged that both Landon and Talmadge had defeated attempts to provide state funds for the care of unemployables.

THE QUACK, QUACK, QUACK

There came a quack, quack, quack, from a farm yard fowl,

One morning at the first glint of day,

It was caused by the appearance of an old hoot owl,

Perched on a stack of newly mown hay,

The feathered tribes soon became aware

That an intruder had entered their place,

Then bedlam broke loose when they saw him stare,

Looking them squarely in the face.

The owner of the farm yard seized his gun

As the owl took the hint that he had better run,

For the quack, quack, quack saw danger ahead,

And spoiled for the owl his wanted spread.

To those alert when danger appears

For the quack, quack, quack is always on guard,

Who's ear is tuned in from the sense of fear,

Will catch the notes from the lyar of the ancient bard.

Today when the spools system would seem to be o'er,

And greed, intrigue, and fear rule the day,

There are those who live sumptuously in fine linen and clover,

While others on crumbs gathered on the great highway.

The quack, quack, quack has a deadening sound

To those who may be constantly milling around,

To see the more spiritual side should be taught in our schools,

And not so many so-called material rules.

The political parties never heard the quack,

Until our people were distressed with a great sense of lack,

When the spirit of right forces them into line,

It will end all wars and depressions and free mankind.

It is strange when you voice such an extravagant thought,

You are ranked as one much out of tune,

It seems far-fetched and considered as naught,

But the quack, will quack, and that very soon.

—J. R. Tremble.

Teachers' Conventions Drew Large Number

This Year's Sessions Are Record Breakers for the Past Four Years, Reports Show.

The six district conventions of the Nebraska State Teachers' Association this year drew the largest attendance in four years. Executive Secretary Charles A. Bowers reported today upon receipt of complete returns from all conference centers. With 11,265 teachers attending the 1935 meetings, the total is approximately 600 above that of last year. This convention-attendance number represents 97 per cent of the association membership, which to date has reached 11,611—the largest in three years.

"At all of the conventions, and throughout the state," Mr. Bowers indicated, "there is evident a greater determination to develop the schools in keeping with the urgent needs of the times and to aid in finding the solutions for the many pressing educational problems, and a greater interest in professional activities where by the improvements are effected. There was a better spirit, a spirit of 'recovery bound' at all of the conclaves."

"The steadily increasing enrollment in Nebraska's professional organization for teachers, during the past three years, is evidence of this greater concern about the larger problems of education on the part of the teachers of our state," Secretary Bowers commented.

The association headquarters office reported convention attendance at the several centers as follows: District 1, Lincoln, 3,700; District 2, Omaha, 3,013; District 3, Norfolk, 1,100; District 4, Hastings, 1,655; District 5, Holdrege, 755; and District 6, Sidney, 1,042.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Friday evening Mrs. W. H. Schmidtman, Jr., entertained at a charming dinner party which marked the observance of the thirty-sixth birthday of Mr. Schmidtman.

The home was tastefully arranged for the dinner and enjoyed by the members of the family group and who spent several hours most delightfully together and in showering the guest of honor with well wishes. Those who enjoyed the event were Mr. and Mrs. William Schmidtman, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Goos and Harriett, Dr. and Mrs. Carl F. Schmidtman and Dr. and Mrs. George Schmidtman of Omaha.

HENRY FONDA IS RECOVERING

Hollywood.—Henry Fonda, film star, was recovering from monoxide gas poisoning after being rescued nearly unconscious from a tume-filled garage on location at Big Bear lake. The actor sat down to listen to his automobile radio while the motor warmer up. An assistant director, Richard Talmadge, found him slumped in the car seat, almost overcome by exhaust fumes.

Fonda and a Walter Wagner company were filming "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" among the pines of the San Bernardino mountain resort.
