Declares 33 Per Cent Doing All the Work

Regent O. J. Hagen From the University of Minnesota Says More Thinking Now.

Thirty-three and one-third of the people of this country are carrying the burden of its work, declared Dr. O. J. Hagen of Moorhead, Minn., regent from the University of Minnesota, at the Friday afternoon session of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities at the agricultural college. The 60 year old physician made a report on his experiences during his return to classes at the University of Minnesota last summer, thirty years after graduation as an M. D.

"This is the story of a bad boy who stole back to school in his second childhood," he said. He declared he believed the percentage of people in this country who think has increased, since last year, from 5 to 10 percent. Speaking of the aftermath of his experiment as a student of international relations, chemistry of radio activity, and pathology, Doctor Hagen said, "I came away convinced that our universities and allied institutions could multiply their usefulness in the state by stimulating its citizenship to make more general use of this vast reservoir."

As a result of discussion Thursday and Friday, a committee from association will collaborate with the National Association of University presidents on a proposal plan of co-operation, within districts, of various state universities. Possibility of specialization of certain universities in certain fields will be attacked in the near future, and joint reports will be read at the next annual session of both groups. D. W. Springer of Washington, D. C., secretary of the Association of Governing Boards, said a conference on the question of what may be done to increase regional institutional co-operation will be held. The plan is still in its early formative period, he pointed out, so that no change in the system can be expected for at least two or three years. During the morning session Friday at the Cornhusker, M. M. Chambers of Brookings Institution, Washington, D. C., discussed various legal cases related to universities and university problems. He cited cases in such fields as tax exemption, educational trusts, scholarships, professional registration. He drew no conclusions, but simply stated the cases and decisions.

S. J. Galvin of Iowa university spoke on soil erosion and methods of conservation. He stressed the importance of scientific working of soils and of increased education of farmers. Speaking on "Schools and Leisure Time," Charles F. Ward of the University of Missouri emphasized the fact that people need education just as much to learn how to use leisure time as to learn how to make a living. Secretary Springer discussed "Investment Values Under Present Trends," pointing out that the burden due to lowering of interest rates on investments has come to the state institutions in a roundabout way. Privately endowed universities receive the brunt of the lower interest rates because of the amount and nature of their investments. It follows, Springer declared, that when such institutions fail, the students who would ordinarily patronize them attend instead the state universities.

State Corn Crop Average is Set at 14 Bushels

Estimated Total Production 120,568,000 Bushels or Six Times Last Year's Crop.

State and Federal Agricultural Statistician Anderson estimated the 1935 Nebraska corn crop at 120,568,000 bushels. This compares with 21,363,000 in 1934. He estimated the average 1935 yield at fourteen bushels an acre.

The potato crop, Anderson said, was somewhat better than expected. Corn quality on Nov. 1 was poor due to a high moisture content and injury from freezing before maturity.

"The quality of corn is poor because of injury from drought last summer and from freezing before maturity. Corn was late and half of it was planted after June 1 and much of it did not mature," the statistician said.

"The moisture content is high and owing to injury from freezing, corn is not drying out in the normal manner. New corn that is shelled and marketed is heating and some trouble is being experienced with cribbed corn due to high moisture content."

Reports of major crops: Corn—120,568,000 bushels, against 21,363,000 bushels last year and a five-year average of 225,053,000 bushels.

Potatoes—8,970,000 bushels against 3,450,000 bushels last year and a five year average of 9,159,000 bushels. Average yield: 69 bushels.

Grain sorghum—3,550,000 bushels against 148,000 bushels last year and a five year average of 277,000 bushels.

Flax—16,000 bushels against a failure last year and a five year average of 81,000 bushels.

Beans—176,000 bags against 68,000 bags last year and a five year average of 64,000 bags.

Sugar beets—578,000 tons against 549,000 tons last year and a five year average of 996,000 tons. Average yield: 11.8 tons.

Apples—550,000 bushels against 209,000 bushels last year and a five year average of 491,000 bushels.

Pears—44,000 bushels against 20,000 bushels last year and a five year average of 35,000 bushels.

Grapes—2,584 tons against 1,216 tons last year and a five year average of 2,616 tons.

ROCKPORT HERE FRIDAY

The football fans will have the opportunity of seeing the Platters in action on Friday on the local gridiron with Rockport, Missouri, high school gridsters as their foes. The Platters came through the Tecumseh game with no serious injuries and should be in excellent shape to face the invaders from the "Show Me" state.

Rockport has had a very good season in their competition in north-west Missouri and should give the Platters a busy afternoon.

The game Friday will be one of the last two of the season as the close of the gridiron story for 1935 will be on Friday, November 22, when the Nebraska City high team comes here for the final game of the year and the renewal of the ancient rivalry that has been seen for a great many seasons. Nebraska City has been on the Plattsmouth schedule for more years than any of their rivals and usually gives one of the best contests of the year.

Accident Near Union Results in Three Men Being Taken to the Nebraska City Hospital.

Three young men, Paul Applegate of Union, Harry McCarroll, who has been engaged in working in this city and Fred Clark of Elkhorn, are at the St. Mary's hospital at Nebraska City, suffering from injuries sustained in an auto accident which occurred last Sunday night on highway No. 75 near Union.

McCarroll is the most seriously injured of the three. He is suffering a head injury and a compound fracture of the right wrist. He had not regained consciousness late Monday.

Applegate sustained a compound fracture of the left arm, an injured shoulder and a bruise on the left side of his face.

Fred Clark suffered a scalp injury and a probable fracture of a vertebra.

Applegate said Monday at Nebraska City, according to the News-Press, that the three with Ralph Davis of Union had been in Omaha during the day and were on their way to Union when the accident occurred. Clark was driving the car and when he turned out to pass another car going in the same direction he lost control of the machine on the wet pavement. The car swerved and overturned catching them under the machine. Davis sustained a fractured arm and was taken to Union for treatment, and a passing motorist brought the three others to the Nebraska City hospital.

Applegate said they were traveling at a good rate of speed at the time of the accident. The car was badly damaged, he said.

SOME surprising new discoveries have been made recently about what it takes to start a cold automobile engine—start it and warm it up to full, smooth drive-away power faster.

For many years Standard's research staff has been at work on this problem. Not satisfied with laboratory experiment alone, they have conducted thousands of road tests—in all sorts of temperatures—using all sorts of gasoline formulas.

And now they come forward with a motor fuel that is different, in many respects, from any that ever went into a gasoline tank before—a motor fuel which embodies all these newly discovered principles—which really is quick starting without the drawbacks that so often go with that quality.

This new Standard Red Crown starts at the first flash of the spark. But on top of that it has fully 35% faster warm-up speed in zero temperatures. Actually it will get your car started and under way as quickly and easily in mid-winter as in mid-summer. You'll be free from vapor lock. You'll get better winter mileage. Try it!

It's ready in the pumps now—look for the STANDARD sign!
