authoress, Mrs. Bess Streeter Aldrich, "Spring Came on Forever."

Marbles—but Spring Not Yet

A young lad of Murray called to us on the street and said the boys were playing marbles, which, generally speaking, is a sign that spring is about here. We are of the opinion, however, that this is one time when the signs are due to fail, for according to the calendar winter has not yet officially begun. All will be well pleased to welcome spring when it is finally due to arrive, and in the meantime, we should be pretty well pleased with the kind of weather the weather man has been dishing out for us during the past month.

Gave Delightful Program
